Harry L. Washburn Of Houston, With Accomplice Named

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Feb. 12—UP—A grand jury indicted Harry L. Washburn, 38, and Andrew H. Nelson, 45, a burglar and ex-convict, Saturday on charges of murdering Washburn's rich, former mother-in-law with a bomb ingeniously hooked to the electrical system of her automobile.

The ex-mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Harris Weaver, 52, was horribly mutilated on Jan. 19 by the bomb when she started her automobile to go to a beauty parlor. Chunks of the automobile were thrown half a block by the blast.

But the indictments, handed up to 51st District Judge Joe L. Mays, said Washburn and Nelson were not after Mrs. Weaver at all, but wanted to kill her husband, 67-year-old Harry L. Weaver. The jury returned the indictments after questioning 45 witnesses Thursday and Friday.

Washburn refused to say anything at first when he was asked what he thought about his and Nelson's being indicted. Then he said: "The guilty man is still out. They haven't got the right man yet." He would not say who the "right man" is.

In essence, the indictments charged that Nelson bought dynamite and detonators for Washburn and showed him how to make a bomb and hook it to the electrical system of an automobile so the first person who tried to drive the car off would be blown up.

Both Washburn and Nelson are from Houston, where Nelson has a long record. Nelson told Houston police that a practice bomb he helped Washburn with was hooked to the generator of a car so the engine would have to be accelerated to generate enough electricity to set the bomb off.

The idea was to insure that the intended victim was seated squarely behind the bomb with the door closed, since he normally would not accelerate the engine of the car until he was ready to drive

New Cold Wave Heading South, Toward Dixie

By UNITED PRESS

The worst cold wave of the winter hung over much of the nation Saturday, sending temperatures below freezing in the South, and forecasters said another big blow was on the way.

The third of a series of cold waves from Canada hit the Western Plains Friday night, scooting temperatures to as low as 28 below in North Dakota. It appeared to be headed for Dixie.

Fires that killed at least 31 persons sent more than 300 others into the bitter cold.

A fire in a skid row hotel in Chicago killed 23 men and drove 250 others into sub-zero cold early Saturday. At Milwaukee, a fire in an apartment building and another in a rooming house sent a total of 50 persons into the cold. Ten children aged 2 to 13 were led from a burning house in Indianapolis.

Winter held a firm grip on the entire nation east of the Continental Divide. Chicagoans prepared for their third night of below-zero temperatures. A local snow storm left an accumulation of 10 inches in South Bend, Ind.

Late Saturday the freezing line extended from the North Carolina coast southwestward through central Alabama and Mississippi then northwest to the Oklahoma Panhandle, across the Rockies and around most of Utah and Idaho. It was still below zero in the eastern Dakotas and most of Minnesota and western Iowa.

But in Los Angeles it was near 70.

There was snow on the ground at Nashville, Tenn., and Washington, D.C., and it piled up eight inches deep at Lebanon, Va.

U. S. Rules Out Swap Of Islands For Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The United States has told Britain that it is out of the question to surrender any Nationalist-held coastal islands to the Chinese Communists merely in the hope of inducing the Reds to stop fighting.

ENVOY TO SPAIN—John Davis Lodge, above, former Governor of Connecticut, has been nominated by President Eisenhower to be Ambassador to Spain.

Britain has officially advised the United States of its view that all the coastal islands—including the Quemoys and Matsus—belong to Red China, although the Reds should not fight to get them.

Some U.S. officials fear this notification was the beginning of British pressure to get the United States to induce Nationalist China to turn more and more of the islands over to the Reds.

U.S. policy does not, in fact, rule out the possibility some day of a settlement which would let the coastal islands go to the Communists in return for a firm Communist agreement recognizing a non-Communist status for Formosa. But any such deal now appears to be a long way in the future and officials said that, so long as the Peiping government continues to assert its intention to capture Formosa, the United States considers Quemoy, the Matsus and perhaps other offshore islands to be strategically important for Formosa's defense.

Some days ago Premier Chou En-lai of Red China was reported in dispatches from London to have let it be known that while he would not negotiate a formal cease-fire, he would accept one if the Chinese Nationalists would get out of all the coastal islands.

U. S. officials said privately that under this proposal the free world would be "appeasing" Chou while he retained without check his announced designs on Formosa.

Differences between London and Washington over the Quemoy-Matsu line become potentially more significant now that the evacuation of the Tachen Islands far to the north has been completed. A new period in the Formosa crisis, concentrated on diplomatic efforts for peace, is opening up and agreement between the United States and Britain—the maintenance of a cooperative if not solid front on major Formosa questions — will prove more important than in the recent past.

Bearing on the development of the new diplomatic phase were these developments today:

1. Russia disclosed a proposal for a 10-nation conference to be held at Shanghai or New Delhi on the Formosa question. Informants here said the United States and Britain had agreed that the meeting would be unproductive because Nationalist China was not included. The proposal was turned down although the door to further consideration of a conference was left open.

2. The Air Force said that a squadron of F86 jet fighter planes of the 18th Fighter Wing will be left on Formosa after two other squadrons are withdrawn. The fighters went to the island as protection during the potentially dangerous Tachens operation. The 25-plane squadron will stay there indefinitely to see whether the Communists start trouble.

3. Vice Adm. Robert B. Briscoe, deputy chief of naval operations, announced that the big ships of the 7th Fleet will all go back to

Maid Confesses Ax Slaying Of Wealthy Woman

Booked on suspicion of murdering Mrs. Katie Hayden, 71, last Wednesday, is Mrs. Peggy King, 25, employed just three days before the killing.

The maid first told officers she was vacuuming in another room when Mrs. Hayden was fatally hacked in the kitchen of her $200,000 home. Yesterday Mrs. King submitted to a lie detector test. She showed reaction, police said, when asked:

"Can you identify the killer?"

There was another reaction when she was asked if she was afraid because "you know who did it."

Following the test she underwent further questioning, officers continued, and at first tried to place the blame on a yard worker. Finally, Capt. Robert Huff and sheriff's Sgt. Ray Hopkinson reported she told them:

"I'm glad to get it off my chest. I'd gotten the ax to cut the bone in the roast. We argued over how to do it. While we were arguing, Mrs. Hayden took the ax from me and

10-Store Shopping Center Is Planned For West Monroe

Plans for construction of a $250,000 shopping center at Cypress, Trenton and Crosley streets in West Monroe are moving forward rapidly, according to Quinton and J. W. McLemore, Jr., owners of the land.

Bogged down for some time in a dispute over an alley right-of-way on the block where the proposed shopping center is to be built, the outlook for the project brightened last week with a settlement of the controversy.

By agreement with the parish police jury, the Vernon to Crosley street alley which halves the McLemore land will not turn at the edge of the brothers' land and will eject onto Cypress street. The police jury, which owns the land around the Ouachita Parish Agriculture building there, will donate half the land for the alley and the McLemore brothers the other half.

Saturday, the McLemores said this move will allow them to go ahead with plans for the center, and destruction of the buildings now on their land — including the big bakery building there — will begin Monday.

Preliminary plans for the 10 store buildings scheduled to be erected on the property are being drawn up by a Monroe architect, the McLemores said, and negotiations are underway to lease the buildings to the various types of business scheduled to be included in the center.

Quinton McLemore, who will operate the shopping center, said Saturday it was hoped that construction would be completed by fall, but that it will depend on the outcome of negotiations for the leasing of the building.

He said he hopes to be able to "make a much more definite statement" at the end of this week on when construction will get underway. The McLemore brothers, long-time Winnsboro grocerymen, paid $90,000 for the West Monroe property on Sept. 10, 1954, and said at the time that the shopping center would probably cost about $250,000.

3 Ships Missing In Stormy Gulf

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12 (AP)—Gulf ports today counted three ships missing and two known to have been saved in an unpredicted storm that has whipped the Gulf of Mexico for two days.

Tampico was missing three ships, each with about six men aboard. Two were fishing boats surprised at sea and the third a coastal freighter. They were the Maria Christina and Alejandra, the fishing boats, and an unidentified freighter last seen making heavy weather in the high seas.

A commercial airline plane found the missing Benito Fernandez of Vera Cruz aground on a sand bar 18 miles west of Ciudad Carmen. The 250-foot coastal freighter had 15 men aboard. The airliner said there was only one man on deck and that he waved at the plane.

Red 'Invasion' Fleet Reported Close to Matsu

U. S. Admiral Says Junks Being Used Merely In Fishing

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sunday, Feb. 13—UP—A new Red invasion fleet was reported massing near Matsu Island Sunday within hours after the evacuation of the Techen Islands. The reports indicated the Chinese Communists may plan to test the United States' readiness to fight for the strategic off-shore islands.

Nationalist sources said Communist gunboats, motorized junks and other invasion craft were concentrated in the past 48 hours near Matsu, 150 miles south of the Tachens, which were evacuated to the Reds under cover of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

In Washington Vice Admiral Robert P. Briscoe said that "from all indications and reconnaissance reports the sighted Chinese junks are engaged in fishing." He conceded junks were used by the Reds for troop movements, but said "it's hard to hide troops on a junk" and that no troops had been sighted in the area.

He said the Tachen evacuation "turned out to be an entirely routine operation" and that 28,500 Nationalist soldiers and civilians along with 40,000 tons of military equipment were removed from the island.

High military officials in Washington said that the Communists probably will continue trying to make trouble in Formosa Strait with probing attacks, but they doubted the Reds would try to capture Matsu or Quemoy in the immediate future.

Matsu and Quemoy Island, 150 miles still farther south, now are the key island outposts for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces guarding the approaches to Formosa.

Nationalist sources said that with Tachen evacuated the Communists probably will "probe" Matsu, Quemoy an Nanchishan to see where the United States stands in backing the new Chiang defense line.

The Communists were expected to follow the pattern they set

R. G. (Bob) Harmon, well known sportsman, farmer, and oil producer, has just returned from one of these outings he so greatly enjoys. This time he had E. T. Powell of Monroe and a man named Banks from Columbia. Headed for the west coast, their objective was the annual convention of the national soil conservation group meeting in San Diego. The men, however, saw more of the country than of the soil meeting.

"If I opened up and told what we saw and did, the church would put us out," Bob declared.

The men drove to the scene of operations of the Phelps copper mines in Arizona, which they said seems to be a straight up in the air operation. Like Eureka Springs in Arkansas, one man's front yard is the back yard of his neighbor.

They encountered tremendous flocks of sheep. In inquiring the number, they were told that there were "eight or ten acres" of 'em. They saw the Salton sea more than 200 feet below sea level. Some of the very choice farms were in the pink of perfection through irrigation while nearby there was land, unirrigated, that was little better than waste areas.

Ike Leads Republicans In Solemn Observance Of Abe Lincoln's Birthday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—UP—Republicans led by President Eisenhower paid tribute to Abraham Lincoln Saturday at wreath-laying ceremonies, banquets and political conclaves throughout the nation.

The 146th birthday of the beloved Civil War President was celebrated with an hour-long ceremony at the snow-capped Lincoln Memorial here at which the 80-voice choir of Philadelphia's fellowship house sang a cantata. "I Am the People," written by Lincoln's biographer, Carl Sandburg. Maj. Gen. John H. Stokes, commanding officer of the Washington military district, placed a wreath at the memorial on behalf of the President.

Mr. Eisenhower himself, on a weekend hunting trip to Thomasville, Ga., issued a statement urging Republicans to live up to Lincoln's standards.

"The greatness of the Republican party is, and will be, measured by the intensity of its devotion to the faith of Lincoln," he said.

Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.), speaking before a Republican town committee dinner at Manchester, Conn., compared Mr. Eisenhower to Lincoln. He said "the Republican party can be eternally proud that in two times of crisis in the history of our nation it gave America two presidents of the stature of Abraham Lincoln and Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Chicago had two big Lincoln Day meetings in the same hotel. One, sponsored by the regular state Republican organization, had Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell as the principal speaker. The other, organized by a group called the Abraham Lincoln National Republican Club, featured speeches by Sens. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), George W. Malone (R-Nev.) and Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah.

While every speech began with tributes to Lincoln, many of the orators hastened on to other matters.

Bradshaw Mintener, assistant secretary of health, education and welfare, appealed in a speech at Rochester, Minn., for public support of President Eisenhower's controversial health reinsurance plan.

Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.), in a speech prepared for a Kewanna, Ind., Republican rally, charged that "the fair deal's 'old guard' will miss no chance to keep their power and make the Republican leaders an instrument of their ambition, as they made the Democratic party their cat's paw in the thirties and forties."

At Somerville, N.J., Sen. Frederick G. Payne (R-Me.) urged the renomination and reelection of Mr. Eisenhower in 1956. He predicted the President would run again. "The only guarantee we have of continued progress is to urge Dwight Eisenhower to carry our cause to victory again in 1956," Payne said. "Because of his deep devotion to duty, I am certain the President will respond favorably."

Fair And Warmer Due For Region

Generally fair weather and warmer temperatures are due for the Twin Cities area today and Monday, according to the federal forecaster.

Fire Spread By Panic-Stricken 'Human Torch'

CHICAGO, Feb. 12 (AP)—Fire, believed started by a panic-stricken human torch, sped through a crowded Skid Row Hotel during subzero cold early today killing at least 25 men. Fifteen others, including two firemen, were injured.

Most of the victims were derelicts or transients. Starting at 2 a.m. the blaze caught most of the hotel's 245 roomers asleep in their tiny cubicle rooms separated by corrugated iron walls and covered with mesh chicken wire.

Some survivors jumped three stories onto concrete and were injured. One man, caught in the nude in -1 degree cold, slid two stories down a rope used to lower garbage to the alley. Others ran into the street without shoes or socks or were carried down ladders by firemen.

Tony Dykes, maintenance man and waker-upper in the dilapidated hotel at 644-47 W. Madison St., a few blocks west of the Loop, said the fire evidently started from a human torch.

He said he was making his rounds on the first floor and saw Joe Armatzo, 67, a pensioner, lunge screaming from his second floor cubicle, his body clothed in blue flames.

Hotel officials said Armatzo, one of the fire dead, habitually used rubbing alcohol.

Night clerk C. W. Harvey heard Dykes' shouts and rushed to help. Occupants in nearby rooms came out and tried to beat out the flames.

But the blaze spread out of control and the hotel lights went out. Harvey said he groped his way to an alarm box but got no response, then dialed the fire department by telephone.

Army Is Testing Guided Missiles In North Canada

The tests are "to determine the effects of extreme low temperatures on the complex component parts of the Nike weapons system," but an Army spokesman refused to give any details on what may have been learned in the first arctic firings.

The Army first announced last year that the tests would be held. They are being carried out by Canadian army personnel trained at the U.S. Army Guided Missiles Center, Ft. Bliss, Tex., and by a small number of U.S. Army technicians.

Opening Parade Scheduled For Today

Million Visitors To See Big Mardi Gras Festival

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12 —UP—The grinning masks of costumed figures, waving from 16 flower-bedecked floats, opens the multi-million dollar Mardi Gras parade season Sunday, the 128th in this fun-loving city's history.

The Krewe of Okeanos, one of the numerous secret organizations dedicated to carnival merriment, will touch off the giant celebration that annually lifts this parade-loving city into a madcap frenzy.

The parade, starting at 2 p.m., will move down famed Canal Street decorated with the traditional carnival colors of purple, green and gold.

Mardi Gras Day this year falls on Tuesday, Feb. 22. Between then and now, more than 1 million fun-seekers are expected to jam the Crescent City.

"We are sealed over," said Rodney Baker, assistant general manager of the Jung Hotel. "We've been sold out for a month and the situation is desperate."

Baker said the Jung has booked groups of persons, averaging about 500 in a block, from all sections of the country, including Florida, California, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City.

The Monteleone hotel also reported that it was "booked to capacity."

"We have reservations from Anchorage, Alaska, and several from England," said the reservation clerk.

Tourists were given a ray of hope by the Roosevelt hotel.

"We've made a big expansion and still have a few rooms left," said a Roosevelt spokesman, "but they are going fast."

Hotel rates run from $14 to $20 a day for Mardi Gras at most of the hotels. The latecomer, however will find rents zooming as the market narrows.

The 1,000-man New Orleans police force went on a 24-hour alert at midnight Saturday night.

"All furloughs have been cancelled and nobody will get any time off except for emergencies," said Capt. Al Theriot. "We figure on more than a million people in New Orleans for Mardi Gras, and

There was another reaction when she was asked if she was afraid because "you know who did it."

Following the test she underwent further questioning, officers continued, and at first tried to place the blame on a yard worker. Finally, Capt. Robert Huff and sheriff's Sgt. Ray Hopkinson reported she told them:

"I'm glad to get it off my chest. I'd gotten the ax to cut the bone in the roast. We argued over how to do it. While we were arguing, Mrs. Hayden took the ax from me and

Opening Parade Scheduled For Today

Million Visitors To See Big Mardi Gras Festival

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12 —UP— The grinning masks of costumed figures, waving from 16 flower-bedecked floats, opens the multi-million dollar Mardi Gras parade season Sunday, the 128th in this fun-loving city's history.

The Krewe of Okeanos, one of the numerous secret organizations dedicated to carnival merriment, will touch off the giant celebration that annually lifts this parade-loving city into a madcap frenzy.

The parade, starting at 2 p.m., will move down famed Canal Street decorated with the traditional carnival colors of purple, green and gold.

Mardi Gras Day this year falls on Tuesday, Feb. 22. Between then and now, more than 1 million funseekers are expected to jam the Crescent City.

"We are sealed over," said Rodney Baker, assistant general manager of the Jung Hotel. "We've been sold out for a month and the situation is desperate."

Baker said the Jung has booked groups of persons, averaging about 500 in a block, from all sections of the country, including Florida, California, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City.

The Monteleone hotel also reported that it was "booked to capacity."

"We have reservations from Anchorage, Alaska, and several from England," said the reservation clerk.

Tourists were given a ray of hope by the Roosevelt hotel.

"We've made a big expansion and still have a few rooms left," said a Roosevelt spokesman, "but they are going fast."

Hotel rates run from $14 to $20 a day for Mardi Gras at most of the hotels. The latecomer, however will find rents zooming as the market narrows.

The 1,000 - man New Orleans police force went on a 24-hour alert at midnight Saturday night.

"All furloughs have been cancelled and nobody will get any time off except for emergencies," said Capt. Al Theriot. "We figure on more than a million people in New Orleans for Mardi Gras, and

Plans for construction of a $250,000 shopping center at Cypress, Trenton and Crosley streets in West Monroe are moving forward rapidly, according to Quinton and J. W. McLemore, Jr., owners of the land.

Bogged down for some time in a dispute over an alley right-of-way on the block where the proposed shopping center is to be built, the outlook for the project brightened last week with a settlement of the controversy.

By agreement with the parish police jury, the Vernon to Crosley street alley which halves the McLemore land will not turn at the edge of the brothers' land and will eject onto Cypress street. The police jury, which owns the land around the Ouachita Parish Agriculture building there, will donate half the land for the alley and the McLemore brothers the other half.

Saturday, the McLemores said this move will allow them to go ahead with plans for the center, and destruction of the buildings now on their land — including the big bakery building there — will begin Monday.

Preliminary plans for the 10 store buildings scheduled to be erected on the property are being drawn up by a Monroe architect, the McLemores said, and negotiations are underway to lease the buildings to the various types of business scheduled to be included in the center.

Quinton McLemore, who will operate the shopping center, said Saturday it was hoped that construction would be completed by fall, but that it will depend on the outcome of negotiations for the leasing of the building.

He said he hopes to be able to "make a much more definite statement" at the end of this week on when construction will get underway. The McLemore brothers, long - time Winnsboro grocerymen, paid $90,000 for the West Monroe property on Sept. 10, 1954, and said at the time that the shopping center would probably cost about $250,000.

3 Ships Missing In Stormy Gulf

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12 (AP) — Gulf ports today counted three ships missing and two known to have been saved in an unpredicted storm that has whipped the Gulf of Mexico for two days.

Tampico was missing three ships, each with about six men aboard. Two were fishing boats surprised at sea and the third a coastal freighter. They were the Maria Christina and Alejandra, the fishing boats, and an unidentified freighter last seen making heavy weather in the high seas.

A commercial airline plane found the missing Benito Fernandez of Vera Cruz aground on a sand bar 18 miles west of Ciudad Carmen. The 250-foot coastal freighter had 15 men aboard. The airliner said there was only one man on deck and that he waved at the plane.

U. S. Admiral Says Junks Being Used Merely In Fishing

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sunday, Feb. 13—UP—A new Red invasion fleet was reported massing near Matsu Island Sunday within hours after the evacuation of the Techen Islands. The reports indicated the Chinese Communists may plan to test the United States' readiness to fight for the strategic off-shore islands.

Nationalist sources said Communist gunboats, motorized junks and other invasion craft were concentrated in the past 48 hours near Matsu, 150 miles south of the Tachens, which were evacuated to the Reds under cover of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

In Washington Vice Admiral Robert P. Briscoe said that "from all indications and reconnaissance reports the sighted Chinese junks are engaged in fishing." He conceded junks were used by the Reds for troop movements, but said "it's hard to hide troops on a junk" and that no troops had been sighted in the area.

He said the Tachen evacuation "turned out to be an entirely routine operation" and that 28,500 Nationalist soldiers and civilians along with 40,000 tons of military equipment were removed from the island.

High military officials in Washington said that the Communists probably will continue trying to make trouble in Formosa Strait with probing attacks, but they doubted the Reds would try to capture Matsu or Quemoy in the immediate future.

Matsu and Quemoy Island, 150 miles still farther south, now are the key island outposts for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces guarding the approaches to Formosa.

Nationalist sources said that with Tachen evacuated the Communists probably will "probe" Matsu, Quemoy an Nanchishan to see where the United States stands in backing the new Chiang defense line.

The Communists were expected to follow the pattern they set

Jes' Ramblin'

R. G. (Bob) Harmon, well known sportsman, farmer, and oil producer, has just returned from one of these outings he so greatly enjoys. This time he had E. T. Powell of Monroe and a man named Banks from Columbia. Headed for the west coast, their objective was the annual convention of the national soil conservation group meeting in San Diego. The men, however, saw more of the country than of the soil meeting.

"If I opened up and told what we saw and did, the church would put us out," Bob declared.

The men drove to the scene of operations of the Phelps copper mines in Arizona, which they said seems to be a straight up in the air operation. Like Eureka Springs in Arkansas, one man's front yard is the back yard of his neighbor.

They encountered tremendous flocks of sheep. In inquiring the number, they were told that there were "eight or ten acres" of 'em. They saw the Salton sea more than 200 feet below sea level. Some of the very choice farms were in the pink of perfection through irrigation while nearby there was land, unirrigated, that was little better than waste areas.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—UP—Republicans led by President Eisenhower paid tribute to Abraham Lincoln Saturday at wreath-laying ceremonies, banquets and political conclaves throughout the nation.

The 146th birthday of the beloved Civil War President was celebrated with an hour-long ceremony at the snow - capped Lincoln Memorial here at which the 80-voice choir of Philadelphia's fellowship house sang a cantata. "I Am the People," written by Lincoln's biographer, Carl Sandburg. Maj. Gen. John H. Stokes, commanding officer of the Washington military district, placed a wreath at the memorial on behalf of the President.

Mr. Eisenhower himself, on a weekend hunting trip to Thomasville, Ga., issued a statement urging Republicans to live up to Lincoln's standards.

"The greatness of the Republican party is, and will be, measured by the intensity of its devotion to the faith of Lincoln," he said.

Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.), speaking before a Republican town committee dinner at Manchester, Conn., compared Mr. Eisenhower to Lincoln. He said "the Republican party can be eternally proud that in two times of crisis in the history of our nation it gave America two presidents of the stature of Abraham Lincoln and Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Chicago had two big Lincoln Day meetings in the same hotel. One, sponsored by the regular state Republican organization, had Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell as the principal speaker. The other, organized by a group called the Abraham Lincoln National Republican Club, featured speeches by Sens. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), George W. Malone (R-Nev.) and Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah.

While every speech began with tributes to Lincoln, many of the orators hastened on to other matters.

Bradshaw Mintener, assistant secretary of health, education and welfare, appealed in a speech at Rochester, Minn., for public support of President Eisenhower's controversial health reinsurance plan.

Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.), in a speech prepared for a Kewanna, Ind., Republican rally, charged that "the fair deal's 'old guard' will miss no chance to keep their power and make the Republican leaders an instrument of their ambition, as they made the Democratic party their cat's paw in the thirties and forties."

At Somerville, N.J., Sen. Frederick G. Payne (R-Me.) urged the renomination and reelection of Mr. Eisenhower in 1956. He predicted the President would run again. "The only guarantee we have of continued progress is to urge Dwight Eisenhower to carry our cause to victory again in 1956," Payne said. "Because of his deep devotion to duty, I am certain the President will respond favorably."

Fire Spread By Panic-Stricken 'Human Torch'

CHICAGO, Feb. 12 (AP)—Fire, believed started by a panic-stricken human torch, sped through a crowded Skid Row Hotel during subzero cold early today killing at least 25 men. Fifteen others, including two firemen, were injured.

Most of the victims were derelicts or transients. Starting at 2 a.m. the blaze caught most of the hotel's 245 roomers asleep in their tiny cubicle rooms separated by corrugated iron walls and covered with mesh chicken wire.

Some survivors jumped three stories onto concrete and were injured. One man, caught in the nude in -1 degree cold, slid two stories down a rope used to lower garbage to the alley. Others ran into the street without shoes or socks or were carried down ladders by firemen.

Tony Dykes, maintenance man and waker-upper in the dilapidated hotel at 644-47 W. Madison St., a few blocks west of the Loop, said the fire evidently started from a human torch.

He said he was making his rounds on the first floor and saw Joe Armatzo, 67, a pensioner, lunge screaming from his second floor cubicle, his body clothed in blue flames.

Hotel officials said Armatzo, one of the fire dead, habitually used rubbing alcohol.

Night clerk C. W. Harvey heard Dykes' shouts and rushed to help. Occupants in nearby rooms came out and tried to beat out the flames.

But the blaze spread out of control and the hotel lights went out. Harvey said he groped his way to an alarm box but got no response, then dialed the fire department by telephone.

Army Is Testing Guided Missiles In North Canada

The tests are "to determine the effects of extreme low temperatures on the complex component parts of the Nike weapons system," but an Army spokesman refused to give any details on what may have been learned in the first arctic firings.

The Army first announced last year that the tests would be held. They are being carried out by Canadian army personnel trained at the U.S. Army Guided Missiles Center, Ft. Bliss Tex., and by a small number of U.S. Army technicians.

District Library News

Despite the predictions several years ago that television was going to be detrimental to the circulation of books, at least one librarian in the Fifth District is finding this true in only one small group of readers. Mrs. Lellah H. Lyles, librarian for the Richland parish library in Rayville, said only those readers who enjoy the light romances and mysteries have shown a drop with the advent of television in this area.

Others, Mrs. Lyle contends, are often coming into the library to ask for a book about which they have heard. In these cases the interest of the reader has been stimulated and he wants more information than was given. Also, many people who did not read serious books are coming regularly to the library to ask for the better types of books, says Mrs. Lyle.

In Madison parish, the library staff has sent letters about the reading festival to the heads of all adult and teen-age organizations, says Miss Mary Moore Mitchell, librarian. She also has made a personal presentation of festival plans to several organizations and is scheduled for book programs with the Rotary, a church mission study class and a school parents' group during this month.

And an idea that seems especially worthwile, the Madison parish library is keeping a guest book on hand for adult and teen-age visitors to sign — and they are asked to list the organizations to which they belong.

The perennial favorite book since the opening of the Franklin parish library on Dec. 11, 1950, is Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind." Five copies of this book are constantly in use, Mrs. Eunice H. Corion, librarian, has reported. In addition a doctor story is causing the staff of the library to write briskly these days. Requests for "The Healer," Frank Slaughter's newest book, are stacking up.

And up in Lake Providence the East Carroll library is enjoying double purpose with the statewide reading festival. For it serves to interest people in the "joys and pleasures of reading," Elizabeth Cammack, librarian, pointed out, and introduces them to a new parish library service that is less than a year old.

The parish librarian reports that since the Festival started Feb. 1, new readers have come in to "shop around" for a book they'll like. And the result is — more registered borrowers and more books loaned. Opened last June, the East Carroll library is operating as a state library demonstration, but will go on its own this summer with tax maintenance voted by parish taxpayers last fall.

In Caldwell parish the most popular during the past year are Billy Graham's "Peace With God," Catherine Marshall's "A Man Called Peter," and Dale Roger's "Angel Unawares."

Since the Caldwell parish library is a relatively new one, people are still looking for many old books that they have wanted to read for years. Lloyd Douglas' book "The Robe" and Shelton's "In His Steps" have probably been the most popular of the older books, Miss Willie Mae Seab, librarian, reports.

As in Caldwell parish, the residents of Catahoula parish are looking to the library for many books about religion — and, in addition, the freedoms enjoyed here in the United States. Fulton Oursler's "Greatest Faith Ever Known," "Greatest Book Ever Written," and "Greatest Story Ever Told" are among the books most read. Others rating high on the "wanted list" are Catherine Marshall's "A Man Called Peter," Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's "The Power of Positive Thinking" and Paul Harvey's "Remember These Things" and "Autumn of Liberty."

Beginning the library's participation in the Acadian Bicentennial celebration, Mrs. Margaret W. Walsworth, librarian, showed the film "Evangeline Land" and talked in connection with the "Cajuns" and some of the fiction which has been written about them. All of the books were borrowed from the state library and are listed in "Books about the Acadians" furnished by that library.

During the month of January, the LaSalle parish library checked out 8,130 books. This is the largest number of books ever circulated in one month from the library, Lola Cooper, librarian, pointed out. During January 73 new patrons registered to use the library. Fifty-five reference questions were answered and 45 books borrowed from other libraries to fill special requests.

In Morehouse parish, Mrs. Lou Venia G. Jones, librarian, reported that 292 books were added to the collection in January. Also added to the microfilm department were the issues of the Clarion from Jan. 2 1880, to August 30, 1885 -- all of the issues were not available for microfilming — and another paper, the Enterprise, from July 1, 1921, to Sept. 30, 1952.

Mrs. Hadley Leavell of Bastrop was appointed to a five - year term on the library board to succeed Mrs. Barham Conzer, whose term expires April 6.

The staff of the Ouachita parish public library has been busy helping newspaper reporters in their search for more information about the Tenaclo family and their descendants. This search was set off by the discovery of a body last week. The census records at the library on microfilm have turned out to be a gold mine of information in the case, Miss Frances Flanders, librarian, has reported.

Persons interested in libraries are urged to watch a program presented by the librarians of Ouachita, East Carroll, Morehouse and Caldwell parishes today at 12:45 p.m. over the local television station. This is the first of three programs which will be presented during the Louisiana Reading Festival.

Italian Princess Weds Throneless Yugoslav Prince

CASCAIS, Portugal, Feb. 12—UP—Pretty Princess Maria Pia of Italy and a throneless Yugoslav prince were married Saturday in a 120-year-old fishermen's church before a royal audience of former kings, archdukes, counts, and duchesses.

The eldest daughter of Italy's exiled King Umberto and Prince Alexander were married in a brief but colorful double ring ceremony in Our Lady of the Assumption Church.

The bride was 10 minutes late because her father, ex-king Umberto and police had to shoulder a way for her through 6,000 cheering Italian monarchists and others massed outside the church. It took 700 police to handle the crowds.

Many of the regions of Italy were represented by some 60 Italian aristocratic girls of the bride's age who dressed in their native regional costumes joined hands along the royal route to the church.

Negro Strike In Johannesburg Is Total Failure

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Feb. 12—UP—Plans for a strike to protest removal of Negroes from city slums to a segregated housing project collapsed Saturday with the arrest of eight alleged demonstrators.

Police said the strike called in native quarter shops and factories was a flop, but they ran into the opposition of a British-born priest who vowed he would defy a ban on large gatherings. He said he would say mass as usual Sunday in Johannesburg's Negro section, even if he went to jail as a result.

No natives were moved Saturday under the government's newest segregation program. Police armed with machineguns, night sticks and revolvers patrolled the area, and all was reported quiet.

"Operation Apartheid" was to have started Saturday, and a protest strike was called to begin when the first of 60,000 natives were moved from Johannesburg's squalid Sophiatown slum to Meadowlands, the new project 12 miles out of town.

But the move was pushed up and the first families were carried away in trucks on Wednesday. Others were moved Thursday and Friday. Police said they apparently had thwarted demonstrations with their strategy.

Variety Show Is Set At Sherrouse As Family Event

Featuring a family night event, the Sherrouse Parent Teacher Association will sponsor "The Variety Show" in the school auditorium on February 22 at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be presented by teachers of kindergarten, first and second grades.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the organization or at the door on the night of the show.

Since the entertainment is dedicated to the family, one ticket will insure the admission of the entire group, regardless of the size of the family.

The program is designed to offer enough variety to appeal to children as well as adults, according to the program chairmen, who include Mrs. Velma Jones, Mrs. Hazel Keller, and Mrs. Jane Price.

Proceeds derived from admission fees will be utilized to assist in meeting costs of materials which the school is interested in obtaining, officials of the organization explained.

Definite plans call for additional playground equipment, books for the library, and water fountains.

Others rating high on the "wanted list" are Catherine Marshall's "A Man Called Peter," Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's "The Power of Positive Thinking" and Paul Harvey's "Remember These Things" and "Autumn of Liberty."

Beginning the library's participation in the Acadian Bicentenpial celebration, Mrs. Margaret W. Walsworth, librarian, showed the film "Evangeline Land" and talked in connection with the "Cajuns" and some of the fiction which has been written about them. All of the books were borrowed from the state library and are listed in "Books about the Acadians" furnished by that library.

During the month of January, the LaSalle parish library checked out 8,160 books. This is the largest number of books ever circulated in one month from the library, Lola Cooper, librarian, pointed out. During January 73 new patrons registered to use the library. Fifty-five reference questions were answered and 45 books borrowed from other libraries to fill special requests.

In Morehouse parish, Mrs. Lou Venia G. Jones, librarian, reported that 292 books were added to the collection in January. Also added to the microfilm department were the issues of the Clarion from Jan. 2 1880, to August 30, 1895 — all of the issues were not available for microfilming — and another paper, the Enterprise, from July 1, 1921, to Sept. 30, 1952.

Mrs. Hadley Leavell of Bastrop was appointed to a five - year term on the library board to succeed Mrs. Barham Conger, whose term expires April 6.

The staff of the Ouachita parish public library has been busy helping newspaper reporters in their search for more information about the Tennelle family and their descendants. This search was set off by the discovery of a body last week. The census records at the library on microfilm have turned out to be a gold mine of information in the case, Miss Frances Flanders, librarian, has reported.

Persons interested in libraries are urged to watch a program presented by the librarians of Ouachita, East Carroll, Morehouse and Caldwell parishes today at 12:45 p.m. over the local television station. This is the first of three programs which will be presented during the Louisiana Reading Festival.

Italian Princess Weds Throneless Yugoslav Prince

CASCAIS, Portugal, Feb. 12—UP—Pretty Princess Maria Pia of Italy and a throneless Yugoslav prince were married Saturday in a 120-year-old fishermen's church before a royal audience of former kings, archdukes, counts, and duchesses.

The eldest daughter of Italy's exiled King Umberto and Prince Alexander were married in a brief but colorful double ring ceremony in Our Lady of the Assumption Church.

The bride was 10 minutes late because her father, ex-king Umberto and police had to shoulder a way for her through 6,000 cheering Italian monarchists and others massed outside the church. It took 700 police to handle the crowds.

Many of the regions of Italy were represented by some 60 Italian aristocratic girls of the bride's age who dressed in their native regional costumes joined hands along the royal route to the church.

Negro Strike In Johannesburg Is Total Failure

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Feb. 12—UP—Plans for a strike to protest removal of Negroes from city slums to a segregated housing project collapsed Saturday with the arrest of eight alleged demonstrators.

Police said the strike called in native quarter shops and factories was a flop, but they ran into the opposition of a British-born priest who vowed he would defy a ban on large gatherings. He said he would say mass as usual Sunday in Johannesburg's Negro section, even if he went to jail as a result.

No natives were moved Saturday under the government's newest segregation program. Police armed with machineguns, night sticks and revolvers patrolled the area, and all was reported quiet.

"Operation Apartheid" was to have started Saturday, and a protest strike was called to begin when the first of 60,000 natives were moved from Johannesburg's squalid Sophiatown slum to Meadowlands, the new project 12 miles out of town.

But the move was pushed up and the first families were carried away in trucks on Wednesday. Others were moved Thursday and Friday. Police said they apparently had thwarted demonstrations with their strategy.

Variety Show Is Set At Sherrouse As Family Event

Featuring a family night event, the Sherrouse Parent Teacher Association will sponsor "The Variety Show" in the school auditorium on February 22 at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be presented by teachers of kindergarten, first and second grades.

Since the entertainment is dedicated to the family, one ticket will insure the admission of the entire group, regardless of the size of the family.

The program is designed to offer enough variety to appeal to children as well as adults, according to the program chairmen, who include Mrs. Velma Jones, Mrs. Hazel Keller, and Mrs. Jane Price.

Proceeds derived from admission fees will be utilized to assist in meeting costs of materials which the school is interested in obtaining, officials of the organization explained.

Definite plans call for additional playground equipment, books for the library, and water fountains.

L.S.U. Library Accredited By National Group

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 12 (Special) —The American Library Association announced today that its Board of Education for Librarianship has accredited the Library School of Louisiana State University under its 1951 standards.

Mrs. Florrinell F. Morton, director of the school, said former accreditation, granted in 1934, was based upon minimum requirements for library schools adopted by the Council of the American Library Association in 1933.

These requirements were replaced in 1951 by new standards for accreditation under which both previously accredited and new schools are being revaluated.

Action on the LSU Library School was taken following an evaluation visit to the school last December.

Ask Monroe Educational TV Channel

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Louisiana's Education Department today asked the Communications Commission to designate TV channel 13 at Monroe, La., as a noncommercial educational channel, so the state might apply for it.

The petition, filed by school Supt. Shelby M. Jackson, noted that the three Louisiana reservations for education are all in southern Louisiana, at Lake Charles, Baton Rouge and New Orleans, and said an educational channel at Monroe would serve northern sections.

The petition noted that channel 13, added to the Monroe channel assignments last month, has not been applied for.

Jackson told the commission that if it acts promptly the state could purchase equipment of Delta Television's channel 13 station at Monroe which recently gave up its license.

2 Negro Juveniles Taken Into Custody

Two Negro juveniles, a 12-year-old girl and a 15-year-old boy, were awaiting juvenile court action yesterday in connection with a burglary and a robbery, city juvenile officers said.

Maj. J. B. Whitfield and Sgt. J. C. Kelly said the two were questioned about the theft of a pistol from a local residence two weeks ago, and the robbery of a 13-year-old Negro juvenile.

The pair allegedly held the juvenile by force and took $5.37 from his person. They did not use the gun, although it was taken earlier, Whitfield said.

They were released in custody of their parents, pending court action, according to the officers.

A Gracious Woman Is No More

In the passing of Corinne Steinau Bernstein, widow of one of Monroe's most beloved mayors, there has been left in Monroe a place that can never be filled. This fine woman spent the entire 75 years of her life in Monroe and played an important role in the life of the city. She was a specially gracious woman which well fitted her for the role of first lady of Monroe during the longest period that any mayor in the city's history has filled the post of its chief executive.

She was deeply interested in the city, in Temple B'nai Israel and in her unnumbered friends. She was willing to sacrifice for them and her charities were numerous, but never did she desire to disclose what she did for others who needed her aid.

In this modern age, pastors and rabbis conducting funeral services in many cases do not make personal reference to the departed. They go through the service and were a person in the audience who did not know the identity of the deceased, he would never be cognizant of the identity of the departed. Not so with Rabbi F. K. Hirsch. In Mrs. Bernstein's service he paid a deserved tribute in no uncertain terms.

"She loved deeply and was deeply loved," declared the rabbi. "There was no end to her love and no one was beyond its influence. With no children of her own, she took to her heart the children of her brothers and sisters. She was mother to her nephews and nieces, and still more she mothered her brothers and sisters. She was ever greatly concerned about them, and I am sure that could she have had her way, she would have been the last to go so that she could comfort them to the end.

"I can well recall, how this grand first lady of Monroe, during the war, threw open her house to boys at Selman Field and had one of these married in her home. She delighted in doing for them, as she did for others, her neighbors sharing in that wealth of love which was hers, and so I think of her as 'The First Lady of Goodwill.'

"She was not a church goer as are many folks, but she lived a religion of love, understanding, service, kindness and cheer. Her's was a practical religion. Her memory will long remain with us. We will with joy recall her graciousness, her charm, her affection, her happiness. It is hoped that some of us may follow her example, and throw open our hearts and our homes to those who come our way, and for those we love."

Forgotten Death Traps

During the end of 1953 and early part of 1954 over a dozen children throughout the nation lost their lives within a period of a few weeks, when they became trapped inside discarded refrigerators and ice boxes. Several others narrowly escaped death, when rescued just in the nick of time.

Death in such a fashion cannot be described in any term less than horrible.

Within a few days after the first child was reported to have lost his life when trapped in a discarded refrigerator, numerous cities throughout the nation began passing ordinances prescribing severe penalties for persons responsible for those death traps.

Vigorous campaigns were waged by newspapers, magazines and other media of information urging citizens demolish, or remove the doors from old refrigerators and ice boxes. In many cases detailed instruction was given concerning the proper method for "disarming" the potential death traps.

At that time the Monroe Commission Council passed an ordinance making it unlawful to leave old refrigerators and the like where children may be tempted to play in them. Owners were instructed to remove the doors, or lock them so that youngsters could not become trapped inside.

Shortly after the ordinance was passed police visited various residents and business establishments where the "death traps" were found and personally informed the owners of the ordinance.

Apparently, however, the ordinance has been forgotten, or is no longer being enforced. A casual drive through the city by an observant person will bear out this fact.

The ordinance was well publicized, many persons were informed of it personally. It seems that the time has come for it to be enforced. Or must we wait until some unsuspecting child gives his life that public officials' attention will be called to the numerous "death traps" which still exist within our city?

Role Of World Leader

The role of world leader is difficult to fill, with the noise from opposing nations or factions resembling a barrage directed at a basketball referee.

Japan has been yelling for Uncle Sam to do something about Jap markets to replace those lost in China. A new premier has been installed who threatens to do business with the Communists.

Now the West Germans have a gripe. They got a whiff of international gossip that the United States plans a trade treaty with Japan to open American markets to more Japanese goods and to urge other free nations to do so. The Japs can deliver goods 30 to 50 per cent below German prices, which is what disturbs the Germans.

The United States has the greatest productive establishments of all. In most lines it can supply the domestic market with large surpluses left over for export.

So Referee Sam has his work cut out for him. Unless he can create new markets that will absorb all proffered exports, his lot will continue to be an unhappy one.

Too Many Plane Crashes

There have been far too many airplane crashes in recent weeks, both of planes attached to the armed services and civilian craft. If this is to be the pattern of the Air Age, the casualties when everyone takes to the ether will be appalling.

Perhaps what is needed is a "fly safe" drive. Do pilots take too many chances, are they reckless "drivers," or what is the main cause of the frequent crashes, nearly all of which result in fatalities?

'Lady In Black'

Muncie, Ind.

Editor, Morning World:

Can you tell me whether the "Lady In Black" was dug up by a wrecker or excavator, and if so, who it was? I am a writer and am going into the subject of excavations for a New York editor.

CHARLES W. WHITE.

P. S. If, as the UP says, this lady was wearing and continues to wear, a glittering diamond ring, it is a fine tribute to humanity in general and Southern honesty in particular.

St. Clairs Of Scotland

Logansport, Ind.

Editor, Morning World:

D. A. R. No. 407-251 is the number of my ancestor, George St. Clair, whose record was recently established there, mostly from my research. One of his "in-laws" was a river pilot, N. H. S., and followed the rivers from Williamsport, Pa., down the Ohio, and may have been in your country, as he was in the War of 1812.

I read in our local paper about the St. Clair woman's body and wonder if a picture of her face was made immediately after the find. If so, I would like to see it. Also, I am looking for the pre-Revolutionary record of the St. Clairs, to see if it links with the Earls-of-St. Clairs' of Scotland. I have much data on George St. Clair's descendants, a picture of Susannah St. Clair on my living room wall. Her first child was born in 1839.

The 7th Lady St. Clair of Scotland had a retinue of over 200 servants who accompanied her to Edinburgh.

I thank you very much for your kind attention and time, and will be pleased to know who this woman was.

Congressman Seeks Part-Time Work

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Will you please be so kind as to print the following in the Public Forum column of your paper?

"I read with interest, and anger, the article in your morning paper of February 10, 1955 which was headed: "Oklahoma Congressman Seeking Part-time Job," "Can't Get By On $15,000 Salary." Well, for just one year, I'm sure that any post office clerk in the United States would love to swap salaries with him. Suppose he had to live on $3570.00 annually and out of that $3570.00, he had to meet the payments on his home and automobile, food, clothe and shelter not only him and his wife but three small children to boot.

He isn't the only one who has had to look for part-time work and who has had to mortgage everything he had to try to make ends meet. He stated that he and his wife lived simply, that she did all the cooking and the laundry and that they didn't have a maid. Suppose his wife had to work out eight hours a day, pay a nurse to keep her children out of her salary, and THEN do her house work after hours and on Sunday. Believe me, it isn't easy.

In a recent survey among the younger school children, one small boy was asked what he would like most if he could have anything he wanted in the world. Do you know what that child said? He said "I'd like for my Mommie to be at home everyday when I come in from school." But tell me, how are we to be home when our youngsters come in from school if we have to work out in order to supplement our husbands' salaries enough to get by on?

Last year when President Eisenhower vetoed that 5 per cent pay increase which we had struggled so faithfully to get through Congress, we were $780 behind the 1939 standard of living. The future doesn't look any brighter this year.

So, may I in all sincerity ask you, the readers of this paper, to please write your Congressman and Senators and tell them not to forget the post office clerk and his bid for a meager 10 per cent pay increase as they go about increasing their own wages! Thank you."

A Post Office Clerk's Wife.

New Flag Bill

Baton Rouge, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I have read so many of the wonderful editorials which you have written, and which have been reprinted by the National Defense Office, and sent to the members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, that I have decided to ask your help in getting the matter of the new Flag Bill, before the people of Louisiana.

Our Flag code for Louisiana was amended at the 1954 regular session of the Legislature, making it mandatory for the flag of the United States of America to be flown from sunrise to sunset, daily, over all public buildings and institutions of the State of Louisiana, and over the Court Houses of the various parishes, when court is in session. I was instrumental in getting the bill introduced, through Mr. M. Breedlove, representative of Winn parish, since I am a member of the Spicer - Wallace chapter, D. A. R., of Winnfield, though I am a resident of Baton Rouge. To my utter amazement, the flag was not on display during the Legislative session, last May, so we asked Mr. Breedlove to enter a concurrent resolution, to get the flag displayed from the State Capitol, in keeping with the law, as it was, before our amendment could take effect.

If you still have a subscription to the D. A. R. Magazine, you will find an article in the February issue, under "Congratulations Louisiana" regarding this bill.

I am very eager to get the amendment before the people of Louisiana, so that the schools will comply with the law, especially since there are so few flags flown over our schools, and since there seems to be such a trend toward de-emphasizing patriotism, and love of our country and its flag.

MRS. WILLIAM J. FARBER

More Than 4 Teachers

Ruston, La.

Editor, Morning World:

With reference to your article "4 Tech Teachers Named by Book" featured on page 3 of the Monroe (La.) News-Star on February 9, 1955, I wish to state that I know of two other teachers at Louisiana Tech who are included in the physical science volume of "American Men of Science." They are: Dr. Charles E. Boozer, associate professor of chemistry and Dr. John W. Morton, Jr., associate professor of chemistry.

Perhaps there are other teachers at Louisiana Tech included besides the four mentioned in your article and the two mentioned above. The article implied the ones listed were the only ones included.

Mendes-France Ousted

Lafayette, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The ousting of Premiere Mendes-France may prove to be a hard blow to the Allies' plans for the rearmament of West Germany.

Mendes-France would have built up his country to a strong and proud nation again, as they were before World War II.

France should be told to either get on the Allied bandwagon for the defense of Western Europe, or their lend lease will be cut off, that would soon stop their foolishness.

In this atomic age, a slight delay, may be costly, nations can be captured or destroyed in a matter of days.

E. L. CASTEL.

Boston, Mass.

Editor, Morning World:

Sunday morning, January 23rd, a local radio provided Boston listeners with a truly ambiguous program, sponsored by the Mass. Chapter of the National Council of Churches. Four ministers aired their unrehearsed opinions on the China problem, among other things bemoaning the fact that the United States is unable to hobnob freely with that atheistic murderer, Chou En-lai, (after the humiliating, servile fashion of Dag Hammarskjold, perhaps?) and all but stating in so many words that inviting Red China into the family of United Nations would correct that dreadful situation. What kind of rose-tinted spectacles are they using?

Then, out popped the commie line in all its devilishly innocent cunning: Dealing with Nationalist China on Formosa is just as unrealistic as dealing with an ousted U. S. Government on Long Island which claims to represent the entire United States!

I venture to suggest that none of those four ministers realizes how right he might have been without knowing it. The sinister-handed simile used would be indeed pat in the dexter-handed sense if, on the one hand, that Long Island Government were headed by Eisenhower, Knowland, Bricker and other patriotic Americans of unquestioned loyalty in a last ditch stand against Communism and, on the other hand, a "Peiping on the Potomac" had been set up with Earl Browder as "president," William Z. Foster as "V-P," Alger Hiss as "Secretary of State" and Otis Archer Hood as regional commissar for the New England area. (O. A. Hood is a well-known, self-admitted local Communist.) The simile would be even more shockingly apt if some five million defenseless Americans had been butchered in the process.

All four ministers admitted they really didn't know too much about the subject. If so, who allowed them to confuse the radio audience with such nonsense?

Inadequate Highway Signs

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I am writing in regards to the inadequate signs on the public highways. I would like for someone who has the authority to have all highways in Louisiana checked, especially all crossroads and intersections.

The crossroads where the accident happened as reported recently has no cross - road sign at all, besides a curve about 200 yards north of crossing.

If possible, every dangerous curve and intersection should have caution blinker lights on them. In a great number of cases it will be found that electricity is readily available, if not lights could be operated with batteries.

A death was caused by this accident that occurred Jan. 27, 1955, eight miles south of Bastrop, La. Something has got to be done if we are ever going to check the death and destruction that is happening on our highways. Something needs to be put up and down the highways that will keep people ever conscious that they are just one second from death or invalidism and being maimed or crippled.

If necessary, put a luminous or lighted sign everywhere on the highway where a fatal accident happens. Maybe that will make people know that death and destruction are right in front of them.

Certainly the speed limits should be enforced at all times. At night when it is most important that speed be reduced there are very few officers on duty to enforce them. There is equally as much or maybe more need for more officers on duty at night as in daytime. Also they need to patrol the highways at night, which isn't done very much.

I write this not with any animosity, hatred or self - seeking cause, but in the hope that something will be done to stop some of the death and destruction on our highways. Also I write this in the hope that my wife, Martha Elizabeth Laing, who was a child of God, first above all things, might not have died in vain.

Army-McCarthy Row

Editor, Morning World:

The sound and fury having died away, how, in my opinion does the several participants in the army-McCarthy-Watkins row come out.

McCarthy bigger than ever.

Potter willing to risk the freedom he helped preserve, in order to gain votes of Americans of doubtful loyalty but more numerous — he thought.

Nixon either insincere in his attitude toward Joe during the trouble, or later in his campaign speeches. I think the former, but in either event now possessing lesser stature.

Eisenhower I consider vindicative and petty (demonstrated by his snubbing of Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy) also his continued treatment of MacArthur and in having tried to protect the illusions of infallibility of his own military clique by his gag order, when he should have known it was bound to leak out sometime anyway. Certainly the greatest loser of them all.

Politics And Politicians

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

From all reports that I have been able to gather, of late, it looks that politics is beginning to pick up and take quite a bit of momentum and the politicians are stirring around among the people more frequently than they did. Of course, there is a reason for all this, as the elections are drawing near and they must feel their way around, so to speak. We can't blame them for that—in fact it is a healthy sign for the country. From all signs this will be a "hot" election. I am referring to the state election here in our own home state. We know from past experience, it will be a big political year all over the nation. This is the usual way it goes and probably should go that way.

There will be quite a few New Comers that will toss their hats into the running for the first time this year, and all the old ones that are holding office now will naturally try to stay in, because this thing of playing politics has become of late years a very thrilling thing, and, at the same time, a good paying thing.

Have you ever heard it said that one must learn the game of politics —and how to play it?

After all, there is something to it and so few of us never learn to play the game of politics successfully — that is, we can't even get enough votes to be elected, and, after all that is what matters most is winning over the opposition, and usually we have plenty of opposition to fight.

For fear you may not know it, a politician must be a good salesman. He must sell his ideals and principles to the people as well as himself. A politician should be a good speaker and know what he wants to talk about, and talk straight and to the point. He should, by all means, be powerful and intelligent in his presentation of the subject he is discussing. You should be persuasive enough to get people to thinking your way, and convert them that you are the right man for the job.

Now, in this election coming up soon, some of the candidates that will run will run for the fun of running, some will coin out. Of course, they will all want to win, but we know now that is an impossibility. Some people that enter politics have no experience or back ground for the office they are running for, therefore, when they are defeated they feel let down and downhearted.

In this state election you will have plenty of candidates in the race for all the various offices throughout the state. They will come out on all sorts of platforms, and in those platforms they will make many wild promises—that can't reasonably be fulfilled, and they know it. By now the people should be wise to those political tricks, all such tricks and "schemes" by politicians are worn out. We shouldn't promise more than we know we can do. What is a promise worth if it is not kept? We judge a man by his actions and deeds—not by what he promises, and professes to be.

Lets be fair and honest, and not condemn all politicians — There are good honest men holding office —and I think—if the temptation for making money was removed from their lives they would, no doubt, be better men and render more and efficient service to the people. It is mighty hard to shun doing wrong. When the opportunity for doing wrong is with us every day. The Bible said, if you remember, the Love of money was, and is, the root of all evil, and all means all. I believe that is true. What do you think?

Be on the look-out for the politicians, for you will hear a heap of them within the next six or seven months. Come on in, the more the better. If you want to know how you will stand or what people think of you, just run for a public office.

Are You A Grass Roots American?

Southport, Fla.

Editor, Morning World:

With both our political parties willing to give up our national sovereighty, our only hope of preserving our constitution lies in a third party. Through it we may have a chance of waking up our countrymen; and by using it as a pressure group we may force one of our major parties to return to Americanism.

To learn the extent to which we are being betrayed by officials high in our state department, send to U. S. Senator William E. Jenner for his revealing speech, "It Can Happen Here." To learn the terrible fact that the United Nations is nothing but a one world plot to turn America over to the Communists, seize your property and reduce you to slavery in your lifetime, send to the Honorable Usher L. Burdick, U. S. house of representatives, for his equally revealing speech, "The Great Conspiracy to Destroy the United States."

Every loyal citizen knows we need a third party but no one will organize it. So although I'm just another grass roots American with no funds or backing, I'm going to pave the way for a third party. When any nationally known patriot is ready to organize it, I'll be happy to turn over my list of loyal Americans to him. Surely if each of us plays his part, our God will send us a leader.

Heartless Character

Hebert, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I want to raise my voice against such heartless characters as the nephew beater in Palls Valley, Oklahoma. I have been a member of one of the many Holiness branches since April 27, 1924. She is no sister of mine in the Lord. Our church teaches the fruits of the spirit: Rom. 6:22, Gal. 5:22, Eph. 5:9, Phil. 1-11. No minister of our gospel taught her in six months conversion to beat a child. We believe, "if you spare the rod — spoil the child," but no brutality. We believe in love — not hate. She is no example of a Holiness Church member. You can't judge an apple tree by a few rotten apples on it.

Expression of our church — "She must be a wolf in sheep's clothing, slipped in under the wire." People usually judge others by themselves. She is devil - possessed herself is why she was so anxious to beat the devil out of her nephew.

In case the news reporter in Palls Valley, Okla., didn't know, please take notice: Church Suffering Undue Reproach: "Whereas, the Church of God is suffering undue reproach by the slanderous title "Holy Rollers" in reference to the Church of God.

In consequence of this decision we herewith give general notice to the public that all reference to the Church of God by the use of the above title "Holy Rollers" by the public press or otherwise will be considered and treated as a slanderous and malignant offense."

There are several Holiness Churches, I defend them all. I will not tolerate one lone woman, who is a natural born bully to run over a weaker person to bring any undue reproach on the way we raise a child. No church in our land teaches such brutality: the spirit which possessed her must have come from behind the iron curtain.

SILENT NIGHT

NEW YORK, (AP) — Citizens who get annoyed by the noise of trash collectors working at night can do something to help, says New York's Sanitation Commissioner Andrew W. Mulrain. He said the refuse collectors are told to work as quietly as possible when working at night, so they won't annoy sleepers. But, he added, the public can help by not overstuffing the garbage cans. Then the workers won't have to bang the cans to empty them.

False Prophets

Subconsciously they're hoping for one.

They dare to compare 1955 with 1929.

We didn't have frozen french-fries in 1929.

I mean it.

They are so concerned with similarities that they overlook the biggest difference.

Some of us have so much faith in the prospects for an expanded American economy that it makes us By George angry to see anybody try, with snide, subtle psychological brain-washing, to pull the rug out from under it.

I don't like to hear anybody deprecate the free-wheeling competition which made this prosperity possible, and I don't like to hear him sneer at the stock market which reflects it.

In the first place, during the crash of 1929, when many banks folded completely, many blue-chip stocks continued to pay dividends! Throughout the depths of the depression, they paid dividends. Some have never missed a dividend since the Civil War!

Aside from this, the stock market of 1929 and the stock market of 1955 are basically two different things.

They represent utterly different things!

We didn't have frozen french-fries in 1929.

And we didn't have commercial airlines and whipped cream in a can.

More than half of the 1500 names on the big board weren't there in 1929.

Because we didn't have plastics. We didn't have television. We didn't know about antibiotics and radar and jet planes and nylon.

Sure it's a dizzy height, when the stock market gets higher than it has ever been and you keep looking down. But don't look down. Look up. That's the direction of the future.

General David Sarneff estimates that within 25 years half the things you'll be buying haven't even been dreamed of yet.

Twenty-five years ago if anybody'd tried to sell you some uranium stock you'd have locked him up.

Today uranium mining and processing is big business.

We've come a long way together, but we still have a long way to go.

Together.

Personal income has gone from 86 billion to 286 billion dollars.

Production per man increased 57 per cent.

SAVINGS, that important personal shock absorber which cushions the ride over the rough spots . . .

Personal savings now total a record 231 billion dollars.

When I hear these dire predictions of disaster, I always remember the early Boston merchant who said, "When whale oil is gone the world will be plunged into darkness."

He didn't know about Texas.

I don't remember his name. Pessimists are never very important people.

And vice versa.

In the face of this bright and shining future and its exciting unexplored frontiers of electronics and chemistry and unharnessed atoms, anybody with so little faith that he would bet against it . . .

Doesn't deserve to share in it.

Facts Worth Knowing

COLD SPOT HUNTED

DEVILS LAKE, N. D., (AP)—The chamber of commerce received a letter from an Idahoan who wants to sell a full-length black bearskin coat. J. R. Finn of Council, Idaho, wrote that he had heard Devils Lake is one of the coldest places in the country and might provide a buyer for the garment. Finn said the coat is worth $50 and he will sell it for $25. In Idaho, he added, it never gets cold enough for the coat to be needed. "You can't even stand the thing until it gets down to 20 or 30 degrees below zero," Finn wrote.

Editorials

A Gracious Woman Is No More

In the passing of Corinne Steinau Bernstein, widow of one of Monroe's most beloved mayors, there has been left in Monroe a place that can never be filled. This fine woman spent the entire 75 years of her life in Monroe and played an important role in the life of the city. She was a specially gracious woman which well fitted her for the role of first lady of Monroe during the longest period that any mayor in the city's history has filled the post of its chief executive.

She was deeply interested in the city, in Temple B'nai Israel and in her unnumbered friends. She was willing to sacrifice for them and her charities were numerous, but never did she desire to disclose what she did for others who needed her aid.

In this modern age, pastors and rabbis conducting funeral services in many cases do not make personal reference to the departed. They go through the service and were a person in the audience who did not know the identity of the deceased, he would never be cognizant of the identity of the departed. Not so with Rabbi F. K. Hirsch. In Mrs. Bernstein's service he paid a deserved tribute in no uncertain terms.

"She loved deeply and was deeply loved," declared the rabbi. "There was no end to her love and no one was beyond its influence. With no children of her own, she took to her heart the children of her brothers and sisters. She was mother to her nephews and nieces, and still more she mothered her brothers and sisters. She was ever greatly concerned about them, and I am sure that could she have had her way, she would have been the last to go so that she could comfort them to the end.

"I can well recall, how this grand first lady of Monroe, during the war, threw open her house to boys at Selman Field and had one of these married in her home. She delighted in doing for them, as she did for others, her neighbors sharing in that wealth of love which was hers, and so I think of her as 'The First Lady of Goodwill.'

"She was not a church goer as are many folks, but she lived a religion of love, understanding, service, kindness and cheer. Her's was a practical religion. Her memory will long remain with us. We will with joy recall her graciousness, her charm, her affection, her happiness. It is hoped that some of us may follow her example, and throw open our hearts and our homes to those who come our way, and for those we love."

Forgotten Death Traps

During the end of 1953 and early part of 1954 over a dozen children throughout the nation lost their lives within a period of a few weeks, when they became trapped inside discarded refrigerators and ice boxes. Several others narrowly escaped death, when rescued just in the nick of time.

Death in such a fashion cannot be described in any term less than horrible.

Within a few days after the first child was reported to have lost his life when trapped in a discarded refrigerator, numerous cities throughout the nation began passing ordinances prescribing severe penalties for persons responsible for those death traps.

Vigorous campaigns were waged by newspapers, magazines and other media of information urging citizens demolish, or remove the doors from old refrigerators and ice boxes. In many cases detailed instruction was given concerning the proper method for "disarming" the potential death traps.

At that time the Monroe Commission Council passed an ordinance making it unlawful to leave old refrigerators and the like where children may be tempted to play in them. Owners were instructed to remove the doors, or lock them so that youngsters could not become trapped inside.

Shortly after the ordinance was passed police visited various residents and business establishments where the "death traps" were found and personally informed the owners of the ordinance.

Apparently, however, the ordinance has been forgotten, or is no longer being enforced. A casual drive through the city by an observant person will bear out this fact.

The ordinance was well publicized, many persons were informed of it personally. It seems that the time has come for it to be enforced. Or must we wait until some unsuspecting child gives his life that public officials' attention will be called to the numerous "death traps" which still exist within our city?

Role Of World Leader

The role of world leader is difficult to fill, with the noise from opposing nations or factions resembling a barrage directed at a basketball referee.

Japan has been yelling for Uncle Sam to do something about Jap markets to replace those lost in China. A new premier has been installed who threatens to do business with the Communists.

Now the West Germans have a gripe. They got a whiff of international gossip that the United States plans a trade treaty with Japan to open American markets to more Japanese goods and to urge other free nations to do so. The Japs can deliver goods 30 to 50 per cent below German prices, which is what disturbs the Germans.

The United States has the greatest productive establishments of all. In most lines it can supply the domestic market with large surpluses left over for export.

So Referee Sam has his work cut out for him. Unless he can create new markets that will absorb all proffered exports, his lot will continue to be an unhappy one.

Too Many Plane Crashes

There have been far too many airplane crashes in recent weeks, both of planes attached to the armed services and civilian craft. If this is to be the pattern of the Air Age, the casualties when everyone takes to the ether will be appalling.

Perhaps what is needed is a "fly safe" drive. Do pilots take too many chances, are they reckless "drivers," or what is the main cause of the frequent crashes, nearly all of which result in fatalities?

'Lady In Black'

Muncie, Ind.

Editor, Morning World:

Can you tell me whether the "Lady In Black" was dug up by a wrecker or excavator, and if so, who it was? I am a writer and am going into the subject of excavations for a New York editor.

CHARLES W. WHITE.

P. S. If, as the UP says, this lady was wearing and continues to wear, a glittering diamond ring, it is a fine tribute to humanity in general and Southern honesty in particular.

St. Clairs Of Scotland

Logansport, Ind.

Editor, Morning World:

D. A. R. No. 407-251 is the number of my ancestor, George St. Clair, whose record was recently established there, mostly from my research. One of his "in-laws" was a river pilot, N. H. S., and followed the rivers from Williamsport, Pa., down the Ohio, and may have been in your country, as he was in the War of 1812.

I read in our local paper about the St. Clair woman's body and wonder if a picture of her face was made immediately after the find. If so, I would like to see it. Also, I am looking for the pre-Revolutionary record of the St. Clairs, to see if it links with the Earls-of-St. Clairs' of Scotland. I have much date on George St. Clair's descendants, a picture of Susannah St. Clair on my living room wall. Her first child was born in 1839.

The 7th Lady St. Clair of Scotland had a retinue of over 200 servants who accompanied her to Edinburgh.

I thank you very much for your kind attention and time, and will be pleased to know who this woman was.

Congressman Seeks Part-Time Work

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Will you please be so kind as to print the following in the Public Forum column of your paper?

"I read with interest, and anger, the article in your morning paper of February 10, 1955 which was headed: "Oklahoma Congressman Seeking Part-time Job," "Can't Get By On $15,000 Salary." Well, for just one year, I'm sure that any post office clerk in the United States would love to swap salaries with him. Suppose he had to live on $3570.00 annually and out of that $3570.00, he had to meet the payments on his home and automobile, feed, clothe and shelter not only him and his wife but three small children to boot.

He isn't the only one who has had to look for part-time work and who has had to mortgage everything he had to try to make ends meet. He stated that he and his wife lived simply, that she did all the cooking and the laundry and that they didn't have a maid. Suppose his wife had to work out eight hours a day, pay a nurse to keep her children out of her salary, and THEN do her house work after hours and on Sunday. Believe me, it isn't easy.

In a recent survey among the younger school children, one small boy was asked what he would like most if he could have anything he wanted in the world. Do you know what that child said? He said "I'd like for my Mommie to be at home everyday when I come in from school." But tell me, how are we to be home when our youngsters come in from school if we have to work out in order to supplement our husbands' salaries enough to get by on?

Last year when President Eisenhower vetoed that 5 per cent pay increase which we had struggled so faithfully to get through Congress, we were $780 behind the 1939 standard of living. The future doesn't look any brighter this year.

So, may I in all sincerity ask you, the readers of this paper, to please write your Congressman and Senators and tell them not to forget the post office clerk and his bid for a meager 10 per cent pay increase as they go about increasing their own wages! Thank you."

A Post Office Clerk's Wife.

New Flag Bill

Baton Rouge, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I have read so many of the wonderful editorials which you have written, and which have been reprinted by the National Defense Office, and sent to the members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, that I have decided to ask your help in getting the matter of the new Flag Bill, before the people of Louisiana.

Our Flag code for Louisiana was amended at the 1954 regular session of the Legislature, making it mandatory for the flag of the United States of America to be flown from sunrise to sunset, daily, over all public buildings and institutions of the State of Louisiana, and over the Court Houses of the various parishes, when court is in session. I was instrumental in getting the bill introduced, through Mr. M. Breedlove, representative of Winn parish, since I am a member of the Spicer - Wallace chapter, D. A. R., of Winnfield, though I am a resident of Baton Rouge. To my utter amazement, the flag was not on display during the Legislative session, last May, so we asked Mr. Breedlove to enter a concurrent resolution, to get the flag displayed from the State Capitol, in keeping with the law, as it was, before our amendment could take effect.

If you still have a subscription to the D. A. R. Magazine, you will find an article in the February issue, under "Congratulations Louisiana" regarding this bill.

I am very eager to get the amendment before the people of Louisiana, so that the schools will comply with the law, especially since there are so few flags flown over our schools, and since there seems to be such a trend toward de-emphasizing patriotism, and love of our country and its flag.

More Than 4 Teachers

Ruston, La.

Editor, Morning World:

With reference to your article "4 Tech Teachers Named by Book" featured on page 3 of the Monroe (La.) News-Star on February 9, 1955, I wish to state that I know of two other teachers at Louisiana Tech who are included in the physical science volume of "American Men of Science." They are: Dr. Charles E. Boozer, associate professor of chemistry and Dr. John W. Morton, Jr., associate professor of chemistry.

Perhaps there are other teachers at Louisiana Tech included besides the four mentioned in your article and the two mentioned above. The article implied the ones listed were the only ones included.

Mendes-France Ousted

Lafayette, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The ousting of Premiere Mendes-France may prove to be a hard blow to the Allies' plans for the rearmament of West Germany.

Mendes-France would have built up his country to a strong and proud nation again, as they were before World War II.

France should be told to either get on the Allied bandwagon for the defense of Western Europe, or their lend lease will be cut off, that would soon stop their foolishness.

In this atomic age, a slight delay, may be costly, nations can be captured or destroyed in a matter of days.

Boston Radio Program

Boston, Mass.

Editor, Morning World:

Sunday morning, January 23rd, a local radio provided Boston listeners with a truly ambiguous program, sponsored by the Mass. Chapter of the National Council of Churches. Four ministers aired their unrehearsed opinions on the China problem, among other things bemoaning the fact that the United States is unable to hobnob freely with that atheistic murderer, Chou En-lai, (after the humiliating, servile fashion of Dag Hammarskjold, perhaps?) and all but stating in so many words that inviting Red China into the family of United Nations would correct that dreadful situation. What kind of rose-tinted spectacles are they using?

Then, out popped the commie line in all its devilishly innocent cunning: Dealing with Nationalist China on Formosa is just as unrealistic as dealing with an ousted U. S. Government on Long Island which claims to represent the entire United States!

I venture to suggest that none of those four ministers realizes how right he might have been without knowing it. The sinister-handed simile used would be indeed pat in the dexter-handed sense if, on the one hand, that Long Island Government were headed by Eisenhower, Knowland, Bricker and other patriotic Americans of unquestioned loyalty in a last ditch stand against Communism and, on the other hand, a "Peiping on the Potomac" had been set up with Earl Browder as "president," William Z. Foster as "V-P," Alger Hiss as "Secretary of State" and Otis Archer Hood as regional commissar for the New England area. (O. A. Hood is a well-known, self-admitted local Communist.) The simile would be even more shockingly apt if some five million defenseless Americans had been butchered in the process.

All four ministers admitted they really didn't know too much about the subject. If so, who allowed them to confuse the radio audience with such nonsense?

Inadequate Highway Signs

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I am writing in regards to the inadequate signs on the public highways. I would like for someone who has the authority to have all highways in Louisiana checked, especially all crossroads and intersections.

The crossroads where the accident happened as reported recently has no cross - road sign at all, besides a curve about 200 yards north of crossing.

If possible, every dangerous curve and intersection should have caution blinker lights on them. In a great number of cases it will be found that electricity is readily available, if not lights could be operated with batteries.

A death was caused by this accident that occurred Jan. 27, 1955, eight miles south of Bastrop, La. Something has got to be done if we are ever going to check the death and destruction that is happening on our highways. Something needs to be put up and down the highways that will keep people ever conscious that they are just one second from death or invalidism and being maimed or crippled.

If necessary, put a luminous or lighted sign everywhere on the highway where a fatal accident happens. Maybe that will make people know that death and destruction are right in front of them.

Certainly the speed limits should be enforced at all times. At night when it is most important that speed be reduced there are very few officers on duty to enforce them. There is equally as much or maybe more need for more officers on duty at night as in daytime. Also they need to patrol the highways at night, which isn't done very much.

I write this not with any animosity, hatred or self - seeking cause, but in the hope that something will be done to stop some of the death and destruction on our highways. Also I write this in the hope that my wife, Martha Elizabeth Laing, who was a child of God, first above all things, might not have died in vain.

Army-McCarthy Row

Editor, Morning World:

The sound and fury having died away, how, in my opinion does the several participants in the army-McCarthy-Watkins row come out.

McCarthy bigger than ever.

Potter willing to risk the freedom he helped preserve, in order to gain votes of Americans of doubtful loyalty but more numerous — he thought.

Nixon either insincere in his attitude toward Joe during the trouble, or later in his campaign speeches. I think the former, but in either event now possessing lesser stature.

Eisenhower I consider vindicative and petty (demonstrated by his snubbing of Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy) also his continued treatment of MacArthur and in having tried to protect the illusions of infallibility of his own military clique by his gag order, when he should have known it was bound to leak out sometime anyway. Certainly the greatest loser of them all.

Politics And Politicians

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

From all reports that I have been able to gather, of late, it looks that politics is beginning to pick up and take quite a bit of momentum and the politicians are stirring around among the people more frequently than they did. Of course, there is a reason for all this, as the elections are drawing near and they must feel their way around, so to speak. We can't blame them for that—in fact it is a healthy sign for the country. From all signs this will be a "hot" election. I am referring to the state election here in our own home state. We know from past experience, it will be a big political year all over the nation. This is the usual way it goes and probably should go that way.

There will be quite a few New Comers that will toss their hats into the running for the first time this year, and all the old ones that are holding office now will naturally try to stay in, because this thing of playing politics has become of late years a very thrilling thing, and, at the same time, a good paying thing.

Have you ever heard it said that one must learn the game of politics —and how to play it?

After all, there is something to it and so few of us never learn to play the game of politics successfully — that is, we can't even get enough votes to be elected, and, after all that is what matters most is winning over the opposition, and usually we have plenty of opposition to fight.

For fear you may not know it, a politician must be a good salesman. He must sell his ideals and principles to the people as well as himself. A politician should be a good speaker and know what he wants to talk about, and talk straight and to the point. He should, by all means, be powerful and intelligent in his presentation of the subject he is discussing. You should be persuasive enough to get people to thinking your way, and convert them that you are the right man for the job.

Now, in this election coming up soon, some of the candidates that will run will run for the fun of running, some will coin out. Of course, they will all want to win, but we know now that is an impossibility. Some people that enter politics have no experience or back ground for the office they are running for, therefore, when they are defeated they feel let down and downhearted.

In this state election you will have plenty of candidates in the race for all the various offices throughout the state. They will come out on all sorts of platforms, and in those platforms they will make many wild promises—that can't reasonably be fulfilled, and they know it. By now the people should be wise to those political tricks, all such tricks and "schemes" by politicians are worn out. We shouldn't promise more than we know we can do. What is a promise worth if it is not kept? We judge a man by his actions and deeds—not by what he promises, and professes to be.

Lets be fair and honest, and not condemn all politicians — There are good honest men holding office —and I think—if the temptation for making money was removed from their lives they would, no doubt, be better men and render more and efficient service to the people. It is mighty hard to shun doing wrong. When the opportunity for doing wrong is with us every day. The Bible said, if you remember, the Love of money was, and is, the root of all evil, and all means all. I believe that is true. What do you think?

Be on the look-out for the politicians, for you will hear a heap of them within the next six or seven months. Come on in, the more the better. If you want to know how you will stand or what people think of you, just run for a public office.

Are You A Grass Roots American?

Southport, Fla.

Editor, Morning World:

With both our political parties willing to give up our national sovereighty, our only hope of preserving our constitution lies in a third party. Through it we may have a chance of waking up our countrymen; and by using it as a pressure group we may force one of our major parties to return to Americanism.

To learn the extent to which we are being betrayed by officials high in our state department, send to U. S. Senator William E. Jenner for his revealing speech, "It Can Happen Here." To learn the terrible fact that the United Nations is nothing but a one world plot to turn America over to the Communists, seize your property and reduce you to slavery in your lifetime, send to the Honorable Usher L. Burdick, U. S. house of representatives, for his equally revealing speech, "The Great Conspiracy to Destroy the United States."

Every loyal citizen knows we need a third party but no one will organize it. So although I'm just another grass roots American with no funds or backing, I'm going to pave the way for a third party. When any nationally known patriot is ready to organize it, I'll be happy to turn over my list of loyal Americans to him. Surely if each of us plays his part, our God will send us a leader.

Heartless Character

Hebert, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I want to raise my voice against such heartless characters as the nephew beater in Palls Valley, Oklahoma. I have been a member of one of the many Holiness branches since April 27, 1924. She is no sister of mine in the Lord. Our church teaches the fruits of the spirit: Rom. 6:22, Gal. 5:22, Eph. 5:9, Phil. 1-11. No minister of our gospel taught her in six months conversion to beat a child. We believe, "if you spare the rod — spoil the child," but no brutality. We believe in love — not hate. She is no example of a Holiness Church member. You can't judge an apple tree by a few rotten apples on it.

Expression of our church — "She must be a wolf in sheep's clothing, slipped in under the wire." People usually judge others by themselves. She is devil - possessed herself is why she was so anxious to beat the devil out of her nephew.

In case the news reporter in Palls Valley, Okla., didn't know, please take notice: Church Suffering Undue Reproach: "Whereas, the Church of God is suffering undue reproach by the slanderous title "Holy Rollers" in reference to the Church of God.

In consequence of this decision we herewith give general notice to the public that all reference to the Church of God by the use of the above title "Holy Rollers" by the public press or otherwise will be considered and treated as a slanderous and malignant offense."

There are several Holiness Churches. I defend them all. I will not tolerate one lone woman, who is a natural born bully to run over a weaker person to bring any undue reproach on the way we raise a child. No church in our land teaches such brutality: the spirit which possessed her must have come from behind the iron curtain.

SILENT NIGHT

NEW YORK, (AP) — Citizens who get annoyed by the noise of trash collectors working at night can do something to help, says New York's Sanitation Commissioner Andrew W. Mulrain. He said the refuse collectors are told to work as quietly as possible when working at night, so they won't annoy sleepers. But, he added, the public can help by not overstuffing the garbage cans. Then the workers won't have to bang the cans to empty them.

False Prophets

Subconsciously they're hoping for one.

They dare to compare 1955 with 1929.

We didn't have frozen french - fries in 1929.

I mean it.

They are so concerned with similarities that they overlook the biggest difference.

Some of us have so much faith in the prospects for an expanded American economy that it makes us By George angry to see anybody try, with snide, subtle psychological brain-washing, to pull the rug out from under it.

I don't like to hear anybody deprecate the free-wheeling competition which made this prosperity possible, and I don't like to hear him sneer at the stock market which reflects it.

In the first place, during the crash of 1929, when many banks folded completely, many blue-chip stocks continued to pay dividends! Throughout the depths of the depression, they paid dividends. Some have never missed a dividend since the Civil War!

Aside from this, the stock market of 1929 and the stock market of 1955 are basically two different things.

They represent utterly different things!

We didn't have frozen french-fries in 1929.

And we didn't have commercial airlines and whipped cream in a can.

More than half of the 1500 names on the big board weren't there in 1929.

Because we didn't have plastics. We didn't have television. We didn't know about antibiotics and radar and jet planes and nylon.

Sure it's a dizzy height, when the stock market gets higher than it has ever been and you keep looking down. But don't look down. Look up. That's the direction of the future.

General David Sarnoff estimates that within 25 years half the things you'll be buying haven't even been dreamed of yet.

Twenty-five years ago if anybody'd tried to sell you some uranium stock you'd have locked him up.

Today uranium mining and processing is big business.

We've come a long way together, but we still have a long way to go.

Together.

Personal income has gone from 86 billion to 286 billion dollars.

Production per man increased 57 per cent.

SAVINGS, that important personal shock absorber which cushions the ride over the rough spots . . .

Personal savings now total a record 231 billion dollars.

When I hear these dire predictions of disaster, I always remember the early Boston merchant who said, "When whale oil is gone the world will be plunged into darkness."

He didn't know about Texas.

I don't remember his name. Pessimists are never very important people.

And vice versa.

In the face of this bright and shining future and its exciting unexplored frontiers of electronics and chemistry and unharnessed atoms, anybody with so little faith that he would bet against it. . . .

Doesn't deserve to share in it.

Facts Worth Knowing

COLD SPOT HUNTED

DEVILS LAKE, N. D., (AP)—The chamber of commerce received a letter from an Idahoan who wants to sell a full-length black bearskin coat. J. R. Finn of Council, Idaho, wrote that he had heard Devils Lake is one of the coldest places in the country and might provide a buyer for the garment. Finn said the coat is worth $50 and he will sell it for $25. In Idaho, he added, it never gets cold enough for the coat to be needed. "You can't even stand the thing until it gets down to 20 or 30 degrees below zero," Finn wrote.

Stratojet Bomber Crashes In Wilds; One Man Rescued

THE PAS, Manitoba, Feb. 12 (AP)—A U.S. Air Force Stratojet bomber blew up and crashed in the snowy wilderness of northern Saskatchewan today. A Saskatchewan Airways skiplane later picked up one of two survivors who had been spotted at the scene. There were four crewmen aboard.

Ian McLeod, Saskatchewan Airways manager, said in Prince Albert that the skiplane also had picked up a Royal Canadian Air Force rescue man who had been parachuted at the scene near Big Sandy Lake, 120 miles northeast of Prince Albert.

He said a brief radio message also indicated the plane had gone back to pick up the other known survivor and another rescue man.

The survivors and rescue men will be kept in Cumberland House Hospital in Prince Albert until transferred to The Pas. Extent of injuries, if any, were not known.

An RCAF spokesman said the men were located in the vicinity of the plane's wreckage, 435 miles northwest of Winnipeg, and more than 15 planes are pressing the search for the two other crewmen aboard the huge craft. The sighting of the two survivors earlier was reported by the 44th Air Rescue Squadron at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

In Winnipeg the RCAF Search and Rescue Center moved into high gear to plan evacuation of the survivors from the rugged, lake-dotted swamp area. There was no immediate indication of the men's physical condition.

The U.S. Air Force identified the downed crewmen as: Lt. Col. Kenneth G. McGrew, 33, plane commander; Maj. Robert D. Dowdy, 31; Capt. Lester E. Epton, 33, and Capt. Thomas L. Pittman, 34. All are married and lived with their families in Riverside.

The six-jet bomber from the 22nd Bomb Wing crashed when one of its engines failed, RCAF officials said. The stricken craft was accompanied by another B47, whose captain radioed the RCAF control tower at the Joint Air Training Center in Rivers, Man., that his companion had gone down.

The two planes were on a training flight. Unofficial reports said they were returning to March Field from the Thule air base, in Greeland, and were flying at 35,000 feet.

McCarthy Raps Evacuation Of Tachen Islands

CHICAGO, Feb. 12 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) declared today the Eisenhower administration "has ordered a retreat" by its actions in the Formosa situation.

He declared that evacuation of the Tachen Islands is "not a victory." He said it means that Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese troops have been left to "wither on the vine."

"I think the fact that the Republican administration has ordered a retreat is the outstanding development of the current crisis," he said.

McCarthy was the last of seven speakers at a Lincoln Day rally of conservative Republicans. Some other speakers also criticized the Eisenhower administration.

Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah declared that under the administration the country has "gone farther to the left in the last two-year period than any other two-year period in the history of our country."

McCarthy declared that:

"As long as I am in the Senate—and I hope that's for some time—I want to assure you . . . there will be no rubber stamping by me regardless of whether the Democrats or Republicans are in power, even if I will get me an invitation to the White House for dinner."

McCarthy apparently referred to the fact that his name did not appear on recent White House invitations to state dinners.

Gov. Lee said the leftward trend, as he called it, of the present administration "is immoral and I think it is dishonest."

It's easy to oven - barbecue a chicken. Just quarter the broiler or fryer and arrange it in a baking pan. Mix up your favorite barbecue sauce and drizzle some of it over the chicken. Bake in a moderate oven, adding more barbecue sauce at regular intervals, until chicken is browned and tender.

Hard-Up Congressman Who Wants Part-Time Job Meets Ridicule

The Oklahoma Democrat is seeking an outside job to supplement what he calls an inadequate $15,000 a year.

So far, he's got offers of an exclusive franchise to sell tumbleweed in Washington and a job as kennel-master at the Cloverleaf Greyhound park, a dog racing track at Loveland, Colo.

And some of his constituents in his district at Tuttle, Okla., have passed the hat and collected $4.01 so he can "start hitchhiking home and buy a few hamburgers on the way."

The contributors said they believe there are "plenty of good and qualified men who will be glad to serve in Congress at the present salary of congressmen."

Whatever pain such suggestions may give Wickersham, he passes them off in good humor. He's deadly serious though about the financial plight of some congressmen.

Wickersham says he's not only been working for nothing as a congressman, but the job actually has been costing him some $400 a month out of his own pocket.

While pushing legislation to raise the $15,000 pay of congressmen, he said he would entertain offers for outside jobs on weekends and evenings.

He isn't going to take the tumbleweed and kennel-master jobs. He presumed the tumbleweed would be of the Oklahoma variety although he noted the proposal came from Los Angeles.

As for being a kennel-master, Wickersham pointed to the fact that the track is a good distance from Washington and doesn't open until May 27.

His office said that surprisingly he has received a good bit of mail from Ohio about his "job wanted" proposal. But his office said most of it is on the theme: "If you think you have it so bad, you should see us."

District of Columbia postal workers sent him a money order for 40 cents. They said they sympathized with his effort to get a pay raise. They knew how he felt, they said, because their average pay was closer to $4,000 than $15,000. Wickersham took the hint: A plug for a pending proposal to give postal workers a raise.

Wickersham said he is thinking of the two money-making schemes more in the practical line—one to organize an evening class in salesmanship and the other to book himself for paid speeches.

Wickersham has sold both real estate and insurance, not to mention selling himself to the voters every two years. And he figures his recent trip to Moscow would make for some good lectures.

"I am the only member of Congress who has personally talked to all 10 top leaders of Russia," he said. "Also I predicted immediately after my trip that Bulganin and Zhukov would be moving into the saddle."

Ellender Raps Liberals' Stand On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La) said tonight that "so-called liberal senators" have introduced a batch of civil rights bills as "political sops to various pressure groups, and for no other reason."

Ellender, who has demonstrated he is one of the ablest filibusterers in Congress, promised Louisiana voters:

"You may rest assured that I shall oppose them with all my strength, as I have always done in the past."

Ellender criticized three democratic colleagues, Sens. Humphrey (Minn), Lehman (NY) and Magnuson (Wash) for introducing a variety of civil rights bills. His comments were in a weekly report to his state recorded for radio broadcast (WWL New Orleans).

"I can not help but believe that racial relations would actually improve a great deal, and at a greater pace, if the so-called liberal elements of congress and the radical leadership of various pressure groups ceased making mountains out of mole hills," he said.

"Most of the evils which these bills seek to abolish are non-existent."

Ellender said he is convinced "that these force bills are not directed at improving the conditions of any minority group but rather are bare-faced attempts to obtain the political goodwill of various minority organizations.

"In the process of course, the South is used as the whipping boy."

Sen. Lehman, informed of Ellender's comments, said Ellender, "of course has the right to support or oppose any legislation according to his conscience."

Lehman said he, Humphrey and other sponsors offered the civil rights bills "because they are of great importance not only to the Negro population but also to the entire nation."

Lehman said the bills represent issues that this country has always stood for.

"We intend to push them with all our might," he said.

Ellenders said Magnuson introduced a bill to "outlaw segregation" on trains, airlines, buses and other forms of interstate transportation.

He added that this already had been done by the courts through "judicial interpretation of the commerce clause of the constitution."

"I frankly doubt that the majority of our Negro population is going to be misled by this laborious creation of a gigantic straw man, and the subsequent huffing and puffing in which the so-called liberals will now indulge," Ellender said.

Stratojet Bomber Crashes In Wilds; One Man Rescued

THE PAS, Manitoba, Feb. 12 (AP)—A U.S. Air Force Stratojet bomber blew up and crashed in the snowy wilderness of northern Saskatchewan today. A Saskatchewan Airways skiplane later picked up one of two survivors who had been spotted at the scene. There were four crewmen aboard.

Ian McLeod, Saskatchewan Airways manager, said in Prince Albert that the skiplane also had picked up a Royal Canadian Air Force rescue man who had been parachuted at the scene near Big Sandy Lake, 120 miles northeast of Prince Albert.

He said a brief radio message also indicated the plane had gone back to pick up the other known survivor and another rescue man.

The survivors and rescue men will be kept in Cumberland House Hospital in Prince Albert until transferred to The Pas. Extent of injuries, if any, were not known.

An RCAF spokesman said the men were located in the vicinity of the plane's wreckage, 435 miles northwest of Winnipeg, and more than 15 planes are pressing the search for the two other crewmen aboard the huge craft. The sighting of the two survivors earlier was reported by the 44th Air Rescue Squadron at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

In Winnipeg the RCAF Search and Rescue Center moved into high gear to plan evacuation of the survivors from the rugged, lake-dotted swamp area. There was no immediate indication of the men's physical condition.

The U.S. Air Force identified the downed crewmen as: Lt. Col. Kenneth G. McGrew, 33, plane commander; Maj. Robert D. Dowdy, 31; Capt. Lester E. Epton, 33, and Capt. Thomas L. Pittman, 34. All are married and lived with their families in Riverside.

The six-jet bomber from the 22nd Bomb Wing crashed when one of its engines failed, RCAF officials said. The stricken craft was accompanied by another B47, whose captain radioed the RCAF control tower at the Joint Air Training Center in Rivers, Man., that his companion had gone down.

The two planes were on a training flight. Unofficial reports said they were returning to March Field from the Thule air base, in Greeland, and were flying at 35,000 feet.

TWO DEAD—Air Force personnel stand ankle deep in foamite chemical as they search wreckage of B-36 atomic bomber for victims after the huge ship crashed and exploded while coming in for a landing at Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth. Two crewmen died in the crash. Eighteen others escaped with minor burns and bruises.

Gooney Is Not Looney, U. S. Scientists Learn; Big Birds Don't Scare

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The gooney birds of Midway Atoll are stubborn but far from looney, a team of baffled biologists reported today after waging a largely losing battle to shoo them away.

The scientists had responded to a call for help from the Military Air Transport Service, which said the big albatrosses, with a wing spread of seven feet, were bumping into planes over the Pacific island.

There was even one report—later proved apocryphal—that the birds were hitchhiking rides on planes.

Philip A. Dumont and Johnson A Neff of the Fish and Wildlife Service tried to scare the birds away from the runways, near which they were nesting.

They set off flares, fired rifles, mortars and bazookas, assailed the birds' eardrums with high frequency waves, and wafted smoke from a burning truck tire in their direction.

But the birds seemed to sense the scientists were not really trying to hurt them.

"Intent on brooding their eggs," the report said, "the gooney birds continued to sit. Some even slept."

Then the biologists tried destroying the eggs in the nests—and they hopefully reported that "after more detailed study, this could be a practical measure of control." Birds quickly deserted their empty nests—but many of them did not go far. One was seen to move about a mile to a bazooka range, where it started "dancing."

Anyway, the "gooneys have been much maligned," the report said.

"While the birds may do a few crazy things, such as sitting on a light bulb instead of an egg, they do not perch on the wings of aircraft, nor do they fly out to meet planes and ride back on the wings."

The biologists found that actually there is no record of a gooney bird causing a plane to crash at Midway.

However, in the first half of 1954 the gooneys were credited with 10 plane strikes which resulted in damage amounting to thousands of dollars to the aircraft.

Whatever the airmen may think of the gooneys, Navy men rate them high as entertainers.

around Tachen. The Reds shelled and bombed Yikiang Island, just north of Tachen and found they had not yet come up against the American "last line" of defense, the Nationalists said.

The Communists probably will make stabs at the other little offshore islands still held by the Nationalists to see where the U.S. now stands on protecting such outposts as Matsu, the Nationalists said.

their usual training stations around Subic Bay in the Philippines. They went into Formosa Strait to cover the Tachens evacuation, which was completed yesterday. They made a show of military force and they will remain close to the continuing danger area in their normal stations. Patrol activities of small vessels in the Strait will be carried on normally.

4. Officials said that final steps for ratification of the defense treaty between the United States and the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa will be taken in a few days. Like the resolution adopted by Congress two weeks ago, the treaty ratified by the Senate this week is designed to nail down American determination to keep Formosa out of Communist hands.

5. U.S. officials said the fact that the Chinese Communists had chosen not to "ask for trouble" by attacking ships or planes involved in the Tachens operation—except when planes got over Red territory—tended to raise a little more hope that eventually the Reds might agree to end the fighting.

However, such optimism as might be drawn from the lack of combat was tempered by the cold fact that the Reds were gaining territory which they would otherwise have had to fight for. There was no reason to fight unless they had been deliberately looking for an opportunity to harass and embarrass the United States. In view of the American power concentrated in the area the Reds probably knew they could have gotten into a lot of trouble that way.

Washburn was indicted on one count: Murder. Nelson was indicted on three counts: Murder, accomplice to murder and conspiracy to murder. The indictment said, however, that Nelson was not in San Angelo when Mrs. Weaver was killed.

Cliff Tupper, one of Washburn's lawyers, was in Judge Mays' court to hear the indictments read. He left without saying anything. But he had criticized District Attorney Aubrey Stokes for not producing two "mystery" witnesses who purportedly saw Washburn in San Angelo.

"I'd like to ask the prosecutor a question," Tupper had said before the grand jury reported. "Isn't it a bit ridiculous to keep the names of two alleged identifying witnesses a secret on the ground that their lives are in danger and at the same time to say that Nelson and Washburn, who are securely in jail, are the guilty persons?

"In other words, is the dangerous man still at large?"

"Tupper will se all of our witnesses at the proper time," Stokes said.

Stokes recommended that both Washburn and Nelson be held without bond or trial. He suggested that he would like to see them go on trial for their lives about a month from now. The indictment did not go into a motive.

But Harry Weaver said the motive was to get him out of the way so that Washburn, who needed money, could get some of his wife's fortune. She owned two or three ranches and rights to land where there may be oil and uranium.

His first sermon preached and the first funeral he conducted, are told in the yellow pages clipped from a newspaper.

All the time he has been in Monroe he has carefully preserved clippings and especially those of the Kiwanis club of which he has been a local and area officer.

In his collection he discloses a bicycle license taken out by Miss Nellie Levinson of Birmingham, Ala., now his wife. Its date is Dec. 31, 1899. Those were the days of strenuous bicycle trips which antedate the era of the "horseless carriage."

Closely following the death of former Mayor H. H. Benoit, came the death of Miss Louise Endom, daughter of a former mayor, Fred Endom, and the past week, Mrs. Corinne Bernstein, widow of Mayor Arnold Bernstein died. These deaths came unexpectedly and suddenly. The city of Monroe now has no living former mayor.

The other two nominees were Tom Tully, for his work in "The Caine Mutiny" and Edmond O'Brien, who played in "The Barefoot Contessa."

The nominees were unveiled with all of the splendor of a big Hollywood premiere on a lavish television show and "nominee" parties in plush Hollywood niteries.

thur Anderson, 60, leaped first and injured his back in landing.

"My back hurt so I crawled out of the way so the others wouldn't fall on top of me," he said.

On the second floor, Robert Staff, 54, was sleeping on a cot in his 4x6x7 foot room. The smoke and fire awakened him. Staff, who was sleeping nude, groped blindly for his clothing but couldn't find any. He ran to the rear of the hallway, knocked out a window pane and slid down a garbage disposal rope. Firemen covered him with blankets.

Charles Taylor, 62, who has only one leg, was lying awake on his cot on the first floor, when he heard the crackle of flames.

"I yelled 'fire,' grabbed my crutches, my pants and shirt," he said. "I got out into the hall and put on my pants and shirt there. Other men began running past me, but nobody knocked me down. Then I went down a hallway and down the steps."

Another survivor, Arthur M. Malcolm, 60, said his hair caught fire when he ran through the third-floor hallway. He finally leaped from a window.

Firemen found some bodies leaning against window sills where the victims were overcome when they tried to escape. One victim was found lying across a toilet where he apparently had tried to douse his burning clothing with water.

The injured were given emergency treatment at the Salvation Army's famed Harbor Light mission, next door to the hotel. Then they were removed to the Cook County Hospital.

Coroner Walter McCarron said he was "horrified" to learn of the cooped-up conditions in the hotel.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The gooney birds of Midway Atoll are stubborn but far from looney, a team of baffled biologists reported today after waging a largely losing battle to shoo them away.

The scientists had responded to a call for help from the Military Air Transport Service, which said the big albatrosses, with a wing spread of seven feet, were bumping into planes over the Pacific island.

There was even one report—later proved apocryphal—that the birds were hitchhiking rides on planes.

Philip A. Dumont and Johnson A Neff of the Fish and Wildlife Service tried to scare the birds away from the runways, near which they were nesting.

They set off flares, fired rifles, mortars and bazookas, assailed the birds' eardrums with high frequency waves, and wafted smoke from a burning truck tire in their direction.

But the birds seemed to sense the scientists were not really trying to hurt them.

"Intent on brooding their eggs," the report said, "the gooney birds continued to sit. Some even slept."

Then the biologists tried destroying the eggs in the nests—and they hopefully reported that "after more detailed study, this could be a practical measure of control." Birds quickly deserted their empty nests—but many of them did not go far. One was seen to move about a mile to a bazooka range, where it started "dancing."

Anyway, the "gooneys have been much maligned," the report said.

"While the birds may do a few crazy things, such as sitting on a light bulb instead of an egg, they do not perch on the wings of aircraft, nor do they fly out to meet planes and ride back on the wings."

The biologists found that actually there is no record of a gooney bird causing a plane to crash at Midway.

However, in the first half of 1954 the gooneys were credited with 10 plane strikes which resulted in damage amounting to thousands of dollars to the aircraft.

Whatever the airmen may think of the gooneys, Navy men rate them high as entertainers.

The Communists probably will make stabs at the other little offshore islands still held by the Nationalists to see where the U.S. now stands on protecting such outposts as Matsu, the Nationalists said.

their usual training stations around Subic Bay in the Philippines. They went into Formosa Strait to cover the Tachens evacuation, which was completed yesterday. They made a show of military force and they will remain close to the continuing danger area in their normal stations. Patrol activities of small vessels in the Strait will be carried on normally.

4. Officials said that final steps for ratification of the defense treaty between the United States and the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa will be taken in a few days. Like the resolution adopted by Congress two weeks ago, the treaty ratified by the Senate this week is designed to nail down American determination to keep Formosa out of Communist hands.

5. U.S. officials said the fact that the Chinese Communists had chosen not to "ask for trouble" by attacking ships or planes involved in the Tachens operation—except when planes got over Red territory—tended to raise a little more hope that eventually the Reds might agree to end the fighting.

However, such optimism as might be drawn from the lack of combat was tempered by the cold fact that the Reds were gaining territory which they would otherwise have had to fight for. There was no reason to fight unless they had been deliberately looking for an opportunity to harass and embarrass the United States. In view of the American power concentrated in the area the Reds probably knew they could have gotten into a lot of trouble that way.

Washburn was indicted on one count: Murder. Nelson was indicted on three counts: Murder, accomplice to murder and conspiracy to murder. The indictment said, however, that Nelson was not in San Angelo when Mrs. Weaver was killed.

Cliff Tupper, one of Washburn's lawyers, was in Judge Mays' court to hear the indictments read. He left without saying anything. But he had criticized District Attorney Aubrey Stokes for not producing two "mystery" witnesses who purportedly saw Washburn in San Angelo.

"I'd like to ask the prosecutor a question," Tupper had said before the grand jury reported. "Isn't it a bit ridiculous to keep the names of two alleged identifying witnesses a secret on the ground that their lives are in danger and at the same time to say that Nelson and Washburn, who are securely in jail, are the guilty persons?

"In other words, is the dangerous man still at large?"

"Tupper will se all of our witnesses at the proper time," Stokes said.

Stokes recommended that both Washburn and Nelson be held without bond or trial. He suggested that he would like to see them go on trial for their lives about a month from now. The indictment did not go into a motive.

But Harry Weaver said the motive was to get him out of the way so that Washburn, who needed money, could get some of his wife's fortune. She owned two or three ranches and rights to land where there may be oil and uranium.

Wets And Drys Agree In Mississippi That Liquor Issue Makes Hypocrites

JACKSON, Miss. Feb. 12 —UP— The "wets" and "drys" in the Legislature have agreed on at least one point—Mississippi is tied fast to hypocrisy by the dollar.

It is not uncommon to hear a member in quest of school revenue say that placing a higher tax on the sale of whisky might "risk" driving the bootlegger to surrounding states.

If all 82 sheriffs suddenly enforced the prohibition law, it would place a burden on the state treasury which already is suffering from malnutrition.

Steps were taken this week to give the state a bigger bite of the bootleg market, on ground that if it is impossible to repeal prohibition the state might as well tax illegal sales of alcoholic beverages to the limit.

The Senate concurred in a House provision to place a five per cent tax on retail whisky sales, rather than the general levy of three per cent designated in the sales tax bill.

Senators also inserted a provision to let the beer distributor collect the sales tax from the retailer who would pass it on to the consumer.

Sponsors figured the state could collect more of the tax by this method in counties where sale of beer is illegal. Many bootleggers do not report to the tax commission.

Under present law, the state collects about $2 million a year on whisky sales, one million apiece from the "black market" levy on wholesalers and from the two per cent sales tax, according to official state sources.

In addition, many municipalities along the Mississippi River and in the Delta put a "tax" of $100 a month on all bootleggers. Actually, this is on the books as "fines" for violating the prohibition law.

It goes into the city budget for paying expenses. In one Delta city it has brought in as much as $2,000 a month, figured on 20 bootleggers.

One town uses half of its collections for support of its hospital.

Of course, there are no figures available on how much bootleggers "pay off" law enforcement officials for letting them operate.

One Legislator who would like to see prohibition repealed, but who votes the other way because of the "dry nature" of his constituents, confided:

"Eventually, the situation may reach the point where officials would dare not crack down on bootlegging if they wanted to for fear of running a financial deficit.

"It may come to the point where they will argue that the state can't afford to legalize whisky because you can get more money the other way.

"People would come to say that because of usage, an 'unwritten law' permits sale of liquor. This would save the Legislature from taking the risk of putting it in the books."

All-Time Highs Reached In Production Of Goods; Consumer Buying Drops

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP)—Production of many raw materials and consumer goods thrust to all-time peaks this week but consumer buying was a little lower.

The list of new records was impressive.

Automobile output estimated at 167,095 cars, was the highest for any week on record. Also at new high levels were production and refining of crude oil and production of electric power. Steel output climbed to its highest point in 16 months.

Latest government figures on the building industry showed spending on new construction in January at a record for that month, despite cold weather.

The upturn in industrial activity was accompanied by a new surge of optimism in Wall Street. Stunned momentarily by the change of premiers in Moscow, the stock market quickly regained its stride. In one of its strongest advances in 15 years, the market broke into high ground, smashing records which had held intact since 1929.

While the Russian government shakeup apparently heralded a tougher policy toward the West, there was little evidence of war-scare psychology in either business or consumer buying. Prices of basic raw materials failed to show any pronounced change; the overall drift of commodity futures prices was moderately lower.

Total dollar volume of retail trade—including purchases of food, automobiles and gasoline as well as the furnishings and apparel—was down a little for the week. Department store sales, at latest available count, dipped below the year-ago level for the first time in 1955.

Retail sales of new automobiles continued to lag behind the blistering production pace set by the manufacturers. General Motors, gunning for a new high, sparked the week's record output of passenger cars with Chevrolet building just under 40,000. Overtime and Saturday shifts were scheduled by Ford and Plymouth.

With 1955 production well into its second month interest centered in Chrysler's fight to regain its traditional 20 per cent slice of the auto market. Latest figures showed retail sales of all Chrysler makes—Chrysler, DeSoto, Dodge and Plymouth—exactly 20 per cent of the industry's January total.

Steel production—highest since October 1953—climbed to 87.4 per cent of capacity, equivalent to 2,110,000 tons. The trade weekly Iron Age said the industry will be operating "at over 90 per cent of capacity within a few weeks, and if the rate of incoming business holds, raw steel output may reach 94 to 95 per cent in March or early April." With both foreign and domestic consumers clamoring for American steel, it said, "a serious turn in international events would create one of the tightest steel markets since Korea."

Construction activity eased back a little in January but the decline from December—8 per cent—was smaller than usual for that time of year.

Total spending for January was 2¾ billion dollars, a new high for that month. Private projects accounted for two billion, with half going into construction of new homes. State and local governments increased their spending, with new schools taking the lion's share. Communities hard-pressed for adequate school facilities cocked an ear at Washington where President Eisenhower proposed a federal aid-to-education program. Its aim would be to help local communities finance up to seven billion dollars worth of new school construction in the next three years.

The decision of top leaders of the AFL and CIO to combine forces in a single labor organization of 15 million members drew a mixed reaction in business circles. Some industrialists said the merger would result in a "labor monopoly" while others said it might contribute to industrial stability and labor peace. Both sides seemed to agree on one point: It would strengthen labor's hand at the bargaining table.

Widely mixed trends were apparent this week in the latest batch of corporate earnings reports. Net income of the nation's major railroads last year was down 23 per cent from the high levels of 1953, reflecting the decline in freight traffic, although profits were on the rise again in December. Chrysler Corp. reported a 75 per cent drop in net earnings. But a 31 per cent gain in profits—on reduced sales—was reported by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. United States Gypsum Co. said both sales and earnings were at record peaks.

By and large, stockholders fared pretty well late year. Cash dividends paid by companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange showed an increase of nearly 9 per cent over 1953, reaching an all-time high of 6½ billion dollars.

Briefly over the business scene: January unemployment showed a gain of 400,000 reflecting lay-offs of retail clerks hired for the Christmas shopping season. Consolidated Edison Co. of New York announced plans for the world's first atomic power plant financed entirely by private capital.

Fairbanks Heart Workers Plan To Notify Residents

Mrs. Dorothy I. Worley, district chairman for the Fairbanks area on Heart Sunday drive, Feb. 20, has notified residents of the area that not only will each home be contacted by the ringing of doorbells, but everyone will "be notified just what time we will be by each house." The residents will be notified by a telephone call sometime this week.

In announcing that all homes will be contacted on the special drive, Mrs. Worley also released the names of workers in her area. They are Mesdames Ernest Dupuis, Walter Roberts, A. C. Stewart, Jerry York, Earl Brimberry, Harry Sloan, L. C. Gill, Roy Golson, J. T. McKnight, Clyde Bradford, Sr., and Edward Trevillion.

Following the actual visit to each home, the workers will then count and roll the money. It will be deposited in the Sterlington bank until being brought to the main headquarters in Monroe.

Major Drive In Stocks Leads To Historic Highs

NEW YORK Feb. 12 (AP)—A major drive ahead this week sent the stock market to a new historic high.

Old records of the great bull market of 1929 were eclipsed by the forward surge.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $2.50 on the week and finished at $159.70.

At that level, the average is $2.00 higher than the 1929 high of $157.70 reached Sept. 3, 1929.

At the bottom of the depression in 1932, the average stood at $16.90.

An opportunity was offered for a grand break on a major scale when the Russians changed prime ministers and engaged in some spectacular sword rattling. That opportunity was ignored.

Most of the day the market rocked along steadily with only moderate losses. In the final hour, however, there was a sudden break in the aircrafts that sent the entire market down.

Selling exhausted itself completely Tuesday. Buyers were standing ready and willing at the opening Wednesday. The market whirled upward in one of the strongest advances of the past 15 years.

That was the day The Associated Press average broke the old 1929 high.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were Electric & Musical Industries up 1 at 5¾ on 468,800 shares; Hupp Corp. up ⅛ at 7⅛; Curtiss-Wright off ⅜ at 21⅛; Avco Mfg. up ⅞ at 7⅛, and Fairchild Engine up ½ at 20⅜.

U. S. government bonds drifted lower this week while the corporate bond market moved forward and backward to little net result.

There was no downward pressure on the treasury list at any time, reported dealers in those securities. But neither was there any demand. Investors switching from one government issue into another tended to depress prices.

The government's 20-year 3¼s lost 18-32 at 106 28-32 bid, yielding 2.84 per cent. The new 40-year 3s dipped 6-32 at 100 4-32 bid, a 2.99 per cent yield. The 2½s of 1963 at 99 22-32 bid were off a quarter of a point on the week.

Ever try seasoning mashed potatoes with grated cheese and paprika? They are particularly good this way if you pile them into a pie plate and brown under the broiler.

Wets And Drys Agree In Mississippi That Liquor Issue Makes Hypocrites

JACKSON, Miss. Feb. 12 —UP— The "wets" and "drys" in the Legislature have agreed on at least one point—Mississippi is tied fast to hypocrisy by the dollar.

It is not uncommon to hear a member in quest of school revenue say that placing a higher tax on the sale of whisky might "risk" driving the bootlegger to surrounding states.

If all 82 sheriffs suddenly enforced the prohibition law, it would place a burden on the state treasury which already is suffering from malnutrition.

Steps were taken this week to give the state a bigger bite of the bootleg market, on ground that if it is impossible to repeal prohibition the state might as well tax illegal sales of alcoholic beverages to the limit.

The Senate concurred in a House provision to place a five per cent tax on retail whisky sales, rather than the general levy of three per cent designated in the sales tax bill.

Senators also inserted a provision to let the beer distributor collect the sales tax from the retailer who would pass it on to the consumer.

Sponsors figured the state could collect more of the tax by this method in counties where sale of beer is illegal. Many bootleggers do not report to the tax commission.

Under present law, the state collects about $2 million a year on whisky sales, one million apiece from the "black market" levy on wholesalers and from the two per cent sales tax, according to official state sources.

In addition, many municipalities along the Mississippi River and in the Delta put a "tax" of $100 a month on all bootleggers. Actually, this is on the books as "fines" for violating the prohibition law.

It goes into the city budget for paying expenses. In one Delta city it has brought in as much as $2,000 a month, figured on 20 bootleggers.

One town uses half of its collections for support of its hospital.

Of course, there are no figures available on how much bootleggers "pay off" law enforcement officials for letting them operate.

One Legislator who would like to see pronibition repealed, but who votes the other way because of the "dry nature" of his constituents, confided:

"Eventually, the situation may reach the point where officials would dare not crack down on bootlegging if they wanted to for fear of running a financial deficit.

Road Vs. School Fight In State Is Now Postponed

BATON ROUGE Feb. 12 —UP— The expected fight between education and highway backers for the state's oil royalty cash today appeared to have been indefinitely postponed.

The joint legislative committee on highways and the joint segregation committee met yesterday and talked over the situation with Gov. Robert Kennon.

Sen. W. M. Rainach of Summerfield, chairman of the segregation committee, announced afterwards that "both committees are in accord that education and highways are of paramount importance to the state."

Sen. James D. Sparks of Monroe, chairman of the highway committee, joined in the statement, which continued, "there is no conflict of opinion as to the proposition that revenues accruing to the state from mineral lands shall not be used exclusively for one function of government.

"They shall be distributed equitably, according to needs."

Rainach's committee was set up during the 1954 legislature to find legal methods of retaining school segregation. Sparks' group has just completed two days of public hearings aimed at readying highway legislation for the May fiscal session.

Sparks has said his group plans to start the state's long-range highway program "with the minimum amount of money necessary." He mentioned bonding about $12 million of oil royalties a year for loans to get the road overhaul underway.

Rainach, who previously pointed out the state must spend millions of dollars to equalize its classroom facilities if it hopes to prevent school integration, said:

"The governor concurs that a majority of the offshore oil revenues should not be used for highways. . .and feels that the highway program will be agreeable to taking less than the lion's share."

City and parish officials were assured by Sparks this week that there are no plans to fund all the oil and gas revenues for highway bond issues.

New Iberia May Be Selected As Jet Base Site

NEW IBERIA, La. —UP— A proposed jet training base may be located here despite objections from Fifth Ward farmers, the Navy said today, but it also held out the possibility that the base might be located at Houma to the east of here.

Capt. H. D. Martin of the U.S. Naval Training Base at Pensacola, Fla., made the statement at a meeting with a nine-man delegation of farmers who are objecting to the base in the vicinity of Iberia airport.

Martin told the delegation that their objections have been heard by top Navy and defense department officials, but added that New Iberia is the best site between Lake Charles and New Orleans.

"We don't have an appropriation yet," Martin said, "but the New Iberia tag still is hung on the proposed base."

He said that if objections had not been made by the 5th Ward Homestead League action on the base would have been taken by now.

Martin said that possibly a meeting might be arranged to give all opponents of the site an opportunity to express their views, but no date has been set by Navy officials and it wouldn't be "right now."

Earlier, at a closed meeting, Martin conferred with a steering committee of those in favor of the jet base headed by Mayor P. A. Viator.

Bills To Exempt Natural Gas From Control By U. S. Are Offered In Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—This week brought the introduction in Congress of legislation long sought by the natural gas industry. Two Texas members of the House offered bills to exempt natural gas production from federal regulation unless it is destined for interstate commerce.

Separate bills were introduced by Reps. Ikard and Rogers, Texas Democrats. Whether either will make headway in Congress remain to be seen. Some legislators are reported to be in favor of letting the house commerce committee write its own bill. In any case, there probably won't be any Senate consideration of such legislation until it is clear what the House is going to do.

Ikard's bill also would write into law a recent ruling by the Federal Power Commission (FPC) permitting interstate pipeline companies to figure, for ratemaking purposes, the fair market field value of gas produced from their own wells. Ikard offered his bill as an amendment to the Natural Gas Act of 1938.

Ikard said in a statement that all utility type operations of the pipeline companies would remain under FPC jurisdiction.

The legislation proposed by Rogers is similar to the bill by Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) which passed Congress several years ago and was vetoed by President Truman. Ikard's bill goes a step further with its ratemaking provision.

The bills would nullify a decision in which the Supreme Court held last June that the FPC has authority to regulate the price of all natural gas flowing into interstate commerce. This decision came in a case involving the Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla.

"Natural gas is a commodity that is produced, owned and sold just like anything else" Ikard said. "Its movement must be free of unwarranted restraint, and it is unconscionable for the government, either by legislation, executive edict, or judicial decision, to treat it in any other manner.

Some domestic producers have been seeking a legislative curb to limit imports to 10 per cent of domestic demand. The coal industry has urged a similar restriction with respect to imports of residual fuel oil.

Asked about the proposals, the President said his administration is trying to liberalize trade and that progress has been made in the last two years in getting nations to eliminate quota-fixing as a trade practice.

On the day after the President so spoke, the House Ways and Means Committee approved a bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act but refused to write into it any provision for limiting oil imports.

As the result of the committee action, the next round in the fight for import restrictions probably will be an attempt to have the House consider the bill under an "open rule" which would permit amendments to be offered from the floor. If this fails, the fight then is likely to be transferred to the Senate.

LUCKY OUR CREDIT WAS GOOD...when the baby came

It would have been embarrassing and inconvenient if Lucy had come "C. O. D."

Not that we couldn't have managed, but there were a lot of little extra expenses we hadn't figured on—items we had not included in our budget. And the things Lucy needed she had to have right now—not next week, or next month.

Fortunately, our credit was good. Everybody we bought from knew we always paid promptly—when our bills came due. They knew that anything we bought on our charge accounts this month would be paid on or before the due date the following month . . . and they gave us all the credit we needed, when we needed it.

A good credit record is not, of course, a matter of luck. It is the result of a sensible policy of buying — on your charge accounts or deferred payments—only what you can pay for on the date it is due.

Paying your bills promptly is not only a measure of personal prestige. It's a practical proposition, too, for you never know when the need will arise formerchandise or services for which you are not immediately prepared to pay cash. Protect your credit standing ... pay all bills on the date they are due.

Road Vs. School Fight In State Is Now Postponed

BATON ROUGE Feb. 12 —UP— The expected fight between education and highway backers for the state's oil royalty cash today appeared to have been indefinitely postponed.

The joint legislative committee on highways and the joint segregation committee met yesterday and talked over the situation with Gov. Robert Kennon.

Sen. W. M. Rainach of Summerfield, chairman of the segregation committee, announced afterwards that "both committees are in accord that education and highways are of paramount importance to the state."

Sen. James D. Sparks of Monroe, chairman of the highway committee, joined in the statement, which continued, "there is no conflict of opinion as to the proposition that revenues accruing to the state from mineral lands shall not be used exclusively for one function of government.

"They shall be distributed equitably, according to needs."

Rainach's committee was set up during the 1954 legislature to find legal methods of retaining school segregation. Sparks' group has just completed two days of public hearings aimed at readying highway legislation for the May fiscal session.

Sparks has said his group plans to start the state's long-range highway program "with the minimum amount of money necessary." He mentioned bonding about $12 million of oil royalties a year for loans to get the road overhaul underway.

Rainach, who previously pointed out the state must spend millions of dollars to equalize its classroom facilities if it hopes to prevent school integration, said:

"The governor concurs that a majority of the offshore oil revenues should not be used for highways. . .and feels that the highway program will be agreeable to taking less than the lion's share."

City and parish officials were assured by Sparks this week that there are no plans to fund all the oil and gas revenues for highway bond issues.

New Iberia May Be Selected As Jet Base Site

NEW IBERIA, La. —UP— A proposed jet training base may be located here despite objections from Fifth Ward farmers, the Navy said today, but it also held out the possibility that the base might be located at Houma to the east of here.

Capt. H. D. Martin of the U.S. Naval Training Base at Pensacola, Fla., made the statement at a meeting with a nine-man delegation of farmers who are objecting to the base in the vicinity of Iberia airport.

Martin told the delegation that their objections have been heard by top Navy and defense department officials, but added that New Iberia is the best site between Lake Charles and New Orleans.

"We don't have an appropriation yet," Martin said, "but the New Iberia tag still is hung on the proposed base."

He said that if objections had not been made by the 5th Ward Homestead League action on the base would have been taken by now.

Martin said that possibly a meeting might be arranged to give all opponents of the site an opportunity to express their views, but no date has been set by Navy officials and it wouldn't be "right now."

Earlier, at a closed meeting, Martin conferred with a steering committee of those in favor of the jet base headed by Mayor P. A. Viator.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—This week brought the introduction in Congress of legislation long sought by the natural gas industry. Two Texas members of the House offered bills to exempt natural gas production from federal regulation unless it is destined for interstate commerce.

Separate bills were introduced by Reps. Ikard and Rogers, Texas Democrats. Whether either will make headway in Congress remain to be seen. Some legislators are reported to be in favor of letting the house commerce committee write its own bill. In any case, there probably won't be any Senate consideration of such legislation until it is clear what the House is going to do.

Ikard's bill also would write into law a recent ruling by the Federal Power Commission (FPC) permitting interstate pipeline companies to figure, for ratemaking purposes, the fair market field value of gas produced from their own wells. Ikard offered his bill as an amendment to the Natural Gas Act of 1938.

Ikard said in a statement that all utility type operations of the pipeline companies would remain under FPC jurisdiction.

The legislation proposed by Rogers is similar to the bill by Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) which passed Congress several years ago and was vetoed by President Truman. Ikard's bill goes a step further with its ratemaking provision.

The bills would nullify a decision in which the Supreme Court held last June that the FPC has authority to regulate the price of all natural gas flowing into interstate commerce. This decision came in a case involving the Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla.

"Natural gas is a commodity that is produced, owned and sold just like anything else" Ikard said. "Its movement must be free of unwarranted restraint, and it is unconscionable for the government, either by legislation, executive edict, or judicial decision, to treat it in any other manner.

Some domestic producers have been seeking a legislative curb to limit imports to 10 per cent of domestic demand. The coal industry has urged a similar restriction with respect to imports of residual fuel oil.

Asked about the proposals, the President said his administration is trying to liberalize trade and that progress has been made in the last two years in getting nations to eliminate quota-fixing as a trade practice.

On the day after the President so spoke, the House Ways and Means Committee approved a bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act but refused to write into it any provision for limiting oil imports.

As the result of the committee action, the next round in the fight for import restrictions probably will be an attempt to have the House consider the bill under an "open rule" which would permit amendments to be offered from the floor. If this fails, the fight then is likely to be transferred to the Senate.

LUCKY OUR CREDIT WAS GOOD...when the baby came

It would have been embarrassing and inconvenient if Lucy had come "C. O. D."

Not that we couldn't have managed, but there were a lot of little extra expenses we hadn't figured on—items we had not included in our budget. And the things Lucy needed she had to have right now—not next week, or next month.

Fortunately, our credit was good. Everybody we bought from knew we always paid promptly—when our bills came due. They knew that anything we bought on our charge accounts this month would be paid on or before the due date the following month . . . and they gave us all the credit we needed, when we needed it.

A good credit record is not, of course, a matter of luck. It is the result of a sensible policy of buying — on your charge accounts or deferred payments—only what you can pay for on the date it is due.

Paying your bills promptly is not only a measure of personal prestige. It's a practical proposition, too, for you never know when the need will arise formerchandise or services for which you are not immediately prepared to pay cash. Protect your credit standing —pay all bills on the date they are due.

80 High School Teams Enter Cage Rally

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Caught on the fly in the rush of a busy week:

The coon hunters are departing today after their annual Louisiana Championship Wild Coon Hunt and National Coonhound Bench Show. It has been great to meet this particular brand of sportsmen, and we hope Publisher Eddie Ross, now located in Columbus, O., where he puts out the coon hunters' magazine, Mountain Music, sees fit to keep the annual event going here. Every state in the south and midwest was represented by outstanding hounds and hunters proud to show the work of their prized dogs. Such oldtimers as E. I. Rice, Nacogdoches, Tex., and Uncle Jimmie Hulme, Paris, Tenn., continue to be regular fixtures at the hunts.

This week an assortment of sportsmen covering every field of fish and game in the state move in for the Louisiana Wildlife Federation's three-day convention starting Friday and running through next Sunday. The Ouachita unit hosts the gathering which will offer recommendations the sportsmen feel will improve hunting and fishing in the state.

L. S. U. Culls Field, May Name New Coach Soon

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 12 (AP)—The chairman of a six-man screening committee promised today his group would complete its search for a new athletic director and head football coach for Louisiana State University before Wednesday.

Then, said Sterling Gladden, "It will be up to the Board of Supervisors, and I hope they approve our choice." Gladden is a member of the board.

Gladden would mention no names as to possible successors to athletic director T. P. Heard and head football coach Gaynell Tinsley, ousted last Saturday by action of the board. He also declined to list the candidates interviewed by his committee.

But in answer to a question about an Austin, Tex., newspaper story that LSU was considering Paul (Bear) Bryant of Texas A&M, he replied: "That's news to me."

Leading candidates for the football coaching post include Ed McKeever, former Notre Dame coach and onetime LSU assistant; Perry Moss, former LSU assistant now on the University of Miami staff; two Georgia Tech assistants, backfield coach Frank Broyles and line coach Ray Graves, and Stan Galloway, who coached an undefeated team at Southeastern Louisiana College last season.

The committee also was reported to have interviewed Paul Dietzel, Army assistant; Ben Martin, Navy assistant, and Charles Pervis, University of Illinois backfield coach.

Jim Corbett, former LSU sports publicity director now with the National Broadcasting Company sports department in New York, heads the list of candidates for athletic director.

In a telephone interview today with radio station WJBO, Corbett said he had been contacted by LSU officials, and added:

"I told them I have always been and always would be interested in LSU. I'd be happy to come down to discuss the situation. So far no date has been set for the interview."

Corbett said "it would be difficult to elaborate on interest when you do not know the situation down there."

However, backers of former head football coach Tinsley are booming him for athletic director. Tinsley, an All America end at LSU in the thirties, served as head football coach for seven years and will be paid $12,500 yearly for the two years remaining on his contract.

His supporters contend that as athletic director Tinsley would get backing from many who liked him personally out disliked his coaching.

The selection committee took a day off today after two and one half days of interviewing prospects. The group was named last Wednesday morning by the joint athletic committee, composed of the athletic council and the board committe on athletics and student activities.

Gladden wouldn't say whether the interviews would be renewed Monday, nor would he say whether the committee would submit one name or several for each post.

The selection committee will report back to the joint athletic committee at 9 a.m. Wednesday. Two hours later the board meets to consider the choices.

The two groups also will consider a proposal to change the LSU athletic program and place athletics under direct administrative control of President Troy Middleton.

University spokesmen say the change is needed to conform with the Southeastern Conference constitution and the standards of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The Board of Supervisors presently has overall control of the athletic program.

Approval of the change seems certain, but final action may be delayed because under board rules the proposal must lie over for one month before final action.

Bryant's name came into the speculation today when a story in the Austin, Tex., American said it had learned LSU had contacted the Texas A&M coach.

Bryant said "no one" from LSU "has contacted me officially." But he did not deny he had spoken to someone from LSU.

218 Boys Meet Clinic Aces

Cold weather yesterday apparently bit into the expected turnout for the second annual Twin Cities Boys Baseball Clinic when only 218 young athletes, less than half the 450 who were on hand a year ago, were at Legion Memorial Stadium to get top baseball tips from some of baseball's foremost figures.

The morning session, for kids 12 years old and under, was the most popular with 122 small fry participating. The afternoon session for high school and college talent attracted 96 athletes.

Headline figures meeting with the boys included Billy Joe Adcock, first baseman for the Milwaukee Braves; "Schoolboy" Rowe, Detroit Tiger coach and onetime ace hurler; Bill Le, former Chicago Cub pitcher; Ed Head, the former Brooklyn pitcher who manages the Twin Cities Sports; and the popular Tony John, a former minor league catcher who once caught for the old Brown Paper Mill semi-pro club of West Monroe.

Others participating included Paul Flores stellar infielder-outfielder for the Twin Cities Sports; George Luffey, the assistant coach at Northeast Louisiana State who has been performing in the Evangeline League; Bob Ledbetter, former International League pitcher; Malcolm Landry, Dallas Eagles; Johnny Fetzer, a retired minor leaguer; Robert Akenhead of the Baton Rouge Red Sticks; and a pair of big league scouts, "Hap" Morse of the Phillies and Atley Donald of the Yankees.

Head served as director of the clinic with Rowe, Lee, and Landry giving pitching instructions; Adcock lecturing on training and batting; John imparting catching tricks; Flores and Fetzer working with the young outfielders; Morse working with the third basemen, and Akenhead serving with the second sackers.

San Antonio Gets Ready For Texas Open Tournament

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 12 (AP)—The winter golf tour moves into San Antonio Monday for the 28th annual Texas Open Golf Tournament with present day stars looking for new scoring records to conquer on the par 36-35—71 Brackenridge Park course.

Just about every scoring record has happened to the park's short, though narrow, layout. Last year it was Chandler Harper's 259 setting a tournament for P. G. A. competitive record for a par 71 course over the 72 hole route. Harper had three consecutive 63's after an opening round 70. The 54-hole total of 189 was the best ever recorded.

Al Borsch set the original P. G. A. record round with an 11 - under par 60 at Brackenridge Park several years ago, and last year Ted Kroll equalled it. Toby Lyons had a 28 on the front nine two years ago, a P. G. A. record.

Any one of a dozen golfers are capable of rewriting the record book again when play gets serious Thursday in the $12,500 tournament.

Before the tournament gets underway, there will be two pro-amateur sideshow events worth $4,600 in prizes.

A pro - am at Brackenridge Park Monday has drawn many Texas pros to play with local amateurs. The field of 200 has prizes totaling $1,600 in cash and merchandise as their goal.

Oak Hills Country Club has an invitational pro-am Tuesday, worth $3,000 in prizes. Two club amateurs are paired with their invited guest.

All but one winter tour winner thus far is expected. These include Gene Littler, champion of Los Angeles and Phoenix opens; Tommy Bolt, San Diego winner; Mike Fetchick, Brawley Open titler; Shelley Mayfield, Palm Springs winner; and all of the leaders of the Tucson Open being played at present. Only absentee will be Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the Bing Crosby Pro - Amateur winner.

Also on hand will be Tony Holguin, 1953 champion; Jackie Burke Jr., who held the Texas Open record with 260 until last year; two time winner E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Dave Douglas, 1949 winner; and Ed Oliver, who captured the Texas Open back in 1947.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Caught on the fly in the rush of a busy week:

The coon hunters are departing today after their annual Louisiana Championship Wild Coon Hunt and National Coonhound Bench Show. It has been great to meet this particular brand of sportsmen, and we hope Publisher Eddie Ross, now located in Columbus, O., where he puts out the coon hunters' magazine, Mountain Music, sees fit to keep the annual event going here. Every state in the south and midwest was represented by outstanding hounds and hunters proud to show the work of their prized dogs. Such oldtimers as E. I. Rice, Nacogdoches, Tex., and Uncle Jimmie Hulme, Paris, Tenn., continue to be regular fixtures at the hunts.

This week an assortment of sportsmen covering every field of fish and game in the state move in for the Louisiana Wildlife Federation's three-day convention starting Friday and running through next Sunday. The Ouachita unit hosts the gathering which will offer recommendations the sportsmen feel will improve hunting and fishing in the state.

L. S. U. Culls Field, May Name New Coach Soon

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 12 (AP)—The chairman of a six-man screening committee promised today his group would complete its search for a new athletic director and head football coach for Louisiana State University before Wednesday.

Then, said Sterling Gladden, "It will be up to the Board of Supervisors, and I hope they approve our choice." Gladden is a member of the board.

Gladden would mention no names as to possible successors to athletic director T. P. Heard and head football coach Gaynell Tinsley, ousted last Saturday by action of the board. He also declined to list the candidates interviewed by his committee.

But in answer to a question about an Austin, Tex., newspaper story that LSU was considering Paul (Bear) Bryant of Texas A&M, he replied: "That's news to me."

Leading candidates for the football coaching post include Ed McKeever, former Notre Dame coach and onetime LSU assistant; Perry Moss, former LSU assistant now on the University of Miami staff; two Georgia Tech assistants, backfield coach Frank Broyles and line coach Ray Graves, and Stan Galloway, who coached an undefeated team at Southeastern Louisiana College last season.

The committee also was reported to have interviewed Paul Dietzel, Army assistant; Ben Martin, Navy assistant, and Charles Pervis, University of Illinois backfield coach.

Jim Corbett, former LSU sports publicity director now with the National Broadcasting Company sports department in New York, heads the list of candidates for athletic director.

In a telephone interview today with radio station WJBO, Corbett said he had been contacted by LSU officials, and added:

"I told them I have always been and always would be interested in LSU. I'd be nappy to come down to discuss the situation. So far no date has been set for the interview."

Corbett said "it would be difficult to elaborate on interest when you do not know the situation down there."

However, backers of former head football coach Tinsley are booming him for athletic director. Tinsley, an All America end at LSU in the thirties, served as head football coach for seven years and will be paid $12,500 yearly for the two years remaining on his contract.

His supporters contend that as athletic director Tinsley would get backing from many who liked him personally out disliked his coaching.

The selection committee took a day off today after two and one half days of interviewing prospects. The group was named last Wednesday morning by the joint athletic committee, composed of the athletic council and the board committe on athletics and student activities.

Gladden wouldn't say whether the interviews would be renewed Monday, nor would he say whether the committee would submit one name or several for each post.

The selection committee will report back to the joint athletic committee at 9 a.m. Wednesday. Two hours later the board meets to consider the choices.

The two groups also will consider a proposal to change the LSU athletic program and place athletics under direct administrative control of President Troy Middleton.

University spokesmen say the change is needed to conform with the Southeastern Conference constitution and the standards of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The Board of Supervisors presently has overall control of the athletic program.

Approval of the change seems certain, but final action may be delayed because under board rules the proposal must lie over for one month before final action.

Bryant's name came into the speculation today when a story in the Austin, Tex., American said it had learned LSU had contacted the Texas A&M coach.

Bryant said "no one" from LSU "has contacted me officially." But he did not deny he had spoken to someone from LSU.

218 Boys Meet Clinic Aces

Cold weather yesterday apparently bit into the expected turnout for the second annual Twin Cities Boys Baseball Clinic when only 218 young athletes, less than half the 450 who were on hand a year ago, were at Legion Memorial Stadium to get top baseball tips from some of baseball's foremost figures.

The morning session, for kids 12 years old and under, was the most popular with 122 small fry participating. The afternoon session for high school and college talent attracted 96 athletes.

Headline figures meeting with the boys included Billy Joe Adcock, first baseman for the Milwaukee Braves; "Schoolboy" Rowe, Detroit Tiger coach and onetime ace hurler; Bill Le, former Chicago Cub pitcher; Ed Head, the former Brooklyn pitcher who manages the Twin Cities Sports; and the popular Tony John, a former minor league catcher who once caught for the old Brown Paper Mill semi-pro club of West Monroe.

Others participating included Paul Flores, stellar infielder-outfielder for the Twin Cities Sports; George Luffey, the assistant coach at Northeast Louisiana State who has been performing in the Evangeline League; Bob Ledbetter, former International League pitcher; Malcolm Landry, Dallas Eagles; Johnny Fetzer, a retired minor leaguer; Robert Akenhead of the Baton Rouge Red Sticks; and a pair of big league scouts, "Hap" Morse of the Phillies and Atley Donald of the Yankees.

Head served as director of the clinic with Rowe, Lee, and Landry giving pitching instructions; Adcock lecturing on training and batting; John imparting catching tricks; Flores and Fetzer working with the young outfielders; Morse working with the third basemen, and Akenhead serving with the second sackers.

San Antonio Gets Ready For Texas Open Tournament

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 12 (AP)—The winter golf tour moves into San Antonio Monday for the 28th annual Texas Open Golf Tournament with present day stars looking for new scoring records to conquer on the par 36-35—71 Brackenridge Park course.

Just about every scoring record has happened to the park's short, though narrow, layout. Last year it was Chandler Harper's 259 setting a tournament for P. G. A. competitive record for a par 71 course over the 72 hole route. Harper had three consecutive 63's after an opening round 70. The 54-hole total of 189 was the best ever recorded.

Al Borsch set the original P. G. A. record round with an 11 - under par 60 at Brackenridge Park several years ago, and last year Ted Kroll equalled it. Toby Lyons had a 28 on the front nine two years ago, a P. G. A. record.

Any one of a dozen golfers are capable of rewriting the record book again when play gets serious Thursday in the $12,500 tournament.

Before the tournament gets underway, there will be two pro-amateur sideshow events worth $4,600 in prizes.

A pro - am at Brackenridge Park Monday has drawn many Texas pros to play with local amateurs. The field of 200 has prizes totaling $1,600 in cash and merchandise as their goal.

Oak Hills Country Club has an invitational pro-am Tuesday, worth $3,000 in prizes. Two club amateurs are paired with their invited guest.

All but one winter tour winner thus far is expected. These include Gene Littler, champion of Los Angeles and Phoenix opens; Tommy Bolt, San Diego winner; Mike Fetchick, Brawley Open titlist; Shelley Mayfield, Palm Springs winner; and all of the leaders of the Tucson Open being played at present. Only absentee will be Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the Bing Crosby Pro - Amateur winner.

Also on hand will be Tony Holguin, 1953 champion; Jackie Burke Jr., who held the Texas Open record with 260 until last year; two time winner E. J. (Dutch) Harrison; Dave Douglas, 1949 winner; and Ed Oliver, who captured the Texas Open back in 1947.

Hounds In Last Races Of Louisiana Wild Coon Hunt

Broughton, Poole Dogs Score Wins In Bench Events

While the hunting hounds were in the woods last night for their final races in the three-day Louisiana Championship Wild Coon Hunt, the owners of bench show hounds were displaying their ribbons, rosettes and trophies last night as event winners in the National Coonhound Association's bench show conducted yesterday afternoon at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds.

H. G. Broughton, Dubach, La., and R. D. Motley, Vandalia, Mo., claimed prized distinction when Broughton's Sue was judged best female in show, and Motley's Missouri Major was judged best male. Sue is a Black and Tan. Major, a Walker.

Meanwhile, Scott, a non-registered hound owned by E. E. "Bill" Dougaty, Vivian, La., took over the lead in the wild coon hunt with a total of 1,075 points for two night's work. He had only 150 points the first night, but grabbed 925 Friday night. Truman, owned by William Barnes, West Union, O., was second in the grade class with 1,012½ points entering the final chase.

Ramblin Warrior, owned by Robert "Bob" Fuller, Monroe, the first night's leader in the grade class with 837½ points, got 75 minus points Friday night for 762½ points, but he was scratched amid the meet's only friction.

Heading the registered class after Friday night's races was Bawlie, owned by James Merchant, Grand Chain, Ill. Bawlie, also first night leader, had 762½ yesterday. His closest competition was coming from Warrior III, owned by Elbert Vaughn, Paragould, Ark., with 662½.

Other high dogs running in order from third down were:

Parker, Ozark, Ala., 475; Red Valley Lena, Robert Treece, Vienna, Ill., 437½; Blaze, Albert Watson, Olmsted, Ill., 425; Sis; Joe Davis, Gilliam, La., 425; Blue, Loy Humphrey, Van, Tex., 400; Blue Mack, Joe Harrison, Fulton, Miss., 360.

The meet ends this morning with the final tabulations of last night's points, and trophies will be awarded first, second, third, and fourth place dogs in each class. The awards are being made by Eddie Ross, publisher of the coon hunters' magazine, Mountain Music.

Fuller's dogs was scratched following discord at hunt headquarter's Friday night although Warrior was in the woods with a handler at the time. Fuller said he had violated no hunt rules and his dog should not have been scratched. Ross said rules had been violated and that Warrior also had apparently entered in the wrong, questioning whether or not he was a registered dog. Fuller said the dog, competing in the grade class, was not registered.

3 New Men In Double Main Mat Card Tues.

Wrestling Promoter Gus Kallio, with plenty of time to arrange better wrestling programs now that he has sold his roller skating business at the Walnut St. Arena, has arranged a card of almost all new faces for Tuesday night.

Heeding the fans' plea for new faces, Kallio says, "We have a new connection in order to get new talent in wrestling. The wrestlers you have seen on television will now come here. I have been in the wrestling line of sports and business for a long time, and know what most fans like and want; and am now in the position to arrange the cards to suit the Twin City fans."

Tuesday's card consists of a double main event, with both matches requiring two of three falls to win, with an hour and 15 minute time limit.

In one, Butch Boyette, Columbus, Ohio, takes on Butte, Montana's Lee Fields; and in the other, Red Scarr, of parts unknown, meets Danny Dusek, Omaha, Neb. The latter is the only one of the quartet who has previously appeared here, and is the only one whose style is known.

Which of the new trio are villains, and which are scientific grapplers, remains to be seen. Even Dusek's partner is of unknown quality, because Danny takes turns wrestling with the popularites as well as the villains.

Al Dark, Lopez Reach Baseball Golf Round Of 4

"I didn't beat him," Lopez commented. "He beat himself."

Hutchinson, Seattle manager who won here last year while boss of the Detroit Tigers, agreed that he didn't play too well but said Lopez had a pretty good round.

"I missed a lot of greens," Hutchinson said. "Al was hitting them."

Lopez said he played a little better than yesterday when he qualified with a 79.

Par for the 6,310-yard Miami Springs course is 35-35—70, but brisk winds and chilly weather were not conductive to good medal scores.

Alvin Dark, captain and shortstop of the world's champion New York Giants, stuck close to par and beat Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbetts 5 and 3.

Dark, 1951 winner and runner-up this year for medal honors, didn't get a birdie the entire round but was only 3 over par for the 15 holes.

"The best thing he had going for him today was me," Tebbetts commented with a grin.

Asked if he was off his game, Tebbetts replied: "Shucks, No. I don't have a game. All I had was desire and I didn't have that long after Dark got me."

Others making the semi-finals were Bubba Church, Chicago Cubs, and medalist John Gray of Kansas City. Church beat Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees, 2 and 1, and Gray defeated Lou Kretlow of the Baltimore Orioles, last year's runner-up, 1-up. The semi-finals will be played tomorrow morning and the finals in the afternoon.

Everglades Run To Prince Noor For $24.50 Pay

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 12 (AP) — Hasty House farm's Prince Noor closed with a rush to win the $35,000 Everglades at Hialeah Park today and Montpelier's Saratoga, 6 to 5 choice in the betting, was left at the post and finished last in the field of 15 promising 3-year-olds.

Time for the mile and a furlong feature was 1:51 flat over a fast track. The race was the last big prep for the $100,000 added Flamingo Stakes to be run Feb. 26.

Prince Noor, carrying 126 pounds most of it jockey Johnny Adams, paid $24.50, $13.80 and $6.30. Amber's Folly returned $7.30 and $4.70 and Ambient paid $4.50 to show.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Social Outcast was scratched from the Abraham Lincoln, a $7,500 allowance race, and Hasty Road led all the way to win that event, with Cerise Reine second and Maharajah third in the field of 10 handicap horses.

Olson Believes Jones Will Give Him Good Match

CHICAGO, Feb. 12 (AP) — Middleweight Champion Bobo Olson says he has a lot of respect for Ralph "Tiger" Jones and looks for a good, lively scrap when the two square off in a 10 round non-title go in Chicago Stadium Wednesday.

Jones will be before the television cameras for the second time within a month, the chance at Olson being the reward for polishing off Sugar Ray Robinson in 10 rounds at the stadium as an 8-1 underdog Jan. 19.

Before he took care of Robinson, Jones had lost five bouts in a row. But putting a hitch in Sugar Ray's comeback attempt greatly boosted "Tiger's" ego and popularity.

"I saw the fight on television," Olson said today after arriving from his San Francisco home to start drills in midwest gym.

"I thought it was closer than it turned out. But you've got to give Jones a lot of credit. He's a fellow you have to respect in the ring and this fight Wednesday should be a good one."

There should be little or no back pedalling in the scrap, for both Olson and Jones like to move in for sharp toe-to-toe exchanges.

If Jones wins, or makes an exceptional showing, he may get a crack at Olson's 160-pound crown. There isn't too good pickin's right now for a title defense by Bobo, who in his last time out stopped Pierre Langlois last Dec. 15.

Dane Harris, who heads the group of 30 businessmen, said he had received confirmation from P.G.A. officials that they would sanction the tourney known as the Arlington Hotel Open.

It will be Hot Springs' first professional golf meet in 25 years.

Harris said the tournament will be held over the 7,000 - yard No. 3 course of the Hot Springs Country Club, which is owned by the Arlington Hotel. Work on the greens began today.

The tournament, which Harris said will attract most of the top names in golf, will follow the Fort Worth, Tex., Colonial Open, May 4-8.

Harris said a women's tournament here in the fall also is under consideration.

Negotiations with P.G.A. for the tournament, Harris said, began with the announcement that the Ardmore, Okla., Open would not be held this year.

He said the Hot Springs meet would be an annual affair.

Hounds In Last Races Of Louisiana Wild Coon Hunt

Broughton, Poole Dogs Score Wins In Bench Events

While the hunting hounds were in the woods last night for their final races in the three-day Louisiana Championship Wild Coon Hunt, the owners of bench show hounds were displaying their ribbons, rosettes and trophies last night as event winners in the National Coonhound Association's bench show conducted yesterday afternoon at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds.

H. G. Broughton, Dubach, La., and R. D. Motley, Vandalia, Mo., claimed prized distinction when Broughton's Sue was judged best female in show, and Motley's Missouri Major was judged best male. Sue is a Black and Tan. Major, a Walker.

Meanwhile, Scott, a non-registered hound owned by E. E. "Bill" Doughty, Vivian, La., took over the lead in the wild coon hunt with a total of 1,075 points for two night's work. He had only 150 points the first night, but grabbed 925 Friday night. Truman, owned by William Barnes, West Union, O., was second in the grade class with 1,012½ points entering the final chase.

Ramblin Warrior, owned by Robert "Bob" Fuller, Monroe, the first night's leader in the grade class with 837½ points, got 75 minus points Friday night for 762½ points, but he was scratched amid the meet's only friction.

Heading the registered class after Friday night's races was Bawlie, owned by James Merchant, Grand Chain, Ill. Bawlie, also first night leader, had 762½ yesterday. His closest competition was coming from Warrior III, owned by Elbert Vaughn, Paragould, Ark., with 662½.

Other high dogs running in order from third down were:

The meet ends this morning with the final tabulations of last night's points, and trophies will be awarded first, second, third, and fourth place dogs in each class. The awards are being made by Eddie Ross, publisher of the coon hunters' magazine, Mountain Music.

Fuller's dogs was scratched following discord at hunt headquarter's Friday night although Warrior was in the woods with a handler at the time. Fuller said he had violated no hunt rules and his dog should not have been scratched. Ross said rules had been violated and that Warrior also had apparently entered in the wrong, questioning whether or not he was a registered dog. Fuller said the dog, competing in the grade class, was not registered.

3 New Men In Double Main Mat Card Tues.

Wrestling Promoter Gus Kallio, with plenty of time to arrange better wrestling programs now that he has sold his roller skating business at the Walnut St. Arena, has arranged a card of almost all new faces for Tuesday night.

Heeding the fans' plea for new faces, Kallio says, "We have a new connection in order to get new talent in wrestling. The wrestlers you have seen on television will now come here. I have been in the wrestling line of sports and business for a long time, and know what most fans like and want; and am now in the position to arrange the cards to suit the Twin City fans."

Tuesday's card consists of a double main event, with both matches requiring two of three falls to win, with an hour and 15 minute time limit.

In one, Butch Boyette, Columbus, Ohio, takes on Butte, Montana's Lee Fields; and in the other, Red Scarr, of parts unknown, meets Danny Dusek, Omaha, Neb. The latter is the only one of the quartet who has previously appeared here, and is the only one whose style is known.

Which of the new trio are villains, and which are scientific grapplers, remains to be seen. Even Dusek's partner is of unknown quality, because Danny takes turns wrestling with the popularites as well as the villains.

Al Dark, Lopez Reach Baseball Golf Round Of 4

"I didn't beat him," Lopez commented. "He beat himself."

Hutchinson, Seattle manager who won here last year while boss of the Detroit Tigers, agreed that he didn't play too well but said Lopez had a pretty good round.

"I missed a lot of greens," Hutchinson said. "Al was hitting them."

Lopez said he played a little better than yesterday when he qualified with a 79.

Par for the 6,310-yard Miami Springs course is 35-35—70, but brisk winds and chilly weather were not conductive to good medal scores.

Alvin Dark, captain and shortstop of the world's champion New York Giants, stuck close to par and beat Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbetts 5 and 3.

Dark, 1951 winner and runner-up this year for medal honors, didn't get a birdie the entire round but was only 3 over par for the 15 holes.

"The best thing he had going for him today was me," Tebbetts commented with a grin.

Asked if he was off his game, Tebbetts replied: "Shucks, No. I don't have a game. All I had was desire and I didn't have that long after Dark got me."

Others making the semi-finals were Bubba Church, Chicago Cubs, and medalist John Gray of Kansas City. Church beat Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees, 2 and 1, and Gray defeated Lou Kretlow of the Baltimore Orioles, last year's runner-up, 1-up. The semi-finals will be played tomorrow morning and the finals in the afternoon.

Kallio Boxing Card Set For Monday Week

Promoter Gus Kallio has announced his next boxing card for Monday, February 21st, a week from tomorrow night.

Norris Ray, the Bastrop Bomber, takes a big step on his comeback trail in the feature ten - rounder, when he meets lanky Devayne Garris, the "long - reach" slugger from Farmerville.

A Negro semi-final, slated for six rounds; and three four-round preliminaries complete the card, which will be announced in detail at a later date.

Everglades Run To Prince Noor For $24.50 Pay

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 12 (AP) — Hasty House farm's Prince Noor closed with a rush to win the $35,000 Everglades at Hialeah Park today and Montpelier's Saratoga, 6 to 5 choice in the betting, was left at the post and finished last in the field of 15 promising 3-year-olds.

Eugene Constantin Jr.'s Amber's Folly was second and Belair stud's Ambient took show money. Rokeby stable's Cup Man finished fourth.

Time for the mile and a furlong feature was 1:51 flat over a fast track. The race was the last big prep for the $100,000 added Flamingo Stakes to be run Feb. 26.

Prince Noor, carrying 126 pounds most of it jockey Johnny Adams, paid $24.50, $13.80 and $6.30. Amber's Folly returned $7.30 and $4.70 while Ambient paid $4.30 to show.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Social Outcast was scratched from the Abraham Lincoln, a $7,500 allowance race, and Hasty Road led all the way to win that event, with Cerise Reine second and Maharajah third in the field of 10 handicap horses.

NATS BOOST LEAD

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—The Syracuse Nationals boosted their lead in the eastern division of the National Basketball Association to two and one - half games today by trouncing the Milwaukee Hawks 92-66 in a nationally televised game.

Olson Believes Jones Will Give Him Good Match

CHICAGO, Feb. 12 (AP) — Middleweight Champion Bobo Olson says he has a lot of respect for Ralph "Tiger" Jones and looks for a good, lively scrap when the two square off in a 10 round non-title go in Chicago Stadium Wednesday.

Jones will be before the television cameras for the second time within a month, the chance at Olson being the reward for polishing off Sugar Ray Robinson in 10 rounds at the stadium as an 8-1 underdog Jan. 19.

Before he took care of Robinson, Jones had lost five bouts in a row. But putting a hitch in Sugar Ray's comeback attempt greatly boosted "Tiger's" ego and popularity.

"I saw the fight on television," Olson said today after arriving from his San Francisco home to start drills in midwest gym.

"I thought it was closer than it turned out. But you've got to give Jones a lot of credit. He's a fellow you have to respect in the ring and this fight Wednesday should be a good one."

There should be little or no back pedalling in the scrap, for both Olson and Jones like to move in for sharp toe-to-toe exchanges.

If Jones wins, or makes an exceptional showing, he may get a crack at Olson's 160-pound crown. There isn't too good pickin's right now for a title defense by Bobo, who in his last time out stopped Pierre Langlois last Dec. 15.

Hot Springs To Replace Ardmore On Golf's Trail

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 12 (AP)—A new $15,000 golf tournament, reportedly sanctioned by the Professional Golfers Association, to be held here May 12-15, was announced today by a group of Hot Springs businessmen.

Dane Harris, who heads the group of 30 businessmen, said he had received confirmation from P.G.A. officials that they would sanction the tourney known as the Arlington Hotel Open.

It will be Hot Springs' first professional golf meet in 25 years.

Harris said the tournament will be held over the 7,000 - yard No. 3 course of the Hot Springs Country Club, which is owned by the Arlington Hotel. Work on the greens began today.

The tournament, which Harris said will attract most of the top names in golf, will follow the Fort Worth, Tex., Colonial Open, May 4-8.

Harris said a women's tournament here in the fall also is under consideration.

Negotiations with P.G.A. for the tournament, Harris said, began with the announcement that the Ardmore, Okla., Open would not be held this year.

He said the Hot Springs meet would be an annual affair.

E. J. Richard's Flashy Kid was a fast-finishing third.

Holscher Grabs Stroke Edge In Tucson Open Event

Bolt Jumps Into Contending Spot For Last Round

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 12 (AP)— A 57-foot putt gave Bud Holscher of Santa Monica, Calif., the lead in the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament at the end of the third round today.

The long putt netted him an eagle three on the 550-yard 9th hole and permitted him to finish the 6,409-yard par 70 El Rio Golf and Country Club course with a 66. He now stands 10 under par with 200 for 54 holes.

Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., is a scant stroke behind with 201. Warm weather has loosened the Texan's sore shoulder and he is now rated one of the most dangerous men in the field.

Bolt won the event when it was last played two years ago in much the same manner as he is now playing, today he had a 65. Yet according to him, "I didn't play too good."

Bob Rosburg of San Francisco blamed his slipping to third place with a 202 on "just about the worst round I've played in 10 years." Even so he was one under par with 69.

The tournament was played under weather conditons with the temperature in the 76s.

Holscher, 24, wore a broad grin when a six-foot putt fell on the 18th clinch the lead.

"I didn't think I'd hit it hard enough," he said. "It barely fell.

"I played real good. The only shot you could call lucky was the long putt on the 9th."

Miss Riley Wins Palm Beach Golf For Third Time

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12 (AP)—Polly Riley, the veteran links star from Fort Worth, Tex., won the Palm Beach Women's Amateur Golf Tournament for the third time today, scoring a 1-up decision over 18-year-old Joanne Goodwin of Plymouth, Mass., in the finals.

Polly's putting touch deserted her in the early part of the match but she regained it on the 18th green as she dropped in a slanting downhill putt of our feet to win the hole with a par four and keep the match from going to extra holes.

It was her third victory in the tournamnt and gave her permanent possession of the trophy.

Cold, windy weather made the going difficult and the scores of both girls were high. Polly was eight over par with an 80 and Joanne, the Massachusetts state champion, needed 81 strokes. Both were wrapped in warm sweaters.

Miss Riley missed three-foot putts on the 8th, 9th and 13th greens. The miss on the 13th enabled Miss Goodwin to square the match at that point and they remained all even going into the 18th.

It was a toughly - contested match, with neither girl able to build a lead of more than one hole. Miss Goodwin took the first when Miss Riley muffed a five-foot putt.

Polly squared the match at the third when Joanne hit into a water hazard and took a 1 up lead at the fourth when Miss Goodwin's approach shot overrolled the green. They were even from there until Miss Goodwin tied it up at the 13th.

Cardinals Sign Sarni, Frazier; 13 Are Unsigned

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 12 (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals today announced that catcher Bill Sarni, one of the National League's major surprises last season, and Joe Frazier, the league's No. 1 pinch hitter, have agreed to contract terms for 1955.

Sarni agreed on an undisclosed pay boost in a telephone conversation with Cardinal Vice President Bill Walsingham from his home in Manhattan Beach, Calif. Frazier mailed his contract from Tulsa, Okla., his home.

Walsingham also announced that two rookies, catcher Hal Smith and third baseman Jerry Thomas, have written that they will accept contracts offered them. The Cards now have 26 players in the fold, with 13 unsigned.

Sarni became the Red Birds' No. 1 catcher last June after a hitting streak and held the job with consistent hitting and fielding. He batted an even 300 for the season and topped National League catchers in fielding with .996.

Sarni is starting his 12th year in pro baseball, although he's only 27.

Frazier's total of 20 pinch hits was five more than any other player in the league. The New York Giants World Series hero, "Dusty" Rhodes, had 15 hits in the pinch during 1954.

Frazier hit .325 as a pinch-hitter with an overall .295 average in 81 games.

Smith, 24, hit .259 for Houston last season. Thomas hit .270 for Columbus, Ohio, last season after returning from military service.

Cincinnati Quint Takes Invitation To National Meet

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP) — The University of Cincinnati, a high scoring outfit with one of the nation's outstanding college basketball records, today accepted a bid to the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden, March 12-19.

Cincinnati, which has won 19 games and lost only three, joins Duquesne and Dayton, the only other clubs selected so far for the 12-team competition.

The Bearcats have averaged 88.4 points a game and in Jack Twyman, a 6-6 senior, they have one of the country's top point producers. Twyman, a co - captain, along with Bill Lammert, another senior, has averaged 27.2 points.

Frank Nimmo, Phil Wheeler and Dave Plunkett comprise the remainder of the Cincinnati starting squad, which has won its last 10 games. Nimmo is the only starting sophomore.

This will be the second National Invitation tourney trip for Cincinnati. In 1951, the Bearcats lost to St. Bonaventure in double overtime in the first round. They also played in the first Holiday Festival in Madison Square Garden in 1952. In their lone Garden appearance this season, Cincinnati whipped Seton Hall 88-78.

Oddly, three of the remaining four games on the Cincinnati schedule pits it against the other N. I. T. teams. The Bearcats take on Duquesne in a home and home series and play Dayton in another game. Their remaining tilt is against Miami of Ohio.

7 More Players Agree To Terms With Athletics

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics announced tonight they had received the signed contracts of seven more players, bringing the total to 29.

Oster, a 6-foot, 3-inch lefthander, is a graduate of New York University, facing his first season in pro baseball. Dixon came to the A's last June from Washington, logging six wins and nine losses.

Raether, signed last June from the University of Wisconsin, spent the rest of the season with Savannah in the Sally League.

Both Lopez and Bevan played last season with Ottawa of the International League, Lopez hitting .314, and Bevan .296.

Suder, 14 years with the club, has been used mainly in a utility role.

Burris Casting Lot With Pro Canadians

EDMONTON, Feb. 12 (AP) — Kurt Burris of Oklahoma, All-America center, has signed to play in 1955 for the Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Minor Loops 'Level Off' After Five-Year Slide

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS Ohio, Feb. 12 (AP)— Minor league baseball, which went on the toboggan after hitting its heyday in 1949, seems to have leveled off at the end of the five-year slide.

After soaring to an all-time high of 59 leagues in 1949, the minors skidded in successive seasons to 50, 42, 39, 37 and 33 circuits. That's still a big gain over the 11 leagues of 1942 but is 26 loops under the high spot.

But the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues said today the slump has halted and that the 1955 season will open with the same number which started a year ago. And there's a chance, said promotion director Bob Finch, that the total might jump to 34.

Only one league, the Western Association, has dropped out. Its decision to quit may have been influenced by the appearance of Kansas City as a major league club in its territory.

To make up the loss, the Class AA Mexican League was taken into the association, the first all-foreign circuit to gain full-fledged membership. Another change is that the Western International League has changed its name to the Northwest League and reduced its rating from Class A to Class B.

Finch said attempts are being made to organize what might be called the Florida East Coast League which would include Miami, Key West, Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach and two other cities to be chosen from Fort Myers, Hollywood, Fort Pierce and Vero Beach. The circuit may be ready to go this spring, Finch said.

Of the financial and attendance outlook, Finch observed.

"There is widespread optimism with respect to the financial outcome for the minor league clubs in 1955. This, no doubt, is due to the adoption by a large number of clubs of the pre - season ticket sales idea. scores of clubs have already practically secured their financial success through campaigns held this winter. Many others are planning such drives to culminate during National Baseball Week, March 19-26."

Transfer of the Columbus franchise in the American Association to Omaha, Neb. and of the International League's Ottawa franchise to Columbus, undoubtedly will aid both recipient cities at the gate.

Last season the Columbus attendance was only 121,000, but Omaha has already sold 150,000 tickets to see the same club, and hopes to sell 400,000. And while Columbus sold only 28 season box seats last year more than 400 at $100 each have been snapped up by fans wishing to see the new club in action here. The intensive Columbus ticket drive doesn't get under way until next month, but indications were the advance sale would be greater than last season's total attendance.

Finch said the National Baseball Week observance, an idea born in the office of minor league chief George M. Trautman, would aid every club in the country at the turnstiles. Professional baseball, and 17 nationwide amateur diamond groups will participate in the observance aimed at renewing popular interest in the national pastime.

Holscher Grabs Stroke Edge In Tucson Open Event

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 12 (AP)— A 57-foot putt gave Bud Holscher of Santa Monica, Calif., the lead in the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament at the end of the third round today.

The long putt netted him an eagle three on the 550-yard 9th hole and permitted him to finish the 6,409-yard par 70 El Rio Golf and Country Club course with a 66. He now stands 10 under par with 200 for 54 holes.

Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., is a scant stroke behind with 201. Warm weather has loosened the Texan's sore shoulder and he is now rated one of the most dangerous men in the field.

Bolt won the event when it was last played two years ago in much the same manner as he is now playing, today he had a 65. Yet according to him, "I didn't play too good."

Bob Rosburg of San Francisco blamed his slipping to third place with a 202 on "just about the worst round I've played in 10 years." Even so he was one under par with 69.

The tournament was played under weather conditons with the temperature in the 76s.

Holscher, 24, wore a broad grin when a six-foot putt fell on the 18th clinch the lead.

"I didn't think I'd hit it hard enough," he said. "It barely fell.

"I played real good. The only shot you could call lucky was the long putt on the 9th."

FAMECHON VS. KELLY

Cardinals Sign Sarni, Frazier; 13 Are Unsigned

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 12 (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals today announced that catcher Bill Sarni, one of the National League's major surprises last season, and Joe Frazier, the league's No. 1 pinch hitter, have agreed to contract terms for 1955.

Walsingham also announced that two rookies, catcher Hal Smith and third baseman Jerry Thomas, have written that they will accept contracts offered them. The Cards now have 26 players in the fold, with 13 unsigned.

Sarni became the Red Birds' No. 1 catcher last June after a hitting streak and held the job with consistent hitting and fielding. He batted an even 300 for the season and topped National League catchers in fielding with .996.

Sarni is starting his 12th year in pro baseball, although he's only 27.

Frazier's total of 20 pinch hits was five more than any other player in the league. The New York Giants World Series hero, "Dusty" Rhodes, had 15 hits in the pinch during 1954.

Frazier hit .325 as a pinch-hitter with an overall .295 average in 81 games.

Cincinnati Quint Takes Invitation To National Meet

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP) — The University of Cincinnati, a high scoring outfit with one of the nation's outstanding college basketball records, today accepted a bid to the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden, March 12-19.

Cincinnati, which has won 19 games and lost only three, joins Duquesne and Dayton, the only other clubs selected so far for the 12-team competition.

The Bearcats have averaged 88.4 points a game and in Jack Twyman, a 6-6 senior, they have one of the country's top point producers. Twyman, a co - captain, along with Bill Lammert, another senior, has averaged 27.2 points.

Frank Nimmo, Phil Wheeler and Dave Plunkett comprise the remainder of the Cincinnati starting squad, which has won its last 10 games. Nimmo is the only starting sophomore.

This will be the second National Invitation tourney trip for Cincinnati. In 1951, the Bearcats lost to St. Bonaventure in double overtime in the first round. They also played in the first Holiday Festival in Madison Square Garden in 1952. In their lone Garden appearance this season, Cincinnati whipped Seton Hall 88-78.

Oddly, three of the remaining four games on the Cincinnati schedule pits it against the other N. I. T. teams. The Bearcats take on Duquesne in a home and home series and play Dayton in another game. Their remaining tilt is against Miami of Ohio.

7 More Players Agree To Terms With Athletics

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics announced tonight they had received the signed contracts of seven more players, bringing the total to 29.

Oster, a 6-foot, 3-inch lefthander, is a graduate of New York University, facing his first season in pro baseball. Dixon came to the A's last June from Washington, logging six wins and nine losses.

Raether, signed last June from the University of Wisconsin, spent the rest of the season with Savannah in the Sally League.

Both Lopez and Bevan played last season with Ottawa of the International League, Lopez hitting .314, and Bevan .296.

Suder, 14 years with the club, has been used mainly in a utility role.

Burris Casting Lot With Pro Canadians

EDMONTON, Feb. 12 (AP) — Kurt Burris of Oklahoma, All-America center, has signed to play in 1955 for the Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS Ohio, Feb. 12 (AP)— Minor league baseball, which went on the toboggan after hitting its heyday in 1949, seems to have leveled off at the end of the five-year slide.

After soaring to an all-time high of 59 leagues in 1949, the minors skidded in successive seasons to 50, 42, 39, 37 and 33 circuits. That's still a big gain over the 11 leagues of 1942 but is 26 loops under the high spot.

But the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues said today the slump has halted and that the 1955 season will open with the same number which started a year ago. And there's a chance, said promotion director Bob Finch, that the total might jump to 34.

Only one league, the Western Association, has dropped out. Its decision to quit may have been influenced by the appearance of Kansas City as a major league club in its territory.

To make up the loss, the Class AA Mexican League was taken into the association, the first all-foreign circuit to gain full-fledged membership. Another change is that the Western International League has changed its name to the Northwest League and reduced its rating from Class A to Class B.

Finch said attempts are being made to organize what might be called the Florida East Coast League which would include Miami, Key West, Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach and two other cities to be chosen from Fort Myers, Hollywood, Fort Pierce and Vero Beach. The circuit may be ready to go this spring, Finch said.

Of the financial and attendance outlook, Finch observed.

"There is widespread optimism with respect to the financial outcome for the minor league clubs in 1955. This, no doubt, is due to the adoption by a large number of clubs of the pre - season ticket sales idea. Scores of clubs have already practically secured their financial success through campaigns held this winter. Many others are planning such drives to culminate during National Baseball Week, March 19-26."

Transfer of the Columbus franchise in the American Association to Omaha, Neb. and of the International League's Ottawa franchise to Columbus, undoubtedly will aid both recipient cities at the gate.

Last season the Columbus attendance was only 124,000, but Omaha has already sold 150,000 tickets to see the same club, and hopes to sell 400,000. And while Columbus sold only 28 season box seats last year, more than 400 at $100 each have been snapped up by fans wishing to see the new club in action here. The intensive Columbus ticket drive doesn't get under way until next month, but indications were the advance sale would be greater than last season's total attendance.

Finch said the National Baseball Week observance, an idea born in the office of minor league chief George M. Trautman, would aid every club in the country at the turnstiles. Professional baseball, and 17 nationwide amateur diamond groups will participate in the observance aimed at renewing popular interest in the national pastime.

Cotton Futures Prices Hold To Narrow Limits

Active futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange from 30 to 55 cents a bale. There was a mild flurry of selling early in the week, when the Moscow government announced a sudden shift of premiers. Later on, some selling was prompted by statistics indicating a sharp decline in the movement of cotton into the government loan.

Domestic and foreign price fixing, and short covering, supported the market, however, while the outlook for a somewhat tighter supply of cotton also acted as a prop.

The decline in loan entries last week was sharper than many in the trade had expected. New York Cotton Exchange officials pointed out. And, they added, it now seems likely that the total movement of cotton into government hands this season will be considerably below the Agriculture Department's recent estimate of 2,500,000 bales. Present indications are, exchange officials said, that the total won't reach 2,200,000.

From the start of the current season through Feb. 4, growers have placed 2,104,000 bales in the loan and have withdrawn 238,000 bales, leaving a net stock of 1,866,000.

Exports for the week ended Feb. 8 were estimated by the exchange's Service Bureau at 100,000 bales. This compares with 75,000 the previous week and 102,000 a year ago. The total for the season through Feb. 8 is estimated at 2,131,000 bales vs. 1,642,000 at approximately the same time last year.

'Sowbelly' Crack By Paul Douglas Miffs His Cast

PITTSBURGH Feb 12—(UP)—Cast members of "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" insisted Saturday they're still on speaking terms with actor Paul Douglas despite losing seven weeks pay because he expressed an uncomplimentary opinion about the South.

Producer Paul Gregory decided to end the hit show's road tour here Saturday night after Douglas, who plays the lead role of Captain Queeg, was quoted at Greensboro, N. C. as saying: "The South stinks. It's a land of sowbelly and segregation."

Douglas contended he was misquoted "by a guy out to grab himself a byline." Gregory, fearing a "big dip" at the box office, cancelled a seven-week tour of southern cities scheduled to start Monday after a two-night stand here.

Both Wendell Corey and Steve Brodie, who play the star supporting roles in the production, poohpoohed reports that they were feuding with Douglas and were speaking to him only on stage.

"We're put out at Douglas because the play's closing," Brodie said, "but we're still speaking to him."

Phone Company Office Blasted By Dynamite Bomb

HALEVILLE, Ala., Feb. 12 (AP)—A dynamite explosion tore a hole in the Alabama Telephone Co. office here last night, and hurled a telephone operator to the floor.

Police Chief Odis Armstrong said a large hole was blown in a rear room of the downtown telephone exchange, and windows in adjoining buildings were shattered.

The cable linking the office with lines of the strike-harassed company was undamaged and service was not interrupted.

Mrs. Deward Montgomery, the telephone operator, was thrown to the floor by the blast but suffered little injury. Jake Armstrong, a special guard, was in a front room and was uninjured.

Operators of the company have been on strike since early summer in a contract dispute. The firm serves Fayette, Winfield, Vernon, Hamilton, Haleyville and Double Springs.

The blast caused some damage to equipment but no estimate of the total loss had been made.

Company officials said telephone lines and poles have been damaged in accidents since the strike began.

Lafayette Parish To Vote On Bonds

LAFAYETTE, La. Feb. 12 —(UP)— Lafayette parish residents go to the polls March 29 to vote on bond issues for improving the airport and parish courthouse.

The police jury scheduled the election for three bond and tax proposals.

Courthouse repairs total $446,000, and a proposed administration building at the airport would cost about $150,000. In addition, voters will be asked to approve a one-mill tax for courthouse maintenance.

Both bond issues would extend over 20 years.

Cotton Futures Prices Hold To Narrow Limits

Active futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange from 30 to 55 cents a bale. There was a mild flurry of selling early in the week, when the Moscow government announced a sudden shift of premiers. Later on, some selling was prompted by statistics indicating a sharp decline in the movement of cotton into the government loan.

Domestic and foreign price fixing, and short covering, supported the market, however, while the outlook for a somewhat tighter supply of cotton also acted as a prop.

The decline in loan entries last week was sharper than many in the trade had expected, New York Cotton Exchange officials pointed out. And, they added, it now seems likely that the total movement of cotton into government hands this season will be considerably below the Agriculture Department's recent estimate of 2,500,000 bales. Present indications are, exchange officials said, that the total won't reach 2,200,000.

From the start of the current season through Feb. 4, growers have placed 2,104,000 bales in the loan and have withdrawn 238,000 bales, leaving a net stock of 1,866,000.

Exports for the week ended Feb. 8 were estimated by the exchange's Service Bureau at 100,000 bales. This compares with 75,000 the previous week and 102,000 a year ago. The total for the season through Feb. 8 is estimated at 2,131,000 bales vs. 1,642,000 at approximately the same time last year.

'Sowbelly' Crack By Paul Douglas Miffs His Cast

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 12—UP — Cast members of "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" insisted Saturday they're still on speaking terms with actor Paul Douglas despite losing seven weeks pay because he expressed an uncomplimentary opinion about the South.

Producer Paul Gregory decided to end the hit show's road tour here Saturday night after Douglas, who plays the lead role of Captain Queeg, was quoted at Greensboro, N. C. as saying: "The South stinks. It's a land of sowbelly and segregation."

Douglas contended he was misquoted "by a guy out to grab himself a byline." Gregory, fearing a "big dip" at the box office, cancelled a seven-week tour of southern cities scheduled to start Monday after a two-night stand here.

Both Wendell Corey and Steve Brodie, who play the star supporting roles in the production, poohpoohed reports that they were feuding with Douglas and were speaking to him only on stage.

"We're put out at Douglas because the play's closing," Brodie said, "but we're still speaking to him."

AIRMAN OF MONTH

CHATHAM, Feb. 12 (Special)—A-1C E. D. Hearne, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hearne, of Chatham, has been named outstanding airman of the month at Randolph Field Headquarters in San Antonio, Tex.

Hearne is the administration clerk in the office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for material.

Phone Company Office Blasted By Dynamite Bomb

HALEVILLE, Ala., Feb. 12 (AP)—A dynamite explosion tore a hole in the Alabama Telephone Co. office here last night, and hurled a telephone operator to the floor.

Police Chief Odis Armstrong said a large hole was blown in a rear room of the downtown telephone exchange, and windows in adjoining buildings were shattered.

The cable linking the office with lines of the strike-harassed company was undamaged and service was not interrupted.

Mrs. Deward Montgomery, the telephone operator, was thrown to the floor by the blast but suffered little injury. Jake Armstrong, a special guard, was in a front room and was uninjured.

Operators of the company have been on strike since early summer in a contract dispute. The firm serves Fayette, Winfield, Vernon, Hamilton, Haleyville and Double Springs.

The blast caused some damage to equipment but no estimate of the total loss had been made.

Company officials said telephone lines and poles have been damaged in accidents since the strike began.

Lafayette Parish To Vote On Bonds

LAFAYETTE, La. Feb. 12 —UP — Lafayette parish residents go to the polls March 29 to vote on bond issues for improving the airport and parish courthouse.

The police jury scheduled the election for three bond and tax proposals.

Courthouse repairs total $446,000, and a proposed administration building at the airport would cost about $150,000. In addition, voters will be asked to approve a one-mill tax for courthouse maintenance.

Both bond issues would extend over 20 years.

Why Settle For Less Than $14,000 IN A YEAR

THE DAYS are gone when a "few thousand" a year salary was enough for a man to take care of his family, buy a new car, and "salt some away for the future."

MRS. R. E. DAVIS

HERE'S AN ACRE . . .

. . . and a splendid 6-room, 3-bedroom home on it that's barely 3-years old! It faces Jewel Lake in W. Monroe and you'll find everyone of the following among its spacious sq. footage: nice closet space in bedrooms (one has walk-in); beautiful oak floors; floor furnace and attic fan; 15'x20' living room overlooking the lake; separate dining room; breezeway and attached carport. It's priced at $14,000 (FHA value), and only $1700 down makes the move!

PAINLESS PAYMENTS

For a new 3-bedroom home (already financed), they're extremely painless! Only $700 cash and payments of $54.20 makes this move easy with: 2 wall furnaces; natural woodwork; carport with storage; a "designed with woman in mind" kitchen; located just 4 blocks to Plum St. School on southside; and it's on a paved street! We'll show at the "drop of a hat!"

WIFE SAVER!

The GE dishwasher and disposal in captivating kitchen of this spacious home on Milton in Marie Place will help ease the burden of the "little woman," and so will the following: 3 unusually large bedrooms and a pine-paneled den; a gracious 14x27 living room with Roman brick fireplace, wall-to-wall carpeting and a separate dining room; 2 tile baths; 1800 sq. feet of living area plus double carport and a 100' lot. It's quality and a bargain at $21,500!

IT'S RIDICULOUSLY . . .

Low priced for a 6-room, 3-bedroom, tile bath on the Northside! But the owner has purchased a new home, so hence the sacrifice! Only $10,500 buys all the following: 1289 sq. feet of living area; oak floors throughout; tile bath; roomy living room (with fireplace) and separate dining room; it's just 4 blocks to Barkdull-Faulk grammar and closing costs is all it takes on a 100 per cent G. I. loan. Wanta' gander?

BENDING YOUR EAR?

OH! . . . you might call it that, but it is rather sad to see this well-conditioned home stand vacant when YOU could be giving it such loving attention! It's on a 100' lot within walking distance of Lexington School; there are 2-bedrooms; oak floors; attic fan and floor furnace; has nice garage, and it's selling for only $8500 with only $450 down. Did I bend it!

100% G.I.

Here's a brand new brick that's selling on a 100 per cent G. I. loan with a host of exciting features: 1289 sq. feet of space; 3 bedrooms and a tile bath; central heat; carport with storage; impressive brick fireplace in the spacious living room; large dining area; and the most cabinet space of any home you ever laid eyes on. It's on LAKESHORE, and we'll gladly show today!

LUCKY BUCKS!

Whether they're lucky or not . . . it only takes 400 of them to purchase this new listing on the southside! Total price is only $7250 and look what it buys: oak floors; asbestos siding; 2 bedrooms with nice size living room and roomy kitchen; new water heater; unusually well landscaped yard and it's on the city bus line.

NOPE . . .

. . . it ain't high priced, but man is it roomy! 1270 sq. feet of space with 2 nice size bedrooms; unique 12x20 panelled den; spacious 13x20 living room; oak floors; 75' lot; roomy kitchen with nice cabinet space and separate dining area! It's only $9500 and in the College Area near Sherrouse Grammar!

YOU'RE NUTS!

"That's what the lady said when we told her we had a 2-bedroom home on a 75' lot on Stuart St. for only $6200!" But honest . . . we've "got the goods" with copper plumbing; carport; asbestos siding; central heat; metal frame windows and other nice features. $500 down plus closing costs makes the move, and it's vacant!

670 BUCKS . . .

. . . cash is all it takes to make the move to this well-arranged 3 bedroom home in the college area, and it's already financed with notes of $71 (including taxes and ins.). It's on a 75' lot; has enclosed garage and a breezeway; fenced back yard; oak floors; separate living and dining room and it's vacant. You wanta' look today?

THE LOOT?

Takes very little in fact $500 more on FHA buys every one of the following features: a well-arranged 1047 sq. feet of good space; 2 spacious bedrooms; a 13x15 with 2 walls of closets; a beautiful just been painted kitchen; a 75' lot; it's on Stuart 2nd and we'll show at your convenience!

GONNA' SPLURGE?

If so, don't bother to read more for this is a sensible purchase on the southside for only $9,000! It's on a 100' lot with the following features: 1142 sq. feet comfortable living room and separate dining room; 2 larger than usual bedrooms; 14x21 kitchen with cabinets galore, redecorated, attic fan and has garbage. $1159 down on FHA moves the move into this home on VERNON.

WE GOOFED!

We sold it right after it first went on the market and had to disappoint a lot of people who were too late . . . but it bot through and this splendid home on REAR in W. Monroe is available again! It has 1410 sq. feet of floor area; brick siding; large living room with separate dining room; 2 bedrooms and enclosed 11x32 back porch; nice kitchen; attic fan and Venetian blinds. $10,000 is the price and here's hoping we don't "goof" again!

100% G.I.

It's on FILHIOL in the college area and closing costs of $250 buys and the following: 2 bedrooms; oak floors; it's been completely redecorated throughout in good taste; copper plumbing; asbestos siding; carport with storage; floor furnace and roomy kitchen. It's vacant and priced at $8475!

"I'M AS SHY . . .

of occupants as a Jackson Day Dinner is of Republicans!" "I don't know why 'cause I've got 804 sq. feet of space; carport with storage; 75' lot; beautiful oak floors; floor furnace and a well-arranged kitchen!" "Furthermore, $573 is all it takes down (FHA) to buy me." "Why don't you come look?" I'm located on North 12th in W. Monroe!

HERE'S AN ACRE . . .
. . . and a splendid 6-room, 3-bedroom home on it that's barely 3-years old! It faces Jewel Lake in W. Monroe and you'll find everyone of the following among its spacious sq. footage: nice closet space in bedrooms (one has walk-in); beautiful oak floors; floor furnace and attic fan; 15'x20' living room overlooking the lake; separate dining room; breezeway and attached carport. It's priced at $14,000 (FHA value), and only $1700 down makes the move!

PAINLESS PAYMENTS
For a new 3-bedroom home (already financed), they're extremely painless! Only $700 cash and payments of $54.20 makes this move easy with: 2 wall furnaces; natural woodwork; carport with storage; a "designed with woman in mind" kitchen; located just 4 blocks to Plum St. School on southside; and it's on a paved street! We'll show at the "drop of a hat!"

WIFE SAVER!
The GE dishwasher and disposal in captivating kitchen of this spacious home on Milton in Marie Place will help ease the burden of the "little woman," and so will the following: 3 unusually large bedrooms and a pine-paneled den; a gracious 14x27 living room with Roman brick fireplace, wall-to-wall carpeting and a separate dining room; 2 tile baths; 1800 sq. feet of living area plus double carport and a 100' lot. It's quality and a bargain at $21,500!

IT'S RIDICULOUSLY . . .
Low priced for a 6-room, 3-bedroom, tile bath on the Northside! But the owner has purchased a new home, so hence the sacrifice! Only $10,500 buys all the following: 1289 sq. feet of living area; oak floors throughout; tile bath; roomy living room (with fireplace) and separate dining room; it's just 4 blocks to Barkdull-Faulk grammar and closing costs is all it takes on a 100 per cent G. I. loan. Wanta' gander?

BENDING YOUR EAR?
OH! . . . you might call it that, but it is rather sad to see this well-conditioned home stand vacant when YOU could be giving it such loving attention! It's on a 100' lot (within walking distance of Lexington School); there are 2-bedrooms; oak floors; attic fan and floor furnace; has nice garage, and it's selling for only $8500 with only $450 down. Did I bend it!

100% G.I.
Here's a brand new brick that's selling on a 100 per cent G. I. loan with a host of exciting features: 1289 sq. feet of space; 3 bedrooms and a tile bath; central heat; carport with storage; impressive brick fireplace in the spacious living room; large dining area; and the most cabinet space of any home you ever laid eyes on. It's on LAKESHORE, and we'll gladly show today!

LUCKY BUCKS!
Whether they're lucky or not . . . it only takes 400 of them to purchase this new listing on the southside! Total price is only $7250 and look what it buys: oak floors; asbestos siding; 2 bedrooms with nice size living room and roomy kitchen; new water heater; unusually well landscaped yard and it's on the city bus line.

NOPE . . .
. . . it ain't high priced, but man is it roomy! 1270 sq. feet of space with 2 nice size bedrooms; unique 12x20 paneled den; spacious 13x20 living room; oak floors; 75' lot; roomy kitchen with nice cabinet space and separate dining area! It's only $9500 and in the College Area near Sherrouse Grammar!

YOU'RE NUTS!
"That's what the lady said when we told her we had a 2-bedroom home on a 75' lot on Stuart St. for only $9200!" But honest . . . we've "got the goods" with copper plumbing; carport; asbestos siding; central heat; metal frame windows and other nice features. $500 down plus closing costs makes the move, and it's vacant!

670 BUCKS . . .
. . . cash is all it takes to make the move to this well-arranged 3 bedroom home in the college area, and it's already financed with notes of $71 (including taxes and ins.). It's on a 75' lot; has enclosed garage and a breezeway; fenced back yard; oak floors; separate living and dining room and it's vacant. You wanta' look today?

THE LOOT?
Takes very little, in fact $600 down on FHA buys every one of the following features: a well-arranged 1047 sq. feet of good livin'; 2 spacious bedrooms (largest is 13x15 with 2 walk-in closets); asbestos siding; just been completely redecorated and it has a 75' lot. It's on South 3rd and we'll show at your convenience!

GONNA' SPLURGE?
If so, don't bother to read this, for this is a sensible purchase on the southside for only $9,000! It's on a 100' lot with the following features: 1142 sq. feet; comfortable living room and separate dining room; 2 larger than usual bedrooms; 14x21 kitchen that's been recently redecorated; attic fan and has garage. $1150 down on FHA makes the move into this home on VERNON.

WE GOOFED!
We sold it right after it first went on the market and had to disappoint a lot of people who were too late . . . but, it fell through and this splendid home on REGAN in W. Monroe is available again! It has 1410 sq. feet of space; asbestos siding; large living room with separate dining room; 2 bedrooms and enclosed 11x32 back porch; nice kitchen; attic fan and Venetian blinds. $10,000 is the price and here's hoping we don't "goof" again!

100% G.I.
It's on FILHIOL in the college area and closing costs of $250 buys all the following: 2 bedrooms; oak floors; it's just been completely redecorated throughout in good taste; copper plumbing; asbestos siding; carport with storage; floor furnace and roomy kitchen. It's vacant and priced at $8475!

"I'M AS SHY . . . of occupants as a Jackson Day Dinner is of Republicans!" "I don't know why 'cause I've got: 804 sq. feet of space; carport with storage; 75' lot; beautiful oak floors; floor furnace and a well-arranged kitchen!" "Furthermore, $573 is all it takes down (FHA) to buy me." "Why don't you come look?" I'm located on North 12th in W. Monroe!

Civil Service Test Will Be Given March 2

FARMERVILLE, Feb. 12—Special)—State Civil Service examinations for positions requiring a written test will be given at the Union Parish Trade School, Wednesday, March 2, providing a sufficient number of candidates from this area are scheduled, W. C. Willhite, director, announced today.

Applications for the examinations to be given on the above date must be received by the Department of State Civil Service not later than 5 p.m., February 21. Applications received after this date will be held for the examinations to be given in April.

Willhite stated that there are many employment opportunities existing in the state service at the present time both locally and throughout the state. There are needs in this area for qualified account clerk II's, dietitian I's, dietitian II's, engineering aide II's, stenographer clerk I's and stenographer clerk II's.

He further stated there are continuous needs throughout the state for qualified account clerks, typists, stenographers, engineering aides, professional engineers, nursing nurses, medical laboratory technologists and laboratory technical assistants.

Compliance Date Set For Nursing Home Operators

Nursing home operators have until May 1, 1955, to comply with all minimum standards for a license, according to Dr. Andrew Hedmeg, division of local health services, Louisiana state health department, administrative supervisor for the nursing home program. Minimum standards for nursing care, nutrition, sanitation, and fire regulations were set up by the nursing home advisory committee appointed by Governor Kennon and approved by the board of health.

Hedmeg said, "Conditions in nursing homes have greatly improved in the two years that the board of health has had the responsibility for issuing licenses. Educational programs and the splendid cooperation on the part of the individual operator and the Nursing Home Operators association has been responsible for those advances."

In 1952, when the program was started there were 51 homes in parishes outside of New Orleans and 40 in Orleans. Today in parishes outside of New Orleans there are 66 nursing homes. Forty have a license, 17 have temporary permits, and nine others have applied for licenses.

In New Orleans there are 37 homes, 10 of which have licenses. Twenty - seven are operating with temporary permits. Additional problems are posed in the Orleans area due to differences in local regulations.

The aged and the chronically ill in Louisiana can now be assured that nursing home conditions are improving and that the Board of Health will continue to work for improvement of these facilities.

Compliance Date Set For Nursing Home Operators

Nursing home operators have until May 1, 1955, to comply with all minimum standards for a license, according to Dr. Andrew Hedmeg, division of local health services, Louisiana state health department, administrative supervisor for the nursing home program. Minimum standards for nursing care, nutrition, sanitation, and fire regulations were set up by the nursing home advisory committee appointed by Governor Kennon and approved by the board of health.

Hedmeg said, "Conditions in nursing homes have greatly improved in the two years that the board of health has had the responsibility for issuing licenses. Educational programs and the splendid cooperation on the part of the individual operator and the Nursing Home Operators association has been responsible for those advances."

In 1952, when the program was started there were 51 homes in parishes outside of New Orleans and 40 in Orleans. Today in parishes outside of New Orleans there are 66 nursing homes. Forty have a license, 17 have temporary permits, and nine others have applied for licenses.

In New Orleans there are 37 homes, 10 of which have licenses. Twenty - seven are operating with temporary permits. Additional problems are posed in the Orleans area due to differences in local regulations.

The aged and the chronically ill in Louisiana can now be assured that nursing home conditions are improving and that the Board of Health will continue to work for improvement of these facilities.

Girl Scout News

Troop 24 is a Brownie troop that seems to be having a well-balanced program of work and play under the direction of their leaders, Mrs. Edmond Middleton and Mrs. Charles McBride. For one thing, they've started their Juliette Low collection. The leader brings a glass jar to hold the pennies. The girls put one or two pennies at a time, and when a girl has put in a penny for each year of her age, her name is placed on a colorful poster made for that purpose. Long before March 6, the troop expects to have its offering ready.

Recently the troop was presented with a flag by Mr. J. B. Gelis of the Woodmen of the World, father of one of the Brownies. That called for learning to take part in a flag ceremony. The girls spent one meeting practising, taking turns until each had acted as color bearer or color guard.

In older troops, often it is the custom for the girls to take turns making cookies which they bring to the next meeting for a snack. At least one Brownie of Troop 24, Billie Marie Agin, can do as well as the older Scouts, for she decorated cupcakes with colored icing to serve at a recent meeting.

Mildred Middleton makes good use of all the books of games she can fine, she says. As a result, there is always a new one for the girls to play, as well as the old favorites. Among these the girls like best, she says, are relays. One hilarious one is to give each team a piece of elastic about 18 inches long, fastened together at the ends. The first girl on each team runs to goal, puts the elastic over her head, wriggles through it, steps out of it, and runs back to give it to the next in line. Presumably, the best wrigglers win.

Another relay consists of choosing a queen from each team and seating her in a chair at the goal line, with a long string, knotted at one end, in her lap. Each girl is given several pieces of macaroni, one or two spools and Coca Cola corks with holes in them. The object of the game is to make a necklace for each queen. The team which first succeeds in stringing all of its articles and tying the string around the queen's neck, wins the game. Sounds like fun, doesn't it?

The Girl Planning Board, always enthusiastic, really had a busy morning when it met on that rainy Saturday, remember? First, they planned a surprise birthday program last week. They discussed ideas for interesting their troops in even greater participation in the Juliette Low Fund and in Girl Scout Week, March 6-12. All agreed that troops should attend church services in uniform on Girl Scout Sunday, as well as attending the Girl Scout birthday program at 3:00 that afternoon at Ouachita Parish High School.

The girls asked for a play day on March 12, the out of door day in Girl Scout Week. However, the adults who would have to keep with it have asked the girls to wait until the March meeting to plan in detail for such a day in April or May. The March calendar's pretty crowded with Girl Scout Week and the cookie sale from March 14-26.

Because of her talk at the annual dinner, the girls chose Ann McCarty, Troop 31, to carry greetings to the Boy Scouts at their Court of Honor last Tuesday. Ronnie Hervey, Troop 23, Carol Groves, Troop 9, and Glenda Gates of Troop 38 carried on stage a birthday cake with 45 lighted candles, bearing the greeting, "Happy Birthday, Boy Scouts," which they presented to Mr. George Riser, who was presiding over the meeting. Everyone loves a surprise; we hope the Boy Scouts enjoyed theirs.

Symphony's Second Concert Well Received

The Twin City Symphony Orchestra, under the able baton of Dr. Harry M. Lemert, played to a sizeable and appreciative audience in the auditorium of Brown Hall, Northeast State College Thursday evening. The group of approximately fifty musicians sustained a highly commendable quality of production throughout the program. As a concert-opener, Beethoven's Overture to Prometheus was an excellent choice. The impressive Adagio was effectually delivered, and the music moved smoothly through the slow movement to the vivacious Allegro and stirring coda, which climax the work.

Bizet's First Symphony, written when this composer was only seventeen years of age is a surprisingly mature structure for one so young. Discovered eighty years after it was written, the symphony was premiered in Switzerland in 1935. Certain critics have likened its first movement to Mozart and Beethoven, while others declare it typically Bizet. The local orchestra brought to life the classic-styled first movement, the beautifully mournful slow movement and the dance-like minuet and march episodes which comprise the last two movements.

A suite from Henry Purcell's chamber opera "Dido and Aeneas" (1800) opened the second portion of the program, and was given a very understanding interpretation. As has been suggested by one, "To listen to Purcell is to share an experience — glancing fire — aching regret." The strings, winds and brasses so fused these elements as to seem at their best in portions of the Purcell.

Robert McBride, a clever young American composer was represented by his "Fugato On a Well-known Theme." He has taken this impish theme through a dextrous modulatory excursion of the entire orchestra, giving the percussive group ample reason for front stage bows. A waltz from Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier" served to evoke in certain measures the fullest orchestral tone heard during the evening, gaining the effect of an augmented instrumentation. While the group generally did not evidence the spirit of abandon and freedom manifested in previous performances, there was apparent a new note of serious intent, increased attention, precision of attack, more oneness with the music itself—all of which bids well toward sound progress.

The inestimable contribution of Eloy Fonmayor, the skilled and proficient concert master is worthy of recognition. His presence with the group is a decided asset. Mrs. D. L. Agnew, who occupies the important first chair in second violins and has served as president of the performers, has with L. Slade Brown, Symphony Association president, assumed much of the promotional responsibility this season.

The fact that this organization has more than doubled in size since its inception three years ago and has consistently progressed musically, is a great compliment to its musical director, Dr. Lemert. He has worked untiringly to bring the caliber of performance to the present state of achievement. With him are several gifted and versatile members of the college music faculty, numerous students from the department of music, other faithful personnel from Rayville, Tallulah, Shreveport and Hamburg, Ark. in addition to valued members from the twin cities.

It is to be hoped that civic interest, pride and activity may steadily gain until they catch pace with the enthusiasm and efforts of those who now devote such large portions of their time to provide these evenings of music in Monroe —the performers themselves. The next concert is scheduled for March 25 and will be of exceptional interest.

Give cole slaw a flavor change. Grate a red - skinned sweet-tart appie into the mayonnaise you plan to use on the cabbage salad. Don't peel the apple before grating. News From The Public Library

The months of February, March and April have been designated as the period for the Louisiana reading festival. The purpose of this festival is to bring to more and more people the pleasures of reading. We are trying to give the public many new books as we can afford. We are buying more copies than formerly of popular titles and are doing everything possible to provide the books that the people of Ouachita parish want to read.

Among the new books added to the library collection during the past week, there are several books which are certain to be popular with our patrons. Stories with a Louisiana setting are always in demand and we have two new titles this week. They are "Louisiana Cataloochee" by Arthur D. Everett Widow and "The Period" is in the 19th century life of the Louisiana colony which became New Orleans was settled. It is the story of two men, Pierre Le Moyne Sieur de Bienville and Gaston de Fleuriau. The story moves from Louisiana to France and back again. It is a story of lust greed violence and exciting adventure in the court of Louis XIV and in the forests of the new world.

It is certain that another book on Louisiana which also have a setting in the early days of the colony, a church of a slightly later period. The Bells for New Orleans" will be written by Father Edward F. Murphy. This story is based on the experiences of the Capuchin friars, one of the most colorful adventurers in Louisiana history. The main character of the story is Yvonne Delorme. She was beautiful, flirtatious, shallow and [illegible]

'Steno Spread' Is Problem

ST. LOUIS — If you want to keep secretaries' greatest secret worry, it's how to avoid the dreaded "stenographer spread."

Four hundred young women took the day off for an informative session that included expert advice on every subject from personality to how to get ahead.

But the hit of the day was an illustrated lecture by Prof. W. C. Eberhardt, director of physical education at St. Louis University, on how to keep the tummy in and the chest out — without looking silly.

When the lecture was ended he placed pamphlets explaining the exercises on the speakers' table. There was a short pause — then tall, short, slim and stout secretaries made a rush for the table.

News From The Public Library

The months of February March and April have been designated as the period for the "Louisiana reading festival." The purpose of this festival is to bring to more and more people the joys and pleasures of reading. One way in which we are observing this festival is by the purchase of as many new books as we can afford. We are buying more copies than formerly of popular titles and are doing everything possible to provide the books that the people of Ouachita parish want to read.

Among the new books added to the library collection during the past week, there are several books which are certain to be popular with our patrons. Stories with a Louisiana setting are always in demand and there are two new titles this week. One is called "Louisiana Cavalier" and the author is Everett Webber and the period is in the very early days of the Louisiana colony, even before New Orleans was settled. It is the story of two men, Robert Sur de Brion and Gaston de Flaviel. The story moves from Louisiana to France and back again. It is a story of lust greed violence and exciting adventure in the court of Louis XIV and in the forests of the new world.

It is strange that another book on Louisiana should also have a setting in the early days of the colony, although at a slightly later period. This is "Bride for New Orleans" and the author is Father Edward F. Murphy. This story is based on the adventures of the Casket girls one of the most colorful experiences in Louisiana history. The main character of the story is Yvonne Delisle. She was beautiful, ilirtatious, shallow and impetuous. This is the story of how she changed into a sensitive woman, who was deeply aware of spiritual values.

Several weeks ago many of you saw a movie called "Sign of the Pagan", based on the life of Attila the Hun. Now we have a book by Roger Fuller, which tells the same story. It is a very exciting book and one that many who saw the movie as well as those who did not, will want to read. A beautiful and touching story is "Homecoming" by Borghild Dahl. This is a novel of a Norwegian girl, who dreamed the American dream, but found it difficult to be accepted by her American neighbors. This is a good story of family life and one that will appeal to all who love a quiet sincere story.

Agatha Christie is one of the most popular writers of mystery stories and she has a ready - made audience, who are always eager to read her latest book. Just this week we added it to our collection. The title is "So many steps to death." This story has for its central fact the disappearance of a famous scientist, but I won't tell you any more about it. You will want to read the book yourself.

"The Adventurers" by Ernest Haycox and "The Four Winds" by David Beaty are books which have proven so popular that we have had to order additional copies. The same thing is true of "Love Is Eternal" by Stone and "Katherine" by Anya Seton.

In spite of all the publicity that we have given to the use of the library, we still have people who come to the library and think that they will have to pay for the use of the books. The Ouachita Parish Public Library is a tax supported institution and the service is free to all citizens of the parish. If you are not using the library, let me urge you now to come as soon as possible.

'Steno Spread' Is Problem

ST. LOUIS — If you want to know secretaries' greatest secret worry, it's how to avoid the dreaded "stenographer spread."

Four hundred young women took the day off for an informative workshop that included expert advice on every subject from personality to how to get ahead.

But the hit of the day was an illustrated lecture by Prof. W. C. Eberhardt, director of physical education at St. Louis University, on how to keep the tummy in and the chest out — without looking silly.

When the speech was ended he placed pamphlets explaining the exercises on the speakers' table. There was a short pause — then tall, short, slim and stout secretaries made a rush for the table.

Nutmeats are likely to get an off-flavor if they are exposed to warmth and air. So put your shelled nuts in a tightly - covered jar in the refrigerator.

Matching shoes, in which she wore a sixpence given her by Mr. Joe G. Richard who brought it from England, and short white gloves completed her ensemble.

Her shoulder length veil of illusion was caught to a velvet leaf circlet accented with pearls and she carried white tulips arranged in a Hogarth design.

Following the ceremony a small reception for members of the two families and the wedding party only was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. T. E. Barham Is Hostess To Pierian Club

Mrs. T. E. Barham brightened her living room with King Alfred jonquils for the February meeting of the Pierian Club in Oak Ridge Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. P. Causey, president, opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Edwin Conger led the flag salute. Mrs. C. G. Rolfe, chairman of International Affairs presented some legislation of international import.

During the business session the club members decided to dispense with the usual spring social and attend as a body one of the luncheons to be held in Monroe during the L. F. W. C. convention the last of April.

The program committee for 1955-56, which is the twenty year anniversary of the club, was named. Serving on it will be Mrs. C. E. Shepard, Mrs. A. B. Conger, Mrs. W. N. McDuffie, and Mrs. John Barr.

Mrs. J. W. Barham, library chairman, urged each club woman to establish her library loan card and participate in the Louisiana Reading Festival. The Oak Ridge Library had a record circulation during 1954 of sixty - four hundred volumes. Mrs. T. L. Smith, fine arts chairman, gave the objectives and listed the articles eligible for the contest at the district meeting in Ruston April 2.

A delightful feature of the meeting was a talk and demonstration on landscape arrangements by Mrs W. A. Kunze of Bastrop. Using both fresh and dried materials, Mrs. Kunze worked, as in a fairy tale world, creating scenes for beauty and interest in the home.

The meeting was dismissed with the singing of "Louisiana", the state song. Mrs. R. C. Windsor at the piano.

The dining table was covered with a white cloth and developed in Valentine motif by Mrs. Barham and Mrs. Edwin Conger. Wide red ribbon outlined a heart on each side. Where the points met at the center, an arrangement of red carnations and ivy was surrounded with red satin bow knots.

As he and Mrs. Rumaner admired the work, a driverless auto raced down a hill, slammed into the new room, pushed out a large section of the wall and bounced a sofa across the room.

As he and Mrs. Rumaner admired the work, a driverless auto raced down a hill, slammed into the new room, pushed out a large section of the wall and bounced a sofa across the room.

Literature Club Has Luncheon

Spring accessories was the theme for the program presented at the Current Literature Club's annual luncheon meeting on Wednesday.

Centering the luncheon table was an arrangement of pink carnations and Scotch heather in a pale pink slipper. The focal point of the arrangement was created by driftwood entwined with pastel beads, earrings, and a miniature hat and purse. The placecards, designed by Mrs. R. D. Magruder, were tiny pastel ladies with matching net dresses.

The first speaker on the program, Mr. Louis Masur, was introduced by Mrs. R. B. Bailey. He spoke on the latest fashions in shoes and matching purses.

Mrs. B. R. Simpson was narrator for the portion of the program devoted to hats. Many beautiful spring hats were modeled by Mrs. H. W. Tolson and Mrs. C. B. Ackel. They included hats of linen, straw, novelty straw, flowers, patent leather, silk, and satin in shell, sailor, cloche, and cap styles.

Handmade costume jewelry was described by Mrs. G. C. Rietze as she showed bracelets, earrings, and necklaces of silver and gold with colorful stone settings. She discussed the importance of wearing appropriate jewelry for different occasions and costumes.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr., president, when she presided over the business session. Mrs. L. M. Frey was requested to give the report of the nominating committee and, as a result, the following officers were elected to serve for the next club year: president, Mrs. R. B. Bailey; vice president, Mrs. B. F. Maxwell; secretary, Mrs. B. R. Simpson; treasurer, Mrs. C. B. Ackel; reporter, Mrs. J. C. Massey; parliamentarian, Mrs. Dan Dennett. Committee chairmen and members of the various committees were also appointed.

Members and guests enjoying the luncheon were: Mrs. F. L. Smith, Jr., Mrs. Ivy Smith, Mrs. W. E. Penton, Mrs. W. G. Hamilton, Mrs. R. D. Magruder, Mrs. G. C. Rietze, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr., Mrs. H. W. Tolson, Mrs. Max Watts, Mrs. B. R. Simpson, Mrs. B. F. Maxwell, Mrs. E. A. Hodge, Mrs. R. B. Bailey, Mrs. Dan Dennett, Mrs. J. C. Massey, Mrs. L. M. Frey, Mrs. L. E. Pettit, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr., and Mrs. C. B. Ackel.

Americanism Is Topic For Aux. Meetings

LAKE PROVIDENCE — Americanism is the topic for auxiliary meetings held during February. Powell Martin Barrett Unit No. 37 presented a program on that topic at the Tuesday evening meeting, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Jessie Jean Muirhead.

Miss Tommy Sue Proctor opened the program by leading the group singing of 'God Bless America," with Mrs. Sue M. Abernethy, pianist. She then read her paper on "The Framing Fathers," which will be entered in the parish American Legion oratorical contest.

Mrs. Hardy O'Steen, Americanism committee member led the preamble to the constitution and read excerpts from flag etiquette and The Flag Code, which had been distributed by the national Americanism commission of the American Legion.

Mrs. Muirhead announced that parish school principals had been given notification of the Legion Auxiliary essay contest titled "My Privileges, My Responsibilities As An American Citizen," in which the students have been invited to participate. All papers entered in the contest must be in Mrs. Muirhead's possession by Feb. 25, to be in the judging.

The poppy poster contest was announced, with participants to be divided into three grade groups, beginning at the fourth and extending through the twelfth. Mrs. M. M. Walsworth, fifth district president, offered a silver dollar award for each group.

At a recent procurement meeting of Girls' State, Inc., held in Alexandria, the active members elected Mrs. Georgia Payne Pinkston of Powell Martin Barrett Unit No. 37, American Legion Auxiliary, as an active member for the next three years, representing the fifth district.

Mrs. Bobbie Jean Vining resigned as unit chaplain and the executive committee elected Mrs. Mary Helen Herrington to fill the vacancy.

Mrs. Walsworth distributed for showing, red velvet heart shaped valentines, made by the juniors.

Mrs. T. S. Bass, Mrs. Abernethy, Mrs. Nell Patrick and Mrs. Walsworth reported on the mid-winter conference.

How To Dry Clothes In Bathroom

NEW YORK — Traditionally nothing annoys a husband more than a woman's wash cluttering up the bathroom. But now, when clothes must dry, at least the drying can be done in style.

One good out - of - the - way drying rack can be attached to the wall above the tub, with bars spreading out to let the excess water drip into the tub. This can take care of a sizeable amount of personal wash and also is handy for baby clothes which always are in and out of suds.

New style towel racks also add a touch of style to the bathroom. The big chrome or plastic rings when attach to walls are excellent for stockings or small lingerie. One rack is made of wrought iron, with the part attached to the wall shaped like a musical staff. Outsize "notes" provide hanging space.

It's easy to oven - barbecue a chicken. Just quarter the broiler or fryer and arrange it in a baking pan. Mix up your favorite barbecue sauce and drizzle some of it over the chicken. Bake in a moderate oven, adding more barbecue sauce at regular intervals, until chicken is browned and tender.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By MARION FISHER

Hello, there—The calendar has rolled up to the date we have been telling you about for the past several weeks . . . opening night for "Affairs of State," the third production of the Monroe Little Theatre season, 1954-55. Curtain time for the five night run of this very entertaining comedy, will be 8:30. On Tuesday night, February 15, first-nighters will have an opportunity to see the very attractive modern set, designed by director Thom Feuerstein, about which we have previously reported in this column. The cast includes five well known, and talented people, who we might add, have a full measure of "eye appeal" also.

It is not necessary to be a member of Little Theatre to attend these performances, as cash admissions are available. Beginning Monday, the box-office will be open, each day from two to seven p.m. Phone 3-4232, between these hours for reservations. If you have never attended one of the shows at our Selman Field Playhouse, we urge you to plan to come out one night this week, and see for yourself, what fine theater fare awaits you.

In Community Theater, we have a project that offers opportunity for fun, and relaxation, to its participants. Its rate of progress and success depends on the amount of participation by the community. Thus, the Monroe Little Theatre wishes to extend a vote of appreciation to all those who have assisted in the preparations, and work, that have preceded the opening of "Affairs of State." . . .

Mrs. Ray Magruder has a special treat in store for all art lovers, and coffee drinkers, as well. The paintings she will have on exhibit in the coffee-room, at the Little Theater, next week, will all be the work of the well known artist and portrait painter, Charles W. Copeland. He is a native of Missouri, and has studied and painted in Kansas City, Denver, New Orleans, Philadelphia, and New York, as well as many cities in Europe. He has become a favorite among art lovers in the Monroe area, and so a vote of thanks to Mrs. Magruder for making it possible to view a few of his most recent works.

Personal Notes — Board member Leslie Hale and his lovely wife, Frances, entertained Thursday evening with a "pre-concert" cocktail party, and a "line-party" at the Twin City Symphony Orchestra Concert at Brown Auditorium. Why don't more of the music lovers in our town, plan to emulate Leslie and Frances? Lets have a lot of line parties on March 26, for the next concert of this enterprising organization of civic minded musicians. It would be a most rewarding event for any one who wisely follows our advice.

Barbara Allison, come on and get out of that bed. That must have been a "Kiss Me" Flu-bug that got into you. Mother Myrtle Carter, President of the Board of Little Theater and her husband had a happy surprise visit this week end, when son Jerry T. Carter and his wife dropped in unexpectedly. Jerry is stationed at Harlingen, Tex., with the Air Force.

Thumbnail Sketch . . . Shady Wall plays the role of George Henderson in "Affairs of State." . . . Here is an actual member of the House of Representatives, of our own State Legislature, playing the part of a U. S. senator, who later, is appointed Under Secretary of State. Who was it that said that play acting is all make-believe? Shady is a native son of West Monroe, and very well known throughout the State. He is a product of the Ouachita Parish Schools and furthered his education by attending both Northeast College and L. S. U. Although Shady participated in dramatic productions during his school days, this marks his first appearance on the far side of the footlights, in the Monroe Little Theatre.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

BY MARION FISHER

Hello, there—The calendar has rolled up to the date we have been telling you about for the past several weeks . . . opening night for "Affairs of State," the third production of the Monroe Little Theatre season, 1954-55. Curtain time for the five night run of this very entertaining comedy, will be 8:30. On Tuesday night, February 15, first-nighters will have an opportunity to see the very attractive modern set, designed by director Thom Feuerstein, about which we have previously reported in this column. The cast includes five well known, and talented people, who we might add, have a full measure of "eye appeal" also.

It is not necessary to be a member of Little Theatre to attend these performances, as cash admissions are available. Beginning Monday, the box-office will be open, each day, from two to seven p.m. Phone 3-4263, between these hours for reservations. If you have never attended one of the shows at our Selman Field Playhouse, we urge you to plan to come out one night this week, and see for yourself, what fine theater fare awaits you.

In Community Theater, we have a project that offers opportunity for fun, and recreation, to its participants. Its rate of progress and success depends on the amount of participation by the community. Thus, the Monroe Little Theatre wishes to extend a vote of appreciation to all those who have assisted in the preparations, and work, that have preceded the opening of "Affairs of State." . . .

Mrs. Ray Magruder has a special treat in store for all art lovers, and coffee drinkers, as well. The paintings she will have on exhibit in the coffee-room, at the Little Theater, next week, will all be the work of the well known artist and portrait painter, Charles W. Copeland. He is a native of Missouri, and has studied and painted in Kansas City, Denver, New Orleans, Philadelphia, and New York, as well as many cities in Europe. He has become a favorite among art lovers in the Monroe area, and so a vote of thanks to Mrs. Magruder for making it possible to view a few of his most recent works.

Personal Notes — Board member Lealis Hale and his lovely wife, Frances, entertained Thursday evening, with a "pre-concert" cocktail party, and a "line-party" at the Twin City Symphony Orchestra Concert at Brown Auditorium. Why don't more of the music lovers, in our town, plan to emulate Lealis and Frances? Lets have a lot of line parties on March 26, for the next concert of this enterprising organization of civic minded musicians. It would be a most rewarding effort for any one who, wisely, follows our advice.

Barbara Addison, come on and get out of that bed. That must have been a "King size" Flu-bug that you met up with. Mother Myrtle Carter (President of the Board of Little Theatre) and her husband, had a happy surprise visit this week end, when son Jerry T. Carter and his wife dropped in unexpectedly. Jerry is stationed at Harlingen, Tex., with the Air Force.

Get Outdoors Ready For Living

On a beautiful sunshiny day as this (Monday) our thoughts turn to the outdoor living area — the lawn, so let's get our lawn ready for living. A good lawn is the basis for a beautiful yard. No matter how expensive your shrubs, or how lovely your flowers, they will not show to advantage over an uneven poorly sodded lawn. On the other hand, a smooth well-kept lawn, with a few carefully chosen and well placed trees, shrubs, and flowers provides an attractive, inviting home-like appearance. The ideal lawn is one which slopes gently in all directions away from the house.

In some areas of Ouachita, the land is level enough that any needed grading can be done by harrowing and raking, or filling in low spots by bringing in soil from elsewhere. But if your yard is very sloping, as many are on the west side of the parish, it will be necessary to terrace the lawn. If terraces are necessary, be sure to provide a gentle slope to the next level. An abrupt drop leaves an unnatural appearance and makes it difficult to mow. Don't let terrace divide the yard in half, as uneven divisions are more interesting. So, place terrace on two-thirds or one-third lines of space.

After grading, the next step in making of a lawn is a well prepared seed bed with a layer of good top soil. There is nothing so good in building a lawn as well-rotted stable manure broadcasted and worked into the soil, using 2500 pounds for a lot 75x150 feet or as much as you can get. Two main reasons for using barnyard manure are to add humus to the soil and to supply nitrogen. With this barnyard you will need to add phosphorus and potash by using 150 pounds of 9-12-12 or 0-14-7. Work it into the soil before planting.

If it is impossible to obtain barnyard, use 150 pounds of 3-12-12 or 4-12-8 on a lot 75 by 150 feet.

For the average home, Bermuda is probably the most satisfactory lawn grass. You will need five pounds of Bermuda seed. It is recommended to use five pounds of cotton seed meal with each pound of grass seed as it seems to help conserve moisture and thus insure better germination.

A quicker and more satisfactory way to get a Bermuda lawn is by sprigging. Another very satisfactory lawn is made of carpet grass. If water is plentiful, St. Augustine may be planted. It is grown by sodding or sprigging. It has the advantage over Bermuda and carpet grass because it will grow in sun or shade. Zoysia Matrella is another lawn grass now being used in Louisiana. It is a finer blade grass than St. Augustine and it grows more slowly. However, it makes a lovely lawn, forming a dense mat, which tends to choke out other grasses and weeds. It's rate and habit of slow growth allows for a much longer time between mowings. It also requires watering.

Fertilizing The Old Lawn

Even though you have a good lawn, it needs some additional plant food now. The Extension Service recommends an application each winter in January or February. Use 50 to 75 pounds of 3-12-12 or 4-12-8 for the lawn 75 by 150 feet.

Shade Trees

Another essential in outdoor living is plenty of shade. This, according to information given by Extension Service, is the last call for planting shade trees. Some of the quick growing smaller trees are Redbud, (Cercis Canadensis); Mimosa, (Allizzia Julibrissen); Cherry laural, (Lauro Ceralus Carolinians); Sweet Laurel, (Persea Borbonia). The fruiting pear trees can be planted also for shade.

Important Dates

Food Preparation and Nutrition Leaders — the second leaders training meeting will be February 22nd at 9:30 a.m. in the kitchen of the Agricultural Building in West Monroe. Value of salads and various salad dressings will be given by Mrs. Irene M. Turner, food and nutrition specialist, L. S. U. Extension Service. Let's be here with 100 per cent attendance.

Get Outdoors Ready For Living

On a beautiful sunshiny day as this (Monday) our thoughts turn to the outdoor living area — the lawn, so let's get our lawn ready for living. A good lawn is the basis for a beautiful yard. No matter how expensive your shrubs, or how lovely your flowers, they will not show to advantage over an uneven poorly sodded lawn. On the other hand, a smooth well-kept lawn, with a few carefully chosen and well placed trees, shrubs, and flowers provides an attractive, inviting home-like appearance. The ideal lawn is one which slopes gently in all directions away from the house.

In some areas of Ouachita, the land is level enough that any needed grading can be done by harrowing and raking, or filling in low spots by bringing in soil from elsewhere. But if your yard is very sloping, as many are on the west side of the parish, it will be necessary to terrace the lawn. If terraces are necessary, be sure to provide a gentle slope to the next level. An abrupt drop leaves an unnatural appearance and makes it difficult to mow. Don't let terrace divide the yard in half, as uneven divisions are more interesting. So, place terrace on two-thirds or one-third lines of space.

After grading, the next step in making of a lawn is a well prepared seed bed with a layer of good top soil. There is nothing so good in building a lawn as well-rotted stable manure broadcasted and worked into the soil, using 2500 pounds for a lot 75x150 feet or as much as you can get. Two main reasons for using barnyard manure are to add humus to the soil and to supply nitrogen. With this barnyard you will need to add phosphorus and potash by using 150 pounds of 0-12-12 or 0-14-7. Work it into the soil before planting.

If it is impossible to obtain barnyard, use 150 pounds of 3-12-12 or 4-12-8 on a lot 75 by 150 feet.

For the average home, Bermuda is probably the most satisfactory lawn grass. You will need five pounds of Bermuda seed. It is recommended to use five pounds of cotton seed meal with each pound of grass seed as it seems to help conserve moisture and thus insure better germination.

A quicker and more satisfactory way to get a Bermuda lawn is by sprigging. Another very satisfactory lawn is made of carpet grass. If water is plentiful, St. Augustine may be planted. It is grown by sodding or sprigging. It has the advantage over Bermuda and carpet grass because it will grow in sun or shade. Zoysia Matrella is another lawn grass now being used in Louisiana. It is a finer blade grass than St. Augustine and it grows more slowly. However, it makes a lovely lawn, forming a dense mat, which tends to choke out other grasses and weeds. It's rate and habit of slow growth allows for a much longer time between mowings. It also requires watering.

Fertilizing The Old Lawn

Even though you have a good lawn, it needs some additional plant food now. The Extension Service recommends an application each winter in January or February. Use 50 to 75 pounds of 3-12-12 or 4-12-8 for the lawn 75 by 150 feet.

Shade Trees

Another essential in outdoor living is plenty of shade. This, according to information given by Extension Service, is the last call for planting shade trees. Some of the quick growing smaller trees are Redbud, (Cercis Canadensis); Mimosa, (Allizzia Julibrissen); Cherry laural, (Lauro Ceralus Carolinians); Sweet Laurel, (Persea Borbonia). The fruiting pear trees can be planted also for shade.

Recruiting Drive For Local Naval Unit Announced

Plans have been announced for a final recruiting campaign, designed to complete the complement of the local Naval reserve unit, USNR Electronic Division S-19, to its full authorized strength by Lt. Roy Johns, unit commander.

The unit is entitled to seven officers, one active - duty stationkeeper and 52 enlisted men, for a total of 60 reservists. Presently the unit has its full seven officers, a stationkeeper and 47 enlisted men. There are five vacancies in the complement.

Although the unit's training program is designed for training quartermasters, radiomen, radarmen, and electronics technicians, the unit at present has other rates attached being used in instructor duties. All former rated or non-rated personnel are urged by Lt. Johns to contact the unit for possible assignment in a pay billet.

The reserve program is particularly of importance to 17 and 18 year olds, although 18 year olds cannot be recruited if they have received their classification notice from the selective service system. "The reserve unit offers many advantages — regular classes under instruction each Wednesday night, advancement in rating unlimited, pay for attending drills, and two weeks of training duty at navy schools or on navy ships touching at Caribbean ports each year with full pay and travel furnished," the commander pointed out.

Lt. Harold V. Odom is the executive officer and training officer, Lt. Jack Easterling, Lt. Darrel Brisbin, I.t. J.g. Bob Kennedy and LCDR Bob Boswell are other officers attached to the unit serving as instructors. LTJG Alan Sugar, Jr., is the unit's supply and clothing officer. LCDR Roy L. Robertson serves as the unit's medical officer. Chief Otis Dill is on full time active duty status as the stationkeper.

Regular drills are scheduled each Wednesday night, 7:15 to 9:45 p.m. at the building located at Selman field across the street from the airport administration building. All interested reservists, former navy men, or 17 and 18 year olds are asked to contact either Chief Dill at his office, telephone 2-1377 or Lt. Roy Johns, telephone 3-1788, or come out on Wednesday night at the regular drill time.

Korean GI Bonus Applications Will Be Released Soon

Korean veterans' bonus application blanks will be released to applicants on Wednesday, February 16, 1955, according to an announcement from Lloyd E. Hatley, director of the Louisiana department of veterans' affairs.

These application blanks may be obtained from any parish service office and should be completed in the office by the applicant or with assistance of the service officer. Hatley stated that in a few of the larger parishes the service officer might designate someone in another part of the parish to assist in taking applications, but all applications completed outside the parish service office must be returned to the parish service officer to be mailed to the bonus division. Each veteran must submit with his application a certified or a photostatic copy of his record of separation. Also, veterans should be prepared to furnish information on dates and places of service.

All veterans are advised that the money is not yet available for paying these claims, Hatley continued. He stated that "we are merely taking applications ahead of time so that when the money becomes available, all eligible applicants can be paid just as soon as checks can be written."

Bond Quota For Ouachita Is Set At $1,631,400

Fred Fudickar, Jr., chairman of the U. S. Savings Bond committee for Ouachita parish, has announced that the quota for 1955 for this parish has been set at $1,631,400.

In announcing the quota, Chairman Fudickar related three basic reasons why persons should support the savings bond drive. These, Fudickar listed as:

(1) The bonds are the safest, most riskless investment in the world. Riskless because the bond can never go below what is paid for it, and safest because it is backed by the full credit of the U. S. Government.

(2) The buyer develops a positive savings plan.

(3) The buyer assists the treasury in achieving sound money and proper debt management.

"When we buy Savings Bonds," Fudickar said, "we buy shares in the future of America, a future in which we all believe."

The state goal for this year is $52,200,000, the chairman pointed out, which is but a fraction of the $5 billion $500 million, the national goal.

Lincoln Parish Road Is Named For Improvement

RUSTON, Feb. 12 (Special) — A portion of the Barnett Springs-Ruston road is scheduled for improvement, according to an announcement from the state highway department.

Negro Girl Back After Disappearing

The girl was reported to have left with an unidentified white man Thursday afternoon to work for him. When she did not return by Friday morning friends notified police.

However, officers said she returned Friday night, and the missing persons report was cancelled.

Vienna Citizens Will Meet With Ruston Council

RUSTON, Feb. 12 (Special)—The community of Vienna, four miles north of Ruston on highway 167, will probably become an incorporated municipality in the near future.

Steps which are now being taken toward the eventual incorporation of the community, will continue provided that the Ruston City Council will permit a tie-in onto the city water line, according to W. D. Deloney, Vienna merchant, who heads a committee which will meet with the Ruston council on Tuesday night.

Two - thirds of the registered voters of Vienna must sign a petition to incorporate and the petition must receive the governor's signature before incorporation is permissable, according to Deloney, who says that if incorporation is allowed the fast growing little town which was once the parish seat, will probably install a bond issue-financed $40,000 water line system.

Four economy foods are milk and cheese; dried beans and peas; liver and other organ meats; whole - grain and enriched products such as oatmeal and other cereals, macaroni and spaghetti, bread. Use these foods freely if your food budget is on your mind.

Meringue recipes sometimes call for a little lemon juice because the juice not only gives flavor to the meringue when it is used as a pie topping, but it helps the cutting quality. Add the lemon juice to the egg whites just before beating.

Negro Girl Back After Disappearing

Willie Bee Draper, 17-year-old Negro girl reported missing from her home, has returned, city detectives said Saturday.

The girl was reported to have left with an unidentified white man Thursday afternoon to work for him. When she did not return by Friday morning, friends notified police.

However, officers said she returned Friday night, and the missing persons report was cancelled.

Vienna Citizens Will Meet With Ruston Council

RUSTON, Feb. 12 (Special)—The community of Vienna, four miles north of Ruston on highway 167, will probably become an incorporated municipality in the near future.

Steps which are now being taken toward the eventual incorporation of the community, will continue provided that the Ruston City Council will permit a tie-in onto the city water line, according to W. D. Deloney, Vienna merchant, who heads a committee which will meet with the Ruston council on Tuesday night.

Two - thirds of the registered voters of Vienna must sign a petition to incorporate and the petition must receive the governor's signature before incorporation is permissable, according to Deloney, who says that if incorporation is allowed the fast growing little town which was once the parish seat, will probably install a bond issue-financed $40,000 water line system.

Four economy foods are milk and cheese; dried beans and peas; liver and other organ meats; whole - grain and enriched products such as oatmeal and other cereals, macaroni and spaghetti, bread. Use these foods freely if your food budget is on your mind.

Meringue recipes sometimes call for a little lemon juice because the juice not only gives flavor to the meringue when it is used as a pie topping, but it helps the cutting quality. Add the lemon juice to the egg whites just before beating.

YMCA Planning Victory Dinner, Member Roundup

The Twin Cities Y. M. C. A. will hold a victory dinner and final report meeting for the membership roundup Monday night, February 14th at 6:15 p.m. in the Rendezvous, 1409 Louisville Avenue Monroe. All indications point to an excellent report and roundup officials expect to go over the top. However, Dr. Roy "Houn' Dawg" Robertson, ranch boss of the roundup, emphasized "that all riders need to work hard this week end and all day Monday in order to reach our goal."

Every person interested in the Y. M. C. A. here in the Twin Cities is urged to attend the victory dinner. The meal is complimentary and Roger "Shotgun" Manning will furnish entertainment for the event. Mrs. Vivan McHenry, Miss Edwina Walker, Miss Barbara Rawls, Mrs. Fay Stuart, Mrs. Nelda Frey, Mrs. Betty Elliott and Mrs. Fay Perry, will serve as cowgirls.

Dr. Robertson urges every citizen of Twin Cities who has not yet joined the Y. M. C. A. to do so before Monday night. Robertson further emphasized that the interest and support of the adults in Monroe and West Monroe will in a large way determine the effectiveness of the Y. M. C. A. youth program during the coming year. Membership applications for the Twin Cities Y. M. C. A. may be obtained by calling 5-2253.

Daughters Of Cross Are Given $100 U. S. Bond

Don Saucier, president of the St. Matthew's student council, this week presented the Daughters of the Cross, with a $100 U. S. bond, which was made as a centennial gift to the order. The bond was accepted for the order by Mother Elizabeth, superior-general, who was visiting in Monroe.

The celebration of the centennial of the Daughters of the Cross in Louisiana will take place on April 10, but the closing of the jubilee will be in the fall at the Motherhouse in Shreveport.

The Daughters of the Cross are reputedly the first non-cloistered teaching sisters in the church. They were founded in 1640 in Paris, France, under the leadership of Mother Marie L'Huillier de Villeneuve, who obtained the rules and constitution from the Bishop of Geneva, Frances de Sales. Because of their many difficulties, they chose the name "Daughters of the Cross."

Today the order is widespread in the church. Soon after their founding in 1640 the group set up convents in France, Belgium and India.

In 1855, a group of 10 sisters, led by Mother Hyacinth, arrived in Marksville. The Daughters of the Cross now conduct 10 schools in Louisiana. They are located in Monroe, Marksville, Moureauville, Lake Providence and five in Shreveport.

Wild Life Group To Meet February 15

The February meeting of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission will be held February 15 at the Captain Shreve hotel in Shreveport beginning at 10 a.m., according to the announcement made by Director L. D. Young, Jr., today.

Included in the things to be considered by the commission at this session is whether or not Louisiana is to have an open season on wild turkeys this year. A proposal to that effect was broached at the last session of the commission, but it was agreed to defer action until the regular February meeting, which is being held a week earlier this month because the last Tuesday in the month, the date these meetings are usually held, is Mardi Gras day.

N. H. Schools Face Problem

CONCORD, N. H. — New Hampshire educators are preparing for a few critical years immediately ahead of the state's public school system.

Enrollment is expected to jump nearly 20 per cent by the 1959-60 school year, or about 17,000 more pupils.

In this period, the state estimates it will need 400 more elementary teachers and 125 more high school teachers.

However, the state also has to contend with a comparatively quick turnover of teachers.

REV. BLACKBURN

Rev. Blackman Here To Aid Church Drive

Rev. Leon Love Blackman, who will direct the church sanctuary crusade at the Memorial Methodist Church, Monroe, is a member of the New Jersey conference where he has held several pastorates including the Cadwalader Heights Methodist Church, Trenton; Central Methodist Church, Atlantic City; and the First Methodist Church in historic Cape May.

He is a graduate of the Teachers' College and the School of Theology of Temple University in Philadelphia, and from the Theological School he received the master's degree.

Mr. Blackman comes to Monroe as a representative of the department of finance and field service of the division of national missions of the Methodist Church with offices in Philadelphia. This department, organized in 1920, is staffed with ministers who are in active relationships with their annual conferences, and who are specially named to aid churches in building fund crusades. During the year ending May 31, 1954, the ministers in this department raised over $8,000,000 from crusades in 125 local churches, bringing the grand total since the organization of the department to over $53,000,000.

The crusade in Memorial Methodist Church will begin on February 17 at 7:30 p. m. when approximately 100 workers will assemble to meet the director and to be briefed on the plans to raise $50,000 for the construction of the new sanctuary. Rev. Blackman will preach at all the services on February 20th and February 27th.

Presbyterian Church Plans Open House

Covenant Presbyterian Church members will observe its third anniversary on Sunday February 20, when they will throw wide open the doors of their handsome new sanctuary at Orell Place and Lexington avenue.

This church started with services being held in the Brown auditorium at Northeast State College. Each Sunday morning it seemed that there were increasingly large numbers attending. All activities of the church were represented. The volunteer choir was loyal and willing; the Sunday school classes gained rapidly and women of the church were busy with mission duties.

Membership had grown so large and the building fund had received sufficient size to warrant groundbreaking on the new church site on Orell place in February 1954.

The congregation was promised that they would get into their handsomely ornate edifice for last Thanksgiving. It failed to come true. While the building was complete, heating facilities were not completely installed so it was a week or 10 days after Thanksgiving before the first service could be held there.

For some weeks, plans have been under way for the "open house" and all friends of the church are invited to attend next Sunday's services. Of course the church membership will be all out for the memorable event.

Rev. Wayne Gray, the steadfast and ever devoted minister is to a large degree responsible for the success of this new church, which is a fact that all concede. His efforts, aided and supplemented by a large number of loyal members, have made Covenant Church the success that it has proved to be in three short years.

Bible Words for Today

PSALM 37:5 "Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass."

Have you ever consulted a lawyer about some important matter? And have you wondered why he asked you so many questions?

The lawyer's answer is also the answer of Christian counselors, for there are unchanging currents in human life that move the hearts of men. These are the basic, universal patterns of need, which we learn to correct and pray to God to help us meet. We are being carried, along by a power greater than ourselves, to an ocean, "Whither, if it be possible for mortals to know, from the beginningless, not as I will, but as thou wilt." Having thus committed himself to the Father, he was able to "endure the cross and despise the shame" and, today "is the author and finisher of our faith."

It was not Jesus' custom to say, "Commit your way unto the Lord," unconditionally.

REV. JOHN NORRIS

Former Local Pastor To Be Pulpit Guest

The Rev. John M. Norris, Ph.D., of Bronwood, Ga., missionary of the Methodist Church who has served in both Korea and in Argentina, will be the guest - speaker at the First Methodist Church, West Monroe, today at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Norris, a professor of New Testament on the faculty of the Union Theological Seminary, Buenos Aires, Argentina, is now on a year's furlough in the United States.

Dr. Norris was assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church in Monroe, in 1928, when he was appointed a missionary of the Methodist Church, and assigned to Korea.

In the capital city of Seoul he was professor of New Testament in the Methodist Union Theological College where most of the ministers of the church have been trained since 1907, and he was also superintendent of the Songdo district, supervising the work of Korean pastors and teachers and organizing churches and schools.

When the former Korean annual conference became merged into the independent Korean Methodist Church in 1932, Dr. Norris became a full member of that church.

In 1940 he returned to the United States and three years later was assigned to South America, and the Union Theological Seminary, of Buenos Aires, which serves the Protestant churches of all the Spanish - speaking republics in the preparation of ministers.

Dr. Norris was born in Athens, Ga. He was educated at Emory University and its divinity school, and at the University of Chicago, holding the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the latter institution.

EVANGELIST — The Rev. R. M. Hargis of Los Angeles, Calif., will conduct a two-weeks revival at the Central Assembly of God church at Hall and Calypso streets. The revival will begin tonight at 7:30 p.m.

To Break Ground For Educational Building Here

Ground breaking ceremonies will be conducted Sunday at the United Penecostal Church, 1600 South Second street, Monroe, According to the pastor, Rev. T. F. Tenney, this is to mark the beginning of the erection of a new educational building to adjein the church sanctuary.

The Louisiana District superintendent of the United Pentecostal Church, Rev. C. G. Weeks of Alexandria, will be present to participate in the ceremony. Work on the new structure is to begin in the very near future.

A large crowd of friends and members is expected to be present for the morning worship service to hear Rev. Weeks preach and then take part in the ceremonies.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: What do you mean when you speak of "the grace of God"? A. C.

ANSWER: The Bible says, "The Lord God is a sun and a shield: the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly." (Psalm 84:11). God has given us light to walk by, and has protected us from danger. He has showered us with blessings above and beyond what we have earned. Someone has said that "Grace is unmerited favor."

One day the preacher was invited to dinner at a home in his parish. As he was leaving he looked into the wistful blue eyes of the youngest member of the family, and then slipped into her tiny hand a shiny half-dollar. Money was plentiful in that house, and the mother, touched by this generosity asked, "Oh, why did you do that?" The preacher replied, "It was to teach her of the grace of God." At first the family was perplexed, but as they pondered they understood: God gives to us not according to what we ask, or expect, or deserve. He gives abundantly because of His great love for us.

That is why He sent His Son to earth. Only Christ could fully interpret to us the heart of the Father.

Now we, as Paul, can hear the Lord saying, "My grace is sufficient for thee." (1 Cor. 12:9). The Bible gives us a record of more than thirty-five times that Paul spoke of "grace." He was ever conscious of the fact that he was unworthy of God's goodness, that he was unworthy of the Son who suffered on the Cross for him, and for all.

When I use the words "the grace of God" I, as Paul, refer to the generosity of God, and to the fact that, unworthy though we are, He gave us the greatest gift: His Son, Jesus Christ.

REV. BLACKBURN

Rev. Blackman Here To Aid Church Drive

Rev. Leon Lore Blackman, who will direct the church sanctuary crusade at the Memorial Methodist Church, Monroe, is a member of the New Jersey conference where he has held several pastorates including the Cadwalader Heights Methodist Church, Trenton; Central Methodist Church, Atlantic City; and the First Methodist Church in historic Cape May.

He is a graduate of the Tachers' College and the School of Theology of Temple University in Philadelphia, and from the Theological School he received the master's degree.

Mr. Blackman comes to Monroe as a representative of the department of finance and field service of the division of national missions of the Methodist Church with offices in Philadlphia. This department, organized in 1920, is staffed with ministers who are in active relationships with their annual conferences, and who are specially trained to aid churches in building fund crusades. During the year ending May 31, 1954, the ministers in this department raised over $8,000,000 from crusades in 125 local churches, bringing the grand total since the organization of the department to over $53,000,000.

The crusade in Memorial Methodist Church will begin on February 17 at 7:30 p. m., when approximately 100 workers will assemble to meet the director and to be briefed on the plans to raise $50,000 for the construction of the new sanctuary. Rev. Blackman will preach at all the services on February 20th and February 27th.

Presbyterian Church Plans Open House

Covenant Presbyterian Church members will observe its third anniversary on Sunday February 20, when they will throw wide open the doors of their handsome new sanctuary at Orell Place and Lexington avenue.

This church started with services being held in the Brown auditorium at Northeast State College. Each Sunday morning it seemed that there were increasingly large numbers attending. All activities of the church were represented. The volunteer choir was loyal and willing; the Sunday school classes gained rapidly and women of the church were busy with mission duties.

Membership had grown so large and the building fund had received sufficient size to warrant groundbreaking on the new church site on Orell place in February 1954.

The congregation was promised that they would get into their handsomely ornate edifice for last Thanksgiving. It failed to come true. While the building was complete, heating facilities were not completely installed so it was a week or 10 days after Thanksgiving before the first service could be held there.

For some weeks, plans have been under way for the "open house" and all friends of the church are invited to attend next Sunday's services. Of course the church membership will be all out for the memorable event.

Rev. Wayne Gray, the steadfast and ever devoted minister is to a large degree responsible for the success of this new church, which is a fact that all concede. His efforts, aided and supplemented by a large number of loyal members, have made Covenant Church the success that it has proved to be in three short years.

Bible Words for Today

PSALM 37:5 "Commit your way to the Lord; trust him and he will act." (RSV)

Have you ever marvelled at the ease with which some people achieve great things? And have you wished for some such power?

The Psalmist's answer is also the answer of Christian psychology. For there are underlying currents of life like those that move the icebergs in the ocean. These are the will and purpose of God. When we learn to commit our way to God we soon learn that we are being carried along by a power greater than our own. Jesus prayed, "My Father, if it be possible let this cup pass from Me, nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt." Having thus committed Himself to the Father He was able to "endure the cross and despise the shame" and today "is the author and finisher of our faith."

If you would emulate Christ then: "Commit your way to the Lord; trust him and he will act."

REV. JOHN NORRIS

Former Local Pastor To Be Pulpit Guest

The Rev. John M. Norris, Ph.D., of Bronwood, Ga., missionary of the Methodist Church who has served in both Korea and in Argentina, will be the guest - speaker at the First Methodist Church, West Monroe, today at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Norris, a professor of New Testament on the faculty of the Union Theological Seminary, Buenos Aires, Argentina, is now on a year's furlough in the United States.

Dr. Norris was assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church in Monroe, in 1928, when he was appointed a missionary of the Methodist Church, and assigned to Korea.

In the capital city of Seoul he was professor of New Testament in the Methodist Union Theological College where most of the ministers of the church have been trained since 1907, and he was also superintendent of the Songdo district, supervising the work of Korean pastors and teachers and organizing churches and schools.

When the former Korean annual conference became merged into the independent Korean Methodist Church in 1932. Dr. Norris became a full member of that church.

In 1940 he returned to the United States and three years later was assigned to South America, and the Union Theological Seminary, of Buenos Aires, which serves the Protestant churches of all the Spanish - speaking republics in the preparation of ministers.

Dr. Norris was born in Athens, Ga. He was educated at Emory University and its divinity school, and at the University of Chicago, holding the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the latter institution.

EVANGELIST — The Rev. R. M. Hargis of Los Angeles, Calif., will conduct a two-weeks revival at the Central Assembly of God church at Hall and Calypso streets. The revival will begin tonight at 7:30 p.m.

To Break Ground For Educational Building Here

Ground breaking ceremonies will be conducted Sunday at the United Penecostal Church, 1600 South Second street, Monroe. According to the pastor, Rev. T. F. Tenney, this is to mark the beginning of the erection of a new educational building to adjoin the church sanctuary.

The Louisiana District superintendent of the United Pentecostal Church, Rev. C. G. Weeks of Alexandria, will be present to participate in the ceremony. Work on the new structure is to begin in the very near future.

A large crowd of friends and members is expected to be present for the morning worship service to hear Rev. Weeks preach and then take part in the ceremonies.

QUESTION: What do you mean when you speak of "the grace of God"? A. C.

ANSWER: The Bible says, "The Lord God is a sun and a shield: the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly." (Psalm 84:11). God has given us light to walk by, and has protected us from danger. He has showered us with blessings above and beyond what we have earned. Someone has said that "Grace is unmerited favor."

One day the preacher was invited to dinner at a home in his parish. As he was leaving he looked into the wistful blue eyes of the youngest member of the family, and then slipped into her tiny hand a shiny half-dollar. Money was plentiful in that house, and the mother, touched by this generosity asked, "Oh, why did you do that?" The preacher replied, "It was to teach her of the grace of God." At first the family was perplexed, but as they pondered they understood; God gives to us not according to what we ask, or expect, or deserve. He gives abundantly because of His great love for us.

That is why He sent His Son to earth. Only Christ could fully interpret to us the heart of the Father.

Now we, as Paul, can hear the Lord saying, "My grace is sufficient for thee." (1 Cor. 12:9). The Bible gives us a record of more than thirty-five times that Paul spoke of "grace." He was ever conscious of the fact that he was unworthy of God's goodness, that he was unworthy of the Son who suffered on the Cross for him, and for all.

When I use the words "the grace of God" I, as Paul, refer to the generosity of God, and to the fact that, unworthy though we are, He gave us the greatest gift, His Son, Jesus Christ.

Small Plants Grow Well Under Pines

The sunny days brought out the gardeners. Isn't it fun visiting a nursery? You always see somebody you know and meet new people. Gardeners are all "kin." You'll strike up a conversation with the person next to you about the habits of your camellias or roses and she'll tell you about the garden troubles she's having. You will end up exchanging plants and making a new friend. I'm sure the nurseryman by now is wondering if you came to buy or visit, and you will probably buy more than you planned and do without the new spring dress.

Garden Ramblins

Another word or two about pines. As you know they have a very long tap root, so small plants grow well under them. Have you noticed camellias, susanquas and azaleas grown under pines? The blossoms last much longer because the branches break the winds and torrential rains. As for varieties, I believe the long leaf, slash and loblolly are our three most common types. Pines are heavy feeders so plants under and close to them will need heavy feeding. One of the intangible values of pines is the wind sighing through the tree tops.

Some flower seed to plant this month are: Chinese Forget-me-not, African Golden Daisy, Pinks, Everlasting Pea, Phlox Drummon, Sweet Alyssum, Forget - me - not, Sweet William, Four O'Clock, Blue Bonnet, Rose Mallow, Blue Salvia, Snap Dragon, Gypso Phila, Gaillardia, Calendula, Mignonette, Cornflower, Gayfeather, Candytuft, Coreopsis, Arctotis, Petun.a Hollyhock, Sweet Pea, Larkspur, Scabiosa, Lobelia, Verbena, Stock.

Unless you have a full-time yard man or love weeding flower beds about six hours a day, don't plant too many annuals and perennials. A mowed lawn is preferable to a weedy flower bed, which will not thrive very long. Young gardeners sometime in their eagerness make the mistake of planting too many small plants.

If you're a fisherman, you'll need to plant a catalpha or two in your garden. Besides furnishing bait, in later years their large foliage is a beautiful contrast with pines or oaks.

Several gardeners in West Monroe and in Monroe on Bayou DeSiard have called in asking about treatment for clay soils. My sympathy is with you because we've fought a hard, worn-out clay soil for twenty-five years. Every inch in our yard had to be built before even bulbs could come through. We've used lots of coarse sand and tons of humus from leaves and kitchen waste. Cotton seed meal was used too, but it is too expensive to get as much as we need. Some places now, the grass refuses to grow but you'll always find that when there are lots of trees. Lawns competing with tree roots could stand some commercial fertilizer monthly.

Never overlook the common Nandina when planting a hedge. In the George Breece home, 206 Grayling Lane the owner has one of the most beautiful plantings I've ever seen in a garden. Mrs. Breece has kept these pruned so they're leafed out all the way to the ground. The berries are hanging in great panacles. This plant reproduces so very fast that soon you'll have small ones to give to your friends.

Dip for Tips

When shoe laces lose their tips, as they often do in children's shoes, twist the ends and dip them in clear nail polish and let them dry. The same dip can be used to make a stiff dip for thread used in stringing beads.

Around the House

Does your mechanical refrigerator work overtime? The door may not seal tightly so that warm air may be leaking into the cabinet. To test for leaks around the door, close the door on a dollar bill. If the paper pulls out easily, the gasket is not tight enough to keep warm air from passing into the box. This may be because the rubber gasket has become brittle and hard. Or it may be the fault of the door. Try tightening the hinges or latch to make the door fit more snugly. Test again with the dollar bill. If the door is still not tight, get a new gasket.

Most spring cleaning will turn up some scraps of leather, old gloves, belts or even shoes. If these are cut into strips they are good to use in place of strings or rags or wire to hold vines to a wall or to tie up plants. The leather doesn't cut the vine, it will stand the weather and looks neater than string.

Don't throw away old yard rakes or forks. Sharpen the end and where you have to "jump" a flower bed when dragging the hose around, stick the pointed end into the ground, thread the hose through the metal. Then the plants are safe and the hose is too.

Announcements

I'll be in Baton Rouge this next week, leaving today, to learn something about marketing. Tune in Tuesday at 2:30 on KNOE-TV. You will see a most enlightening show on first aid by Mr. A. S. Huffman, vice chairman of Safety Service.

On Shopper's Guide, February 14th Mr. Frank Spivey will show you how to graft camellias. Don't miss this. See you next Sunday.

It will take about 20 minutes in a moderate oven to thoroughly heat a couple of jars of ravioli. For good flavor sprinkle the ravioli with grated Parmesan cheese as you put each layer into the dish. Serve the baked ravioli with a salad of greens, bits of filleted anchovies and garlic French dressing.

Costa Rica, with a population of 850,000 boasts it has more teachers than soldiers.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Japanese Holly Comes To South

One of the best shrubs to come into the nurseries of the Middle South and Upper South is the Japanese holly. The many varieties of this dense small leaved evergreen are really a godsend for busy people who do not have the time to be constantly trimming their shrubs. Here near the southern limit of the area in which English boxwood will thrive, a great many people would prefer to have something that resembles boxwood but is not subject to boxwood troubles.

Japanese holly belongs to the group of hollies which have blue berries instead of red ones. Our native gallberry of the Coastal Plain is another member of this group. Since the Japanese kind comes easily from seeds, many different shapes and sizes have been developed in the nurseries, and these are wonderful for foundation plantings, gardens and landscaping in general. There are tall kinds and low kinds, roundish kinds and slim kinds. The shade of green of the foliage varies from dark bluish green to beautiful olive green. The foliage also varies greatly in size. In the nurseries, they have begun to select the best of all these types and to give them names. Most Southern nurseries list over five different forms.

The Latin name for the Japanese holly is Ilex crenata. In the catalogues, you will find the different varieties are designated by a third word. When a really good plant comes along, people do not seem to have any trouble at all remembering even the most fiendish Latin name for it. Ask almost any gardener today about Japanese Holly, and she will say "Oh, yes: Ilex crenata convexa!" The convexa type of Japanese holly took everybody's eye when it first came out because it was such a fine dense, low growing plant and the tiny convex leaves are so clean and shiny. It will grow several feet tall without trimming, but a minimum of trimming will keep it down to almost any height you want. If you want rounded specimens that resemble the slow growing boxwood, plant the variety called "globosa" because it will tend to grow into the shape you want with little or no trimming at all, and the foliage is more like that of dwarf box.

On small properties or wherever you are a bit stingy with space but still want a solid evergreen background, plant one of the very upright types. Some of these have the virtue of growing upward without sticking out and taking up a lot of room. With these fine leafed hollies, we can now approximate the handsome flat walls of evergreen we so envy when we see pictures of gardens with English yew as a background.

A plant with needle foliage just like that of the yews is the upright type of Harrington's Plumyew. The true fine needled English yew is not very happy this far south, but its very close relative, the Plumyew likes our climate here. These plants actually have fruits on them that are the shape of plums. Since plumyews are in the Pine Family, however, the "plums" are full of sticky resin and anything but edible. The ordinary type of Harrington's plumyew is a large spreading shrub, but the Spiral or Korean is a dense handsome upright evergreen. In the catalogues you will find these plants listed under Conifers. They are amongst the finest of all slow growing plants.

Garden Center Notes

Spring Bulbs Are Up And In Bloom

Members of the Bastrop Garden Club presented the flower show at the Garden Center this week. Mrs. B. I. Berry and Mrs. Guy Kincaid of Winnsboro served as judges. In the arrangement class, first place blue ribbon was awarded to Mrs. Elmer DeForest. For a container Mrs. DeForest chose a low freeform container in a natural wood color, a perfect foil for her arrangement of early yellow daffodils and heather in a horizontal pattern.

Mrs. W. P. Stephenson was awarded second place blue ribbon. Her arrangement was the very essence of early spring! In a flat tray container, Mrs. Stephenson used a piece of driftwood and created a triangular line arrangement of flowering quince and white Roman hyacinths. Two quizzical little fawns were used as an accessory. Mrs. Stephenson created another lovely arrangement which took third place. Against a chartreuse background, Mrs. Stephenson placed an open black fan decorated with quince blooms. In a small milk glass vase set on a black base she arranged quince and baby's breath with one paper-white narcissus.

Congratulations to the Wesnet Garden Club! They had high score for the month of January. The prize check was presented to Mrs. E. B. Knotts, president. Here is a date to remember! On Tuesday, February 22, Mrs. U. B. Evans of Ferriday will be in the Garden Center as a horticulture consultant. One of the finest gardeners in this area, Mrs. Evans is state chairman of horticulture for the Louisiana Garden Club Federation. She will answer all questions on how and what to plant in this area for best results. All gardeners are invited to bring their horticulture problems to Mrs. Evans on that date.

Dr. Roy Mayhew, Box 8482, University Station, Baton Rouge, has made available to garden clubs, slides on daylilies. They show individual daylilies as well as gardens with daylilies in the landscape. They are available for transportation charges only. Please give three dates in the order of preference when requesting these slides.

All the spring bulbs are up and many of the early ones are in bloom. This is one of my favorite garden subjects and such a satisfactory one for the busy gardener. Always prepare your soil well when planting them in the fall. Then sit back and wait for them to bloom in all their glory in the spring. When they have ceased blooming fertilize with bone meal. Be sure to let the foliage ripen and they will come back year after year for you. Now is the time to plant your summer flowering bulbs. Amaryllis, gladiolus, montbretia and dahlia tubers may be planted this month.

Local Performers To Get Auditions By Horace Heidt

Ambitious local performers will be given auditions Monday, Feb. 21 by the Horace Heidt staff at the Neville High School auditorium. The auditions are being held in connection with the two and one-half stage show, "The American Way," which comes to the local area on Wednesday, March 2.

The only requirements are that contestants be over 14, not more than four persons in each act and that each act brings its own music and accompaniment.

Three local performers will be selected to appear with the program when Heidt appears with his star studded cast of 35, including the Musical Knights, Johnny (It's In The Book) Standley, Doodles Weaver, Ralph Sigwald, Mark Durbin and the famed Heidt Steppers.

Proceeds will go to the Neville Band and Tigerettes. Tickets are now on sale at the Dew Music Company.

If the paper pulls out easily, the gasket is not tight enough to keep warm air from passing into the box. This may be because the rubber gasket has become brittle and hard. Or it may be the fault of the door. Try tightening the hinges or latch to make the door fit more snugly. Test again with the dollar bill. If the door is still not tight, get a new gasket.

Most spring cleaning will turn up some scraps of leather, old gloves, belts or even shoes. If these are cut into strips they are good to use in place of strings or rags or wire to hold vines to a wall or to tie up plants. The leather doesn't cut the vine, it will stand the weather and looks neater than string.

Don't throw away old yard rakes or forks. Sharpen the end and where you have to "jump" a flower bed when dragging the hose around, stick the pointed end into the ground, thread the hose through the metal. Then the plants are safe and the hose is too.

Announcements

I'll be in Baton Rouge this next week, leaving today, to learn something about marketing. Tune in Tuesday at 2:30 on KNOE-TV. You will see a most enlightening show on first aid by Mr. A. S. Huffman, vice chairman of Safety Service.

On Shopper's Guide, February 14th Mr. Frank Spivey will show you how to graft camellias. Don't miss this. See you next Sunday.

It will take about 20 minutes in a moderate oven to thoroughly heat a couple of jars of ravioli. For good flavor sprinkle the ravioli with grated Parmesan cheese as you put each layer into the dish. Serve the baked ravioli with a salad of greens, bits of filleted anchovies and garlic French dressing.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Japanese Holly Comes To South

One of the best shrubs to come into the nurseries of the Middle South and Upper South is the Japanese holly. The many varieties of this dense small leaved evergreen are really a godsend for busy people who do not have the time to be constantly trimming their shrubs. Here near the southern limit of the area in which English boxwood will thrive, a great many people would prefer to have something that resembles boxwood but is not subject to boxwood troubles.

Japanese holly belongs to the group of hollies which have blue berries instead of red ones. Our native gallberry of the Coastal Plain is another member of this group. Since the Japanese kind comes easily from seeds, many different shapes and sizes have been developed in the nurseries, and these are wonderful for foundation plantings, gardens and landscaping in general. There are tall kinds and low kinds, roundish kinds and slim kinds. The shade of green of the foliage varies from dark bluish green to beautiful olive green. The foliage also varies greatly in size. In the nurseries, they have begun to select the best of all these types and to give them names. Most Southern nurseries list over five different forms.

The Latin name for the Japanese holly is Ilex crenata. In the catalogues, you will find the different varieties are designated by a third word. When a really good plant comes along, people do not seem to have any trouble at all remembering even the most fienish Latin name for it. Ask almost any gardener today about Japanese Holly, and she will say "Oh, yes: Ilex crenata convexa!" The convexa type of Japanese holly took everybody's eye when it first came out because it was such a fine dense, low growing plant and the tiny convex leaves are so clean and shiny. It will grow several feet tall without trimming, but a minimum of trimming will keep it down to almost any height you want. If you want rounded specimens that resemble the slow growing boxwood, plant the variety called "globosa" because it will tend to grow into the shape you want with little or no trimming at all, and the foliage is more like that of dwarf box.

On small properties or wherever you are a bit stingy with space but still want a solid evergreen background, plant one of the very upright types. Some of these have the virtue of growing upward without sticking out and taking up a lot of room. With these fine leafed hollies, we can now approximate the handsome flat walls of evergreen we so envy when we see pictures of gardens with English yew as a background.

A plant with needle foliage just like that of the yews is the upright type of Harrington's Plumyew. The true fine needled English yew is not very happy this far south, but its very close relative, the Plumyew likes our climate here. These plants actually have fruits on them that are the shape of plums. Since plumyews are in the Pine Family, however, the "plums" are full of sticky resin and anything but edible. The ordinary type of Harrington's plumyew is a large spreading shrub, but the Spiral or Korean is a dense handsome upright evergreen. In the catalogues you will find these plants listed under Conifers. They are amongst the finest of all slow growing plants.

Garden Center Notes

Spring Bulbs Are Up And In Bloom

Members of the Bastrop Garden Club presented the flower show at the Garden Center this week. Mrs. B. I. Berry and Mrs. Guy Kincaid of Winnsboro served as judges. In the arrangement class, first place blue ribbon was awarded to Mrs. Elmer DeForest. For a container Mrs. DeForest chose a low free-form container in a natural wood color, a perfect foil for her arrangement of early yellow daffodils and heather in a horizontal pattern.

Mrs. W. P. Stephenson was awarded second place blue ribbon. Her arrangement was the very essence of early spring! In a flat tray container, Mrs. Stephenson used a piece of driftwood and created a triangular line arrangement of flowering quince and white Roman hyacinths. Two quizzical little fawns were used as an accessory. Mrs. Stephenson created another lovely arrangement which took third place. Against a chartreuse background, Mrs. Stephenson placed an open black fan decorated with quince blooms. In a small milk glass vase set on a black base she arranged quince and baby's breath with one paper-white narcissus.

Congratulations to the Wisner Garden Club! They had high score for the month of January. The prize check was presented to Mrs. E. B. Knotts, president. Here is a date to remember! On Tuesday, February 22, Mrs. U. B. Evans of Ferriday will be in the Garden Center as a horticulture consultant. One of the finest gardeners in this area, Mrs. Evans is state chairman of horticulture for the Louisiana Garden Club Federation. She will answer all questions on how and what to plant in this area for best results. All gardeners are invited to bring their horticulture problems to Mrs. Evans on that date.

Dr. Roy Mayhew, Box 8482, University Station, Baton Rouge, has made available to garden clubs, slides on daylilies. Trey show individual daylilies as well as gardens with dayilies in the landscape. They are available for transportation charges only. Please give three dates in the order of preference when requesting these slides.

All the spring bulbs are up and many of the early ones are is bloom. This is one of my favorite garden subjects and such a satisfactory one for the busy gardener. Always prepare your soil well when planting them in the fall. Then sit back and wait for them to bloom in all their glory in the spring. When they have ceased blooming fertilize with bone meal. Be sure to let the foliage ripen and they will come back year after year for you. Now is the time to plant your summer flowering bulbs. Amaryllis, gladiolus, montbretia and dahlia tubers may be planted this month.

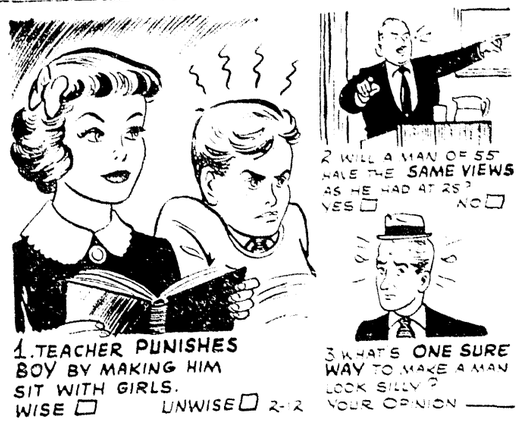
LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



Answer to Question No. 1

1. Very unwise. It humiliates him because he knows other boys will tease him and call him a sissy. Most boys think girls inferior, and to have to sit with them causes much bitterness. It makes the girls feel inferior too, because the teacher thinks it a punishment to put a boy on their level. A very ill-advised procedure from every standpoint.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. It is likely. Our only evidence is that psychologist E. K. Strong found that a large group of men of 55 had almost the same likes and dislikes for 420 different occupations, sports, books, art, and types of people, and had much the same religious views as they had at 25. "Men are buy boys grown tall; hearts don't change much after all."

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Put him under a hat a little too small with the brim turned up all around. Just why this makes an intelligent, law-abiding citizen look like a nitwit is unknown. But imagine Washington, Lincoln, Ben Franklin, Churchill, or Eisenhower in such a hat. It would even make me look sillier than usual.

BMI Graduate

Barbara Jean Rhone

Miss Rhone, one of the first graduates of West Monroe High School, entered B M I for the Complete General Business Course on May 31. Miss Rhone completed a ten-month course with an "A" average in less than eight months. She was placed as secretary to Judge W. M. Harper of the City of Monroe where she seems to be very happy.

Miss Rhone says: "After visiting several business schools, I chose B M I. I am certainly glad that I did because B M I is truly an exceptional business school. The faculty is thoroughly competent and I soon began to look upon them as wonderful friends. The students and faculty work together, play together, encourage, and help each other—it all goes together to compose B M I. B M I has an untarnished reputation. The students have to work hard but when graduated, there is no doubt about their skill and ability. B M I has helped me attain my goal—a position as secretary to Judge Harper where I am perfectly content." Adv.

'The Far Country' Stars Stewart, Roman, Calvet

Score another great and exciting triumph for James Stewart in Universal - International's Technicolor adventure "The Far Country," which will bring the booming Yukon gold-rush days to the screen of the Jim Theatre soon with Ruth Roman, Corinne Calvet and Walter Brennan also starred.

Matching his memorable roles in "The Glenn Miller Story" and "Rear Window", Stewart makes "The Far Country" a personal story of power and scope, a remarkable achievement in a setting which makes the good and the bad, the strong and the weak all epic characters.

The Jeff Webster of James Stewart is a hard man, tough enough to shoot a couple of riders who try to make off with the herd of cattle he has ticketed for the fabulous Yukon beef prices. He is cold enough to leave his Dawson-bound companions to the fury of an avalanche when they spurn his advice. He is ambitious enough to think of the Klondike in terms only of gold when the town urges him to act for law and order.

But as bullets cost him a lifelong pal and a newfound lady-love, as the lawless Klondike laughs at his efforts to go it alone, Stewart emerges into a man of warmth and understanding, an emergence which generates tremendous heart-appeal for "The Far Country."

Filming on location in the far northern Canadian mountains provides the story with spectacular scenic grandeur and rugged backgrounds befitting the rugged theme. The avalanche is an eye-jolting sight. The cattle-trek across towering peaks is breathtaking. The gold-panning and claim-jumping give the raw struggle between good and evil a ring of rough reality.

Outstanding performances bespeak an outstanding cast: Ruth Roman as the girl who knows men and how to use them, Corinne Calvet who wants love more than the Yukon's yellow dust, Walter Brennan who at first can alone get under the hide of Stewart, and John McIntire who rules with the ruthlessness of a ready gun and gang.

Company dessert: top baked pear halves with a meringue and brown in a very hot oven until the meringue is tipped with brown. Serve with a rich custard sauce made from the leftover egg yolks, light cream, sugar and vanilla.

The bidding:

Opening lead: King of clubs.

Even when there has been no adverse bidding the location of a key card can sometimes be determined to a certainty by an alert declarer. The conduct of an adversary in the defense of a hand may permit a player to read his thoughts like an open book. South, for some reason or other, opened with a club, perhaps for the purpose of inhibiting the lead of that suit should he and partner reach a final no trump contract. Then, for reasons best known to himself, he spurned the diamond raise in favor of a one no trump rebid, despite his very undesirable holding in spades. He should have been aware that the no trump contract might readily play better from North's side, but it all ended happily.

West opened the king of clubs which won the trick and when the queen of clubs was permitted to hold, he shifted to the 10 of spades. If declarer takes the finesse, East will win and return a spade, establishing the suit while he still holds the ace of diamonds and declarer will be defeated two tricks.

A little amateur mind reading will make it apparent to declarer that the contract can be brought home by refusing the spade finesse and winning with the ace. That the queen of spades cannot be subjected to further attack is a moral certainty for the ace of diamonds is known without any doubt to be in East's hand. If West held the ace of diamonds, surely he would have proceeded with the establishment of the club suit.

After winning with the ace of spades, declarer leads diamonds until the suit is established. East, of course, is in and can find no way to transfer the lead to partner who would like to follow through with a spade. Declarer now has nine tricks.

A VALENTINE FOR BOYS TO MAKE

Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, is just the right time to send a special greeting to your mother, sister, or friend. Here is a fold-up, stand-up valentine for a boy to send.

1. Color the background of the three parts of the valentine a bright red. You can make the flowers blue, pink, yellow or leave them white. Put a red heart on the boy's sweater.

2. Paste the picture on stiff paper—red colored paper if possible. Cut it out carefully along the outside heavy lines. Fold the two sides of the heart back along the outer dotted lines, as shown in the small drawing on the left. Then fold forward along the two inner dotted lines.

When the heart is closed, the little boy will peek over the top as in the small drawing on the right. When the heart is open, you can stand the boy up. Either way, he wants to be your valentine.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Having Married Against Family's Will, Wife Feels Depressed And Rejected

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: John and I are married seven years and have five lovely children, the fifth born last July. We married against my family's wishes, shortly after he got out of the Army. Mother had wanted me to wait until John could offer financial security, but I was too much in love to wait . . .

In the next three years we produced three children, and John got through a four-years' college course. He graduated with honors, meanwhile working like a fool to meet our expenses.

My family has money. Mother inherited a goodly amount and when dad died (in the second year of my marriage), he left her considerable insurance and real estate. She asked me to sign over my share of the cash, indicating it wasn't much and she would use it towards the education of the younger children. Later I learned my share was about $1,500—and it would have been a godsend to us.

Her Husband
Is Wonderful

Since the fifth child's birth I can't seem to get on my feet. I've been sick a good deal and irritable with the children, who are getting irritable, too. John is wonderful with the housework, the children, the shopping, and he has a very good job and still goes to night school. I love him very, very much.

I realize my depression is partly due to my mother's rejection of me. It will be four years this summer since I've been home; and the reason is, my mother always has some excuse why I can't come, any time I suggest it. (John doesn't realize this.) When I had my fifth child, one of my sisters wanted to help me, and mother telephoned and told me in no uncertain terms that she didn't want "her daughter" working the way I do.

I find myself withdrawing from friends, and finding fault and getting hurt at even insignificant things. I guess the whole thing is, socially I am a flop. I have neither the time nor the money. At home my family is socially tops, and the whole family is pretty dependent on mother . . . I used to be happy, carefree and enjoy people. Lately I am so edgy and depressed. How can I get back to my old self? —C.Y.

Spirit Broken
By Dual Stress

DEAR C.Y.: Here is your letter, cut to a fragment. As I get the picture, you are "tired of it all," temporarily, due to a blend of physical and emotional stress, long sustained without respite.

Continuous child bearing in circumstances of genteel poverty, plus emotional strain—caused by love of your husband, plagued by guilty dismay at your mother's fixed displeasure—has finally broken your spirit. And so you need a new spirit, as it were, to revive your erstwhile enjoyment of living.

Your somewhat childish ineptness at housekeeping is probably a minor factor contributing to your fatigue. But if you felt "in" with your mother—accepted and endorsed by her—you'd be developing know-how, instead of losing ground, in your bailiwick. Because your mind will be more free, and your energies too—to tackle the day's routine. As it is, much of your potential vitality is drained away in an undertow of unconscious misery—having to do with your frustrated status in relation to your family.

Mother Seems
A Wrong Sort

In my book, your mother is about as wrong as a mother can be. She is a snob and a phony in the social field. As a parent she is utterly selfish, to-wit: 1. Willing to finesse you out of money which you needed desperately, as she did not. 2. Unwilling to bother with you and your brood, because you are "poor relations" in her scale of values. 3. Relentless in pointedly "rejecting" you for marrying against her wishes—although I surmise she's never been "close" to you.

Your four years with the WAVES, and the fact that you were away in college at government expense (prior to marriage) suggests that you were involuntarily in flight from a pernicious raw deal of sorts at home that was your misfortune, not your "fault."

Now for advice. You do need rest, as John insists. So, if your family would have you for a visit without the children (as your censored data indicate), I think you should go home, perhaps taking the baby and let John and a hired—caretaker (maybe a good neighbor) look after the other small fry in your absence. Stay 10 days or two weeks. And read "God's Reach" by Glenn Clark (Macalaster Park) or Emmet Fox's "Sermon On The Mount" (Harpers), while on vacation, to attain the new spirit of higher understanding that conquers problems. THE BALD FACTS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—If baldheadedness runs in your family, Dr. Thomas G. Jansen of the University of Michigan medical school advises that you "just recognize the inevitable and adjust accordingly. There is little you can do—except buy a hat." Dr. Jansen a skin specialist, says sudden baldness can be connected with emotional distrubances, but such baldness persists in only about one per cent of the cases.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Select Correct Foods For Excellent Nutrition

Today let me give you a little review of some of the foods which are extremely important in health. As you will see, many of them are inexpensive.

1. Kidney beans and dried navy beans are fine sources of vitamin B1 and fair sources of vitamin B2. Also, they are wonderful sources of vegetable protein and can be used well on days when you do not have meat.

2. Whole grain cereals are a splendid source of vitamin B complex and can be used in many ways; in cereals, breads, muffins, meat loaves and desserts.

3. Cabbage is a wonderful source of vitamin C, especially when eaten raw. Much of its vitamin C content is lost during cooking.

4. Carrots are rich in vitamin A. They also give you some B1 and some C but their main value is because of their vitamin A content.

BEET GREENS

5. Beet greens are excellent for their vitamin A content, have fair amounts of vitamin B1 and C, and are superlative for their vitamin B2 content.

6. The southern collard green is a queen in the field of nutrition. An excellent source of vitamin A, a good source of B1 and a fair source of B2 and C, it also brings you wonderful amounts of calcium, iron, phosphorous and potassium. Turnip greens and kale are also most valuable.

7. Apricots are almost as high in iron as liver, and also provide a wonderful vitamin A intake. Dried ones are as valuable as fresh ones.

8. Broccoli is high in vitamin A and also a fine source of vitamin B2. It also has lots of calcium.

9. Eggs should be a "must" on your menus—at least five a week. They are important for their protein and vitamin content. These should be a regular part of your diet.

10. Molasses and prunes are valuable sources of iron.

11. All sea food is important, not only for its protein value but because of its iodine content.

12. Of course, beef, lamb, pork, liver and chicken, are all valuable for their bodybuilding proteins and also for their vitamin and mineral content.

MILK DAILY

13. I have left milk and cheese for the last, not because they are unimportant but rather to highlight them. Milk should be a part of every diet. Too many women think of this as a food their children must have, not they. Every adult should have at least two glasses of milk every day unless there is some special problem in health which causes your doctor to advise otherwise.

14. Also remember that your most reliable source of vitamin C is the citrus fruit juices.

15. Another important "remember" — cheap cuts of meat have the same health value as the more expensive ones. They just take longer cooking and more imagination in preparation to make them taste wonderful.

If you will study this column a bit you will discover that you can be well nourished on a rather small, food budget and that many of the distinguished foods are inexpensive.

Solution Of Today's Puzzle Found On Classified Page

Outstanding Cast In 'Bridges Of Toko-Ri'

The intensely human and highly suspenseful story of our fighting Naval jet flyers who so gallantly fought the recent Korean war, is the subject matter of Paramount's brand new Technicolor production, "The Bridges at Toko-ri," which is due to open today at the Paramount Theatre. Based on the James A. Michener best selling novel of the same title, the film stars William Holden, Grace Kelly, Fredric March and Mickey Rooney.

Filmed on location in Tokyo and off the Korean coast aboard the massive aircraft carriers that just a few scant months before were locked in deadly combat with the enemy, "The Bridges At Toko-ri" is a hard-hitting, searing document on modern warfare. Never before in the history of film-making have such startling scenes of aerial warfare been photographed.

In addition to the scenic excitement, the picture abounds with the taut and explosive drama of men in the midst of death and destruction. It is also the story of the fleet admiral, Fredric March's relationship with his men, particularly that with a young flying lieutenant, William Holden, whose family has just arrived in Tokyo from the States. It is Holden's duty to fly a mission regarded as the most dangerous of the entire campaign.

How these events are pictured on the more important canvas of the Korean war is the great story so magnificently related in "The Bridges At Toko-ri." Produced by William Perlberg and George Seaton and directed by Mark Robson from a screenplay by Valentine Davies, this very human celluloid document is heralded as the finest war film to have come from Hollywood in many years.

With its fine cast, its inspiring story based on the Korean War's most important novel, "The Bridges At Toko-ri" emerges as a highlight of the new cinema season.

Ensign Millard A. Posey, U. S. N., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Posey, 3500 Grammont Street, was on the ship from the time it left California until Ens. Posey was lost at sea in the Hawaiian area.

A graduate of Bastrop High School in the class of 1945, Posey attended Louisiana Tech until he joined the Naval Air Force in Sept. of 1950. Posey joined the navy in New Orleans and was sent to the naval training station at Pensacola, Fla. He later received his wings as a jet pilot there.

Prior to going overseas, Posey participated in the World Air Show at Phoenix, Ariz., as a member of the Blue Angels, and later was in the jet demonstration at the Boy Scout jamboree in California.

GREEN FIRE—Paul Douglas, Grace Kelly and Stewart Granger, as they will appear on the Jim Theater screen in M-G-M's new CinemaScope drama, "Green Fire," filmed in color largely on arresting and unusual locations in Columbia, South America. Granger and Douglas enact adventures who discover an emerald mine near a coffee plantation owned by Miss Kelly, a discovery which leads to momentous incidents.

'The Prodigal'

By SAMUEL JAMES LARSON
(Guest Columnist)

HOLLYWOOD, February 12 — The parable of the Prodigal son is one of the best known and most sermonized stories in the western world. It is familiar to anyone who has a nodding acquaintance with the New Testament, and almost equally so to anyone who does not. From the loftiest pulpit to the most humble stump meeting, the prodigal has his say. Now, MGM has brought him to the screen. It is something of a miracle that he has not arrived before.

I have more than an academic interest in "The Prodigal," since Joe Breen, Jr., and I were the ones who prepared the adaptation from which Maurice Zimm wrote the screenplay. The story itself is old. It was old even in the time of Christ when he used it as an object lesson in folly. And, like all old stories, it has survived because it expresses something true and unchanging about the nature of man. It is as old as the fall from Eden, and as new as the farm boy who takes the seed money and spends it on high living in Las Vegas. It has become one of the basic plots in literature. But never has it been told better, or more economically, than by a physician named Luke.

Luke's economy, however, caused him to write the tale in a mere twenty two lines, which presents something of a challenge to the screen writer who must fill almost two hours of playing time. The Gospel story specifically mentions only five characters — the prodigal son, his brother, his father, a citizen in a far country (who sent him to feed swine), and a servent in his father's house. None of these characters are identified by name, but with the exception of the servants, much can be implied.

The first task was to give them names. The prodigal son became Micah, his brother became Joram, his father Eli, and the distant citizen was called Nahreeb. The next step was to make as many logical inferences as possible concerning these four men.

Action is said to speak louder than words, and it was Micah's deeds that gave us a clue to his character. He was the youngest son, strong, willful, filled with laughter and the need for fun; he was heedless of others, and possibly a bit spoiled.

Eli was characterized by his reaction to the return of his son. The fact that he gave his son that portion of substance which he demanded did not point to his kindness but rather to his obedience of the law of Moses. Micah had a right to demand his share, and Eli had little choice in the matter. Micah's return, however, proved him to be a loving father. He greeted his son, cried tears of joy, clothed him in fine garments, and ordered a feast to be prepared.

When Joram heard of the celebration, he was angered. He had worked in the fields all day, and when he returned home for a quiet meal and a peaceful bed, he found his scapegrace brother enjoying a feast. Micah, who had wasted his substance with harlots, was given the fatted calf, while Joram, the dutiful son, was seemingly overlooked.

With these three characters, a picture began to emerge: Eli lived on a farm with his two sons. He was certain of Joram's devotion and took it for granted. He indulged Micah in his whims, while Joram plodded along, did his work, and built up a seething resentment.

Thus far, the implications were fairly direct. But when Micah left home, there had to be a motive, and the story teller's invention was called into play. Family ties were taken more seriously then than now, but to a man of Micah's temperament, the lure of the flesh was stronger than the filial bond.

A caravan headed for Damascus stopped at the nearby town of Joppa, and there Micah saw Samarra, who was exceedingly fair. He desired her. In Joppa, she was unobtainable. He resolved to travel to Damascus, and forthwith demanded his share of the family inheritance.

Al stories require a villain, and Nahreeb was elected. This citizen of the far country set Micah to tending swine, which was the most repugnant job a Jew could acquire. Nor did Nahreeb feed Micah, for the prodigal was reduced to eating the husks the swine did not eat.

Bad villains, like heroes, require motives, and again fiction came to rescue. Samarra was a beautiful woman, and Nahreeb desired her quite s much as Micah. It was with pleasure that Nahreeb watched Micah squander his fortune. With cunning, he helped the process along, and he had his revenge by enslaving Micah and inflicting humiliation.

Thus was established the basic framework. But the Prodigal Son story has a grandeur and scope that requires more than a few people to tell. There was high adventure; there was travel and escape and the arid trek across the desert to home. There was the tragic frenzy of a city in famine. There were deeds of heroism and knavery, sights of beauty and ugliness.

So it was that, from twenty-two lines ,a story grew.

Three Scouters Get Recognition

Three staff members of the Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, have received recognition from both national and regional levels for the past year's records. All have been qualified as members of the coveted Opportunity Club.

The Opportunity Club is made up of those council and staff members who qualify with at least 10 per cent gain in the three phases of scouting. These are cub, boy and explorer scouts. The Ouachita council achieved a 16.5 per cent gain over the previous year.

A large delegation from this council is expected to attend the regional meeting. Included in this group will be regional committee member A. B. Clarkson; Council President, Een Parnell; and several other executive board members from the seven district that make up the council.

Outstanding Cast In 'Bridges Of Toko-Ri'

The intensely human and highly suspenseful story of our fighting Naval jet flyers who so gallantly fought the recent Korean war, is the subject matter of Paramount's brand new Technicolor production, "The Bridges at Toko-ri," which is due to open today at the Paramount Theatre. Based on the James A. Michener best selling novel of the same title, the film stars William Holden, Grace Kelly, Fredric March and Mickey Rooney.

Filmed on location in Tokyo and off the Korean coast aboard the massive aircraft carriers that just a few scant months before were locked in deadly combat with the enemy, "The Bridges At Toko-ri" is a hard-hitting, searing document on modern warfare. Never before in the history of film-making have such startling scenes of aerial warfare been photographed.

In addition to the scenic excitement, the picture abounds with the taut and explosive drama of men in the midst of death and destruction. It is also the story of the fleet admiral, Fredric March's relationship with his men, particularly that with a young flying lieutenant, William Holden, whose family has just arrived in Tokyo from the States. It is Holden's duty to fly a mission regarded as the most dangerous of the entire campaign.

How these events are pictured on the more important canvas of the Korean war is the great story so magnificently related in "The Bridges At Toko-ri." Produced by William Perlberg and George Seaton and directed by Mark Robson from a screenplay by Valentine Davies, this very human celluloid document is heralded as the finest war film to have come from Hollywood in many years.

With its fine cast, its inspiring story based on the Korean War's most important novel, "The Bridges At Toko-ri" emerges as a highlight of the new cinema season.

With the showing of "The Bridges of Toko-Ri" in Monroe, special interests is being shown in the aircraft carrier from which the group flew since a former resident of this area was on the U. S. S. Orinskay when it left the West Coast.

Ensign Millard A. Posey, U. S. N., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Posey, 3500 Grammont Street, was on the ship from the time it left California until Ens. Posey was lost at sea in the Hawaiian area.

A graduate of Bastrop High School in the class of 1945, Posey attended Louisiana Tech until he joined the Naval Air Force in Sept. of 1950. Posey joined the navy in New Orleans and was sent to the naval training station at Pensacola, Fla. He later received his wings as a jet pilot there.

Prior to going overseas, Posey participated in the World Air Show at Phoenix, Ariz., as a member of the Blue Angels, and later was in the jet demonstration at the Boy Scout jamboree in California.

He was on the U. S. S. Orinskay when it left California on Sept. 15, 1953, and was killed at sea during maneuvers 10 days later.

GREEN FIRE—Paul Douglas, Grace Kelly and Stewart Granger, as they will appear on the Jim Theater screen in M-G-M's new CinemaScope drama, "Green Fire," filmed in color largely on arresting and unusual locations in Columbia, South America. Granger and Douglas enact adventures who discover an emerald mine near a coffee plantation owned by Miss Kelly, a discovery which leads to momentous incidents.

'The Prodigal'

By SAMUEL JAMES LARSON
(Guest Columnist)

HOLLYWOOD, February 12 — The parable of the Prodigal son is one of the best known and most sermonized stories in the western world. It is familiar to anyone who has a nodding acquaintance with the New Testament, and almost equally so to anyone who does not. From the loftiest pulpit to the most humble stump meeting, the prodigal has his say. Now, MGM has brought him to the screen. It is something of a miracle that he has not arrived before.

I have more than an academic interest in "The Prodigal," since Joe Breen, Jr., and I were the ones who prepared the adaptation from which Maurice Zimm wrote the screenplay. The story itself is old. It was old even in the time of Christ when he used it as an object lesson in folly. And, like all old stories, it has survived because it expresses something true and unchanging about the nature of man. It is as old as the fall from Eden, and as new as the farm boy who takes the seed money and spends it on high living in Las Vegas. It has become one of the basic plots in literature. But never has it been told better, or more economically, than by a physician named Luke.

Luke's economy, however, caused him to write the tale in a mere twenty two lines, which presents something of a challenge to the screen writer who must fill almost two hours of playing time. The Gospel story specifically mentions only five characters — the prodigal son, his brother, his father, a citizen in a far country (who sent him to feed swine), and a servant in his father's house. None of these characters are identified by name, but with the exception of the servants, much can be implied.

The first task was to give them names. The prodigal son became Micah, his brother became Joram, his father Eli, and the distant citizen was called Nahreeb. The next step was to make as many logical inferences as possible concerning these four men.

Action is said to speak louder than words, and it was Micah's deeds that gave us a clue to his character. He was the youngest son, strong, willful, filled with laughter and the need for fun; he was heedless of others, and possibly a bit spoiled.

Eli was characterized by his reaction to the return of his son. The fact that he gave his son that portion of substance which he demanded did not point to his kindness but rather to his obedience of the law of Moses. Micah had a right to demand his share, and Eli had little choice in the matter. Micah's return, however, proved him to be a loving father. He greeted his son, cried tears of joy, clothed him in fine garments, and ordered a feast to be prepared.

When Joram heard of the celebration, he was angered. He had worked in the fields all day, and when he returned home for a quiet meal and a peaceful bed, he found his scapegrace brother enjoying a feast. Micah, who had wasted his substance with harlots, was given the fatted calf, while Joram, the dutiful son, was seemingly overlooked.

With these three characters, a picture began to emerge: Eli lived on a farm with his two sons. He was certain of Joram's devotion and took it for granted. He indulged Micah in his whims, while Joram plodded along, did his work, and built up a seething resentment.

Thus far, the implications were fairly direct. But when Micah left home, there had to be a motive, and the story teller's invention was called into play. Family ties were taken more seriously then than now, but to a man of Micah's temperament, the lure of the flesh was stronger than the filial bond.

A caravan headed for Damascus stopped at the nearby town of Joppa, and there Micah saw Samarra, who was exceedingly fair. He desired her. In Joppa, she was unobtainable. He resolved to travel to Damascus, and forthwith demanded his share of the family inheritance.

Al stories require a villain, and Nahreeb was elected. This citizen of the far country set Micah to tending swine, which was the most repugnant job a Jew could acquire. Nor did Nahreeb feed Micah, for the prodigal was reduced to eating the husks the swine did not eat.

But villains, like heroes, require motives, and again fiction came to rescue. Samarra was a beautiful woman, and Nahreeb desired her quite s much as Micah. It was with pleasure that Nahreeb watched Micah squander his fortune. With cunning, he helped the process along, and he had his revenge by enslaving Micah and inflicting humiliation.

Thus was established the basic framework. But the Prodigal Son story has a grandeur and scope that requires more than a few people to tell. There was high adventure; there was travel and escape and the arid trek across the desert to home. There was the tragic frenzy of a city in famine. There were deeds of heroism and knavery, sights of beauty and ugliness.

So it was that, from twenty-two lines ,a story grew.

Three Scouters Get Recognition

Three staff members of the Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, have received recognition from both national and regional levels for the past year's records. All have been qualified as members of the coveted Opportunity Club.

The Opportunity Club is made up of those council and staff members who qualify with at least 10 per cent gain in the three phases of scouting. These are cub, boy and explorer scouts. The Ouachita council achieved a 16.5 per cent gain over the previous year.

A large delegation from this council is expected to attend the regional meeting. Included in this group will be regional committee member A. B. Clarkson; Council President, Ben Parnell; and several other executive board members from the seven district that make up the council.

After you have solved them and found the name each puzzle represents, fill in your answers on the coupon at the lower right.

Then, without sending in any money, mail in your answers—upon receipt of which we will send you the FREE Encyclopedia Volume as promised, plus additional puzzles and complete details of this wonderful opportunity to win $50,000.00, $10,000.00, $7,500.00, $5,000.00 or any other of the 400 Cash Prizes listed at the left.

Why We Make This Amazing Educational Offer!

Frankly, we are presenting this big $100,000.00 Contest in order further to increase the ever-growing popularity of The Standard International Encyclopedia. And while there is no obligation to you when we send you Volume One FREE, we do hope that when you fully understand this contest and the opportunities it brings you, you will decide to continue in the contest and to accept the remaining nineteen volumes of the Encyclopedia—at the rate of two volumes a month, for the almost unbelievably low price of only $1.89 per volume plus postage.

We repeat, however, that in sending in your answers to Puzzles 1, 2 and 3, you do not obligate yourself either to continue in the contest or to purchase the rest of the volumes! You simply start in the contest, and you receive Volume One ABSOLUTELY FREE, with the privilege of continuing on your way toward perhaps winning $50,000.00, $10,000.00, $7,500.00, $5,000.00 or any other of 400 Cash Prizes that must be won!

Should you decide to continue, we will be more than happy to welcome you as a full-fledged contestant. But should you decide not to proceed, all you do is inform us that you do not want the rest of the set, and that's where the matter will end—without any obligation to you, and with Volume One yours FREE in any event, as an absolute, outright gift!

Don't Delay! Act Now!

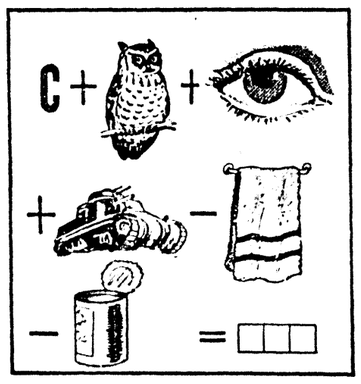
This Sample Puzzle Will Give You The Idea



THE SOLUTION IS ONE OF THE LAST NAMES BELOW:

Edward W. BOK	Peter PAN	Franz ABT
Robert E. LEE	Francis Scott KEY	Edgar Allan POE

Before you try solving Puzzles 1, 2 and 3 above, let's get the idea by solving this Sample Puzzle together:

Note, first of all, the various letters and objects pictured, and the plus and minus signs: C plus OWL plus EYE plus TANK. Add 'em together and we've got COWLEYETANK . . . after which we see minus TOWEL minus CAN . . . which means that from COWLEYETANK we take away the letters TOWELCAN, leaving only the letters YEK.

So we now scan the list of names under the puzzle and sure enough, there we see the last name of Francis Scott KEY, and we note that by rearranging the letters Y E K into K E Y, we have KEY as the correct solution to this puzzle.

Now, see how well you can do by yourself with Puzzle 1, 2 and 3 above . . . and then send in your answers on the coupon that appears below so that we can send you your FREE Volume One of The Standard International Encyclopedia!

Tales of the Great Book

THE UNSELFISH LOVE OF RUTH

by John Lehti

SOME TIME AFTER ELIMELECH'S DEATH, HIS ELDEST SON, MAHLON, DECIDES TO MARRY RUTH, A MOABITESS....AND, ACCORDING TO THE CUSTOMS OF THOSE TIMES, MAHLON PROBABLY ESCORTED HIS BRIDE HOME AMIDST A PROCESSION OF CELEBRATING FRIENDS...

I...I HOPE I FIND FAVOR IN THE EYES OF YOUR MOTHER.

I KNOW YOU WILL, RUTH!

MAY YOUR CHILDREN BE AS PLENTIFUL AS THE OLIVE BRANCHES.

...SO RUTH BECOMES A MEMBER OF ELIMELECH'S FAMILY...AND, AS IN EVERY DAY AND AGE, WHAT IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN A BRIDE'S FIRST MEAL FOR HER HUSBAND?

I'M VERY ANXIOUS TO SERVE MY FIRST MEAL TO MAHLON!

WE HAVE PLENTY IN THE LARDER—WHAT DO YOU WISH TO PREPARE?

OHH! SOMETHING SPECIAL... MAHLON KNOWS WHAT'S IN THE LARDER AND I WANT IT TO BE A COMPLETE SURPRISE FOR HIM!

IF SUCH AN INCIDENT EVER OCCURRED...IF RUTH EVER DID TRY TO COOK A SURPRISE FOR HER HUSBAND- SHE PROBABLY SHOPPED VERY DILIGENTLY, LIKE THIS....

I WANT THE FRESHEST, FATTEST, MOST TENDER YOUNG KID YOU HAVE-- AND ENOUGH OF ITS MOTHER'S MILK TO MAKE A SAVORY SAUCE!

MY! YOU MUST BE PLANNING A SACRIFICE TO THE GODS OF MOAB WITH SUCH A SUCCULENT DISH!
